Girls Robbed in Holdup of Roadhouse

50 PATRONS, EMPLOYES VICTIMS

Eight Men Line Up Crowd In Babcock Blvd., Ingram Carbarn Looted by Band

Gaiety-seeking girls and young men who danced the night away at the Villa Royale roadhouse in Babcock boulevard returned to their homes today thoroughly robbed and thoroughly scared by eight armed bandits.

Fifty or more patrons, entertainers and employes were lined against a wall and robbed of $800 and jewelry.

A half hour later, six or more bandits, possibly the same mob, invaded the Ingram street car barns, threatened two employes and escaped with $1,400 in cash and tokens.

One girl who refused to line up against the cabaret wall was knocked down, others were robbed of their jewelry, according to one patron.

STORM DRESSING ROOM

One of the bandits tore into the dressing room and forced Sally Sarraf, young Pittsburgh blues singer, and other entertainers to line up with the patrons and the orchestra members. Many thought the holdup was a joke at first.

Pope told the story of the stickup:

"There were eight of them between 20 and 30 years old. They covered Bill Ash, the parking attendant, and marched him to the dining room. Three of them went to the kitchen in the rear while two lined up the musicians and their wives. The other three stood guard outside. They took $600 from me and about $200 from the others. They wisecracked and joked all the while. I asked one of them why he went in for that sort of thing and he said 'You'll do anything when you're hungry. He was well dressed.

"They herded us into the dining room following the robbery and told us if we moved for five minutes it wouldn't be good for us. We sat. Everyone but the entertainers had gone when the robbery occurred.

PATROLMEN IN CHASE

State Highway Patrolmen reached the roadhouse 10 minutes later and promptly gave chase to the fugitives.

In the Ingram carbarn, at Windgap road and Berry street, Walter C. Donovan, the night dispatcher, and Frank Brown, foreman, were ordered to lie on the floor while the mob collected $1,250 in tokens, $144 in cash and overlooked $70.

Suicide Spurs Probe in Lindy Case 'Bungling'

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 13.—Characterizing the circumstances surrounding the suicide of Miss Violet Sharpe, "the girl whom suspicion killed," as an "outrage," Senator Emerson L. Richards declared today that he will demand a special session of the New Jersey Legislature to investigate the alleged police blundering in the Lindbergh baby kidnaping case.

Senator Richards ridiculed the activities of Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police, who has been in command of the Lindbergh investigation. He said the suicide of the Sharpe girl was an outrage in view of the fact that there is "no evidence linking her with the crime."

LONDON, June 13.—(INS.)—The British government will take "whatever action is required" in connection with the death of Violet Sharpe, young domestic whose suicide is laid by British public opinion to the "hounding" of New Jersey police, the Foreign Office announced today.

F. Seymour Cooks, Laborite member of Parliament, announced he would raise the issue of the suicide in the House of Commons Wednesday and would suggest that the foreign office make the proper representations at Washington.

CONFIDENCE OF FAMILY

(Copyright, 1932, International News Service, Inc.)

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., June 13.—(INS.)—Young Violet Sharpe, trusted maid in the home of Mrs. Dwight Morrow during her life, is trusted still—in death.

She simply was frightened to her death by constant grueling at the hands of police and perhaps troubled by some inadvertent contact with the guilty parties, Miss Sharpe's mistress and her family are convinced.

This was ascertained today from a close friend of the family, who was—like the Morrows—deeply grieved at "this new tragedy that has come into the Englewood house."

Red Cross Official and Wife Shot

Police investigating the case said Brenner apparently shot his wife with a .32 caliber revolver and then turned the gun on himself. Both suffered wounds in the head.

BONUS TEST VOTE WON BY VETS

Congressmen Vote 226 to 175 to Take Up Patman Bill for Cash Payment

Allegheny County Vote on Bonus

Congressman Sullivan was absent and did not vote.

Congressman Erk voted "present" and was paired for the motion.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The House today voted to consider cash payment of the $2,400,000,000 World War veterans' bonus in the first test on the Patman bill. The vote was 226 to 175.

The smashing victory of the bonus forces came on a motion to discharge the Rules Committee, which had pigeonholed the measure, from considering it further.

In taking this action the House overrode its recognized leaders who made an effort to kill the bill in committee. The step assures a final vote on the Patman bill with debate and the right of amendment.

A tense atmosphere enveloped the whole chamber as the long roll call followed 20 minutes of tempestuous debate. The galleries were crowded.

In keeping with the decision of leaders of the bonus army to hold only orderly demonstrations, the great body of veterans remained away from the Capitol.

Members who are leading the fight for cash payment let loose cheers and yells as the result of the ballot was announced. It marked the climax of a fight led by Representative Patman (Dem.), of Texas, when he introduced Bill No. 1 in the House last December—a bill for cash payment.

KLINE 'FIXING' TRIAL OPENS

By E. C. SYKES
Staff Correspondent.

BUTLER, Pa., June 13.—Howard Gross, a stationary engineer in the East Liberty Police Station, Pittsburgh, was identified in court today as the man who called on prospective jurors in the malfeasance trial of Mayor Charles H. Kline and his former supplies director, Bertram L. Succop, which was postponed because of alleged jury tampering.

Gross, who is 48, married, the father of four children, and lives at 508 Rosedale street, Pittsburgh, was the first of four men and a woman, all of Pittsburgh, who are to face trial here on charges of embracery and conspiracy in connection with the Kline case. He is charged with embracery.

NAMED BY PRIEST

The identification was made shortly after the trial opened today, by the Rev. Francis Clifford, of Murrinsville, a priest, who was indicted for embracery along with the others, but whose case was quashed at the request of District Attorney Edgar H. Negley, of Butler.

Father Clifford was positive in his identification, but said under cross-examination that Gross had made no attempt so far as he

Dry Row Splits State Ranks; Martin Issues Warning on Stampede

By MARK SHIELDS, Political Editor.

CHICAGO, June 13.—In the Pennsylvania caurus this morning, State Chairman Edward Martin, recogniizng the conflict over prohibition, urged the delegates to "keep their feet on the ground" and not be stampeded.

Previously Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute, in a terse statement, summed up the attitude of irreconcilable anti-prohibitionists by saying:

"If President Hoover repudiates or attempts to repudiate a plank for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, then we should repudiate the President."

Church arrived on a special train with Pennsylvania delegates, prepared to press for inclusion in the platform his plank for complete repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. During the morning he conferred with Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, and other anti-prohibition leaders on the strategy to be adopted in the prohibition fight.

Church held a short discussion with Senator Horace Schantz, of Lehigh County, chairman of the special committee of five Pennsylvania delegates named to recommend to the general caucus to-

Two Women Fliers Land In Fog Here

Two Pittsburgh women pilots, lost in the fog, made forced landings on Pittsburgh golf courses today.

Both escaped injury, but the husband of one was in an auto accident speeding to his wife's side.

Mrs. Helen Ball landed her ship on No. 8 green of South Hills Country Club. Her husband, Clifford Ball, in speeding to the course from Bettis Field, was held up when his car collided with another.

Both pilots left East Liverpool, O., today to fly to Pittsburgh.

DAWES BOOMED AS CURTIS FOE

CHICAGO, June 13.—(AP.)—In the first definite move to seek another name in the second position on the Republican ticket, the Illinois delegation tonight will consider whether to place Charles G. Dawes in nomination against Charles Curtis.

Whether the retiring president of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and former ambassador to England would again be willing to run for the vice presidency is a point of uncertainty. Dawes is in Washington and his attitude toward the vice presidency is not known here.

Garner Expected At Post Thursday

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(AP.)—Indications today were that the House will have to proceed through several more of the session's closing days without the personal leadership of Speaker Garner, who is ill with a bronchial infection.

Dr. George Calver said the Speaker should be out of bed by Wednesday and "barring unforseen complications he will be able to be back at the Capitol Thursday or Friday.

SENTIMENT FOR REPEAL GROWS AT CHICAGO

Spokesmen for President Forced to Abandon Plan To Straddle Question

By WILLIAM E. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

CHICAGO, June 13.—The rising tide of sentiment among delegates to the Republican convention for outright repeal of prohibition today forced President Hoover's lieutenants to "moisten" the administration's modest resubmission plank.

This was the outstanding development over the week-end on the prohibition question, which overshadows every other platform issue to be placed before the convention. It came just as the New York state delegation unanimously went on record for an outright repeal plank.

The plank, now said to have Mr. Hoover's approval, would call for submission by Congress of the prohibition issue "to the people of the states, to determine whether that (the Eighteenth) amendment shall be retained, repealed or revised." The last four words were eliminated in Washington by Mr. Hoover when the so-called "country club" plank was submitted to him after being approved by a conference of Republican senators, representatives and other administration leaders.

N. Y. FOR REPEAL

The administration forces, however, were compelled to restore these cryptic words in a desperate effort to forestall a convention bolt in favor of outright repeal. It failed to stem the New York delegation's action, even though Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills and numerous other Hoover leaders were members of the group.

Convention anti-drys declared they would oppose the administration plank in the Resolutions Committee and, if defeated there, would carry their repeal plank to the floor of the convention. They boasted that their polls indicated its probable adoption, despite administration opposition. In fact, the wets declared they would put the convention on record as favoring immediate modification of the Volstead act, in addition to

Rockefeller in Chicago, Invited Back to Dry Fold

CHICAGO, June 13.—(INS.)—Anti-drys fighting for a straight-out repeal plank in the Republican platform were aided to some extent today the unexpected arrival of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., whose conversion to the anti-prohibition cause last week was such a severe blow to the drys.

Rockefeller is not a delegate to the convention. He takes comparatively little interest in politics.

Yet his coming to Chicago at this time and under such circumstances created a profound stir among the delegates. Rockefeller slipped unobtrusively into Chicago this morning and a few hours later was in conference with Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, foremost repeal advocate.

Rockefeller, meanwhile, was endearingly invited to return to the fold of prohibtion.

The appeal was made by Mrs. Henry W. Peabody in addressing 2,000 women at a "loyalty luncheon" of the Women5s National Committee on Law Enforcement. She said:

"We must think of him with the outlaw brewers and distillers, the associations against the prohibition amendment, and the woman's organizations for repeal or rebellion.

"He also receives the hearty approval of the underworld, the machine politicians and the frings of fashionable society with capitalists like Raskob and Al Smith."

Rescued Sea Flier 'Well,' He Radios From Ship

ABOARD S. S. CIRCLE SHELL, June 13.—(INS.)—"I am well and going to New Orleans."

From aboard this British tanker, Stanislaus F. Hausner sent this brief message today in answer to numerous radio requests for information about his condition after he had been picked up floating for more than a week off the Azores in the crippled plane in which he had attempted to fly the Atlantic.

Hausner has been besieged with requests for stories of his flight from American and European news agencies. He was about deck today but had responded to none of them.

He asked Capt. James W. Wilson, commander of the Circle Shell, who directed his rescue, whether the tanker intended to put in at the Azores. Wilson informed him that he meant to continue on his course.

No reply has come to the broadcast sent out by the Circle Shell to other ships that might be in the vicinity, requesting that they pick up Hausner's plane, which apparently was in good condition when the flier was taken off.

Delegates Picking Cubs, Still Mum on Hoover

By WILL ROGERS

CHICAGO, June 13.—It was a beautiful Sunday afternoon here. Just the idea of Chicago having a Sunday strikes the rest of the country strange, don't it?

Well, you never saw as much excitement in your life. The whole town was all het up. You wouldnt' think Republicans could generate any enthusiasm, but they did and so did the Democrats. It must have been a great game; it went 13 innings and Chicago won it. Beat Boston 5 to 3 and the game wasn't even held here; it was in Boston. But the Cubs were fighting for the lead.

I started rushing around the various hotels and would ask:

"Well, what do you hear? Are they going to nominate Coolidge or Hoover?"

And the fellow would answer:

"Guy Bush has held 'em to three hits and it looks like he will win."

Nobody here knows they are holding a convention. There is lots of flags out, but Tuesday is Al Capone's birthday, so who knows?

Nicholas Murray Butler, the man that converted John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is here. He don't care so much about Rockefeller going wet; what he is after is a donation for Columbia University.

Ogden Mills, Secretary of the United States Treasury, arrived early. He had to borrow the money from France to get here on.

With Congress still in session and no congressmen and senators here, it's like going to Sister Aimee's temple without her being there. The whole town is on edge just waiting for the Democrats.

HOOVER'S PHONE BILL WORRIES WRITER

Dolly Gann on Hand to War For Brother Charlie; Vets' March Hints Bonus Row

By FLOYD GIBBONS

CHICAGO, June 13.—Hello, everybody!

Chicago looks like it might be going to have a picnic.

And Chicago ought to be picnic enough for anybody. It is to me. Just can't get over the great variety, this inland metropolis by this inland sea has to offer.

Why, you can take a taxi and in a few minutes you're out of the heat and the crowds of the Loop. Out past green trees, beautiful parks, smooth drives—right out to the Edgewater Beach Hotel.

You can sit there at a table—10 feet of glistening white sand between you and the brilliant green expanse of water, stretching away till it meets the blue line of the sky.

WATER-TAXI

And then a water taxi—a speed boat. The waiter hailed one. Down over that white beach and into that water greyhound, with my pal, Art Hughes, spinning the engine and turning the wheel over to me.

Zowie! Straight out into the choppy, sparkling waves 20 or 30 miles an hour. Zip! A great white wave behind—skimming along like a gull.

Back down the shore and smack through Chicago's beer parade. Funny, a beer parade held on water. All kinds of craft—yachts, speed boats, outboard motors. Decked in flags. Music playing. It's a new city sport Chicago hands you.

Then up the Chicago River. High buildings rising sheer on both sides. Under magnificent bridges through the heart of the business district.

SKYSCRAPER VENICE

Doesn't that sound like a picnic? Well, there's a lot of boys and girls with big blue and red badges sitting around hotel lobbies—even out under the trees in Lincoln Park—who don't seem to have any picnic spirit at all.

They're delegates—delegates to the Republican national convention.

Here are the streets—especially Michigan avenue—all decked out with flags and pennants and greeting signs. And say, every other one of those pennants has a blue field with a white elephant in it instead of stars.

Maybe if those elephants weren't white ones, those delegates wouldn't be so sad faced. The old party is carrying enough white as it is.

HINTS OF STORM

Feels something like a hot summer day when the air's full of lightning. Yes, sir, and there are a lot of streaks of it out there over Lake Michigan right now.

First thing that's happend over the week-end is that practically the whole government from Washington has moved out here.

And by this time everybody knows that where the government is, there isn't going to be any hilarious fun and amusement.

There's Postmaster General Walter Brown. Been here three days. Grabs the telephone every little while and gets in touch with President Hoover.

STIMSON IN CONFERENCE

Then there's Secretary Stimson. He's in conference most of the time. Got that habit abroad, probably. And there's Secretary Pat Hurley and Secretary Mills and Larry Richey, Mr. Hoover's confidential secretary. Larry gets more telephone calls from the White House than Walter Brown.

Say, I'll bet those long distance bills will keep White House economists up nights for weeks.

Of course Jim Watson and George Moses couldn't come out—that is not just yet, and Vice President Curtis is staying around Washington where the climate is dryer.

But by jingo, Dolly Gann hopped off a rattler today. She's going to look over Brother Charlie's fences. Somebody's got to tell those damp delegates to lay off Charlie. Well, she's going to do it. And even some of the old political wiseacres say she knows how.

VETS ON JOB

Maybe they did, in a way. But ey ran right smack into another reminder of the veteran question.

This afternoon when the delegates were sitting around wishing people would let the G. O. P. alone long enough to get its job done, Michigan avenue choked up with bugle and drum corps. Thousands of 'em. Red pants, zouave uniforms, army uniforms, gob clothes, pretty gal nurses in blue and white—yes, and a gal drum major—they all came down that grand old Boul Mich like a prairie sunset.

All American Legion men. Banners flying, band leaders stepping high and every fifteenth man beating the tar out of a big bass drum.

NO BONUS MARCH

Well, they weren't parading for the bonus. There's going to be a big military tournament here and this was a curtain raiser.

But jimminy, those flashy uniforms were reminiscent of some of the tattered ones that Washington officials saw last week when the boys demanded something to eat.

Doesn't make much difference whether any of the bonus army marches or not. Those delegates just know they've got to do something to give 9,000,000 hungry people jobs and something to eat.

All the delegates know that. And a lot of them are ready to come right out and declare for a $5,000,000,000 job loan to revive prosperity. Once the convention gets started on the subject of hunger, a flock of other issues are going to have to step into the waiting line.

DR. BUTLER ARRIVES

You know, while all these delegates were standing around at the depot, watching the trains come in, they got another shiver this morning.

Dr. Nick Murray Butler climbed off the train and taxied over to the Blackstone. That's where four or five big anti-dry organizations have their headquarters. And that's where they're plotting to turn out this whole wet town of Chicago in a parade—yes, two parades—tomorrow. And then they're going to hold a mass meeting and stir up all the anti-prohibition trouble they can.

Delegates looked over Dr. Butler, with his w[illegible]tache, and they noticed [illegible] around his breast pocket. [illegible] have been some examination papers from Columbia University. But the delegates suspected it was that letter from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., deserting the drys.

So you couldn't exactly say that a happy day was had by all.

I'll be seein' you on the air, boys and girls. Yes, sir, right on your front porch spouting what's going on at this convention through our old friend the mike.

Untin then, brush the cobwebs off that loud speaker.

Nation-Saving Delegates Don Hero Medals

-By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER-

CHICAGO, June 13.

The political leaders are all in Chicago today.

The badges run all sizes from saucers to soup plates. The delegates are here to save the nation and are wearing their medals for the brave deed they are going to perform.

We figure the Republican convention to run a week. But we hope for no improvements. When the meeting is over the boys will still be Republicans.

The situation hasn't changed a bit since Cleveland and Kansas City. The wets are lined up against the drys. And the boys are lined up against the bar.

But when the fireworks and the chemical experiments are over we predict that the Democrats will announce they have discovered perfect insulation. One foot on the brass rail and the other foot on sawdust. And you can stand any shock in the world.

DRY CRITICIZES ROCKEFELLER

The premises upon which John D. Rockefeller, Jr., based his plea for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment are wrong, Dr. Deets Pickett, of Washington, research secretary of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, Methodist Episcopal Church, declared at a community meeting last night in the Bellevue M. E. Church.

Instead of drinking's increasing under prohibition, he said, a careful government checkup has shown liquor consumption today is not more than 35 per cent of what it was under the saloon.

The Canadian system of government control would open the door, if applied in this country, to unprecedented political corruption, the speaker said.

"Legalizing liquor would put some men to work, but it would release more because men would spend on liquor what they now spend on shoes, clothing and food."

BUTLER URGES DRY ISSUE GO TO STATES

Proposal by Congress for Repeal Held Only Honest Way of Handling Question

Editor's Note—"The time has gone by for double-dealing and shuffling" in handling the prohibition question, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University and the original anti-dry leader of the Republican party, declares in an article written expressly for clients of International News Service. "Public opinion demands specific and courageous action," he adds. Dr. Butler's article follows:

By DR. NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER

CHICAGO, June 13.—There is only one honest and straightforward way of handling the prohibition question which will satisfy intelligent and enlightened public opinion; that is to ask Congress to submit without delay to the several states a proposal for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, this proposal to be acted upon by the several states through conventions of the people elected for this particular purpose. This will afford the only sort of referendum which is practicable under our form of government.

It is not necessary that all those who vote for this proposal shall themselves be in favor of repeal. To vote for it means that they are in favor of permitting the people to pass upon this question in the only way possible under our Constitution.

'RESUBMISSION RIDICULOUS'

What is called resubmission as a substitute for repeal is quite ridiculous and is worthy of the disposition of it which Senator Borah made in the Senate a few days ago. It is only a glorified form of Literary Digest poll taken under public auspices at huge expense and leading nowhere.

After this so-called resubmission had been completed the question of the Eighteenth Amendment would remain exactly where it is now. Unless the committee on resolutions represents a plank favoring the submission or repeal resolution to the people of the several states, their resolution will be contested on the floor of the convention.

Unless there be a satisfactory minority repeal report I shall myself move to amend the report of the Committee on Resolutions by striking out its plank on the prohibition question and inserting the plank which I myself shall offer. On this a roll call will be demanded and every delegate will have to state his position for or against the repeal resolution in a way that his constituents and the whole country can understand.

ACTION DEMANDED

The time has gone by for double dealing and shuffling in this important matter. Public opinion and Republican party opinion demand specific, courageous and constructive action to solve this grave social, political and economic matter which is costing our people so dear.

Kline Jury 'Fix' Suspect Identified by Priest In Butler Court

Father Clifford testified that the defendant came to his home on March 1 and introduced himself as "Mr. Gross, a special investigator from Pittsburgh."

Gross said, according to the priest, that he was "looking up things of interest regarding the jurors."

NO ATTEMPT TO INFLUENCE

Attorney James F. Callahan, of Pittsburgh, who is defending Ross, asked the priest if the defendant had tried to influence him to aid Kline. Father Clifford replied:

"No—nor anyone else."

Mrs. Katherine Gormley, one of the jury talesmen whom Gross is accused of approaching, preceded the priest on the witness stand.

"Did you ever see this man before?"

Mrs. Gormley answered:

"I saw a man who looked like him. He came to our place March 1. He just talked and said the trial of Mayor Kline was coming soon and he praised Mayor Kline."

PRAISE FOR KLINE

Negley asked:

"Do you recall just what he did say?"

"He had praise for Mayor Kline and said he was a good man."

Mrs. Gormley said the man who came to her home March 1 gave the name of John Murphy.

Later, she said, another man came to her to talk about the trial and said his name was John Williams. She added:

"He looked just like the first man except that he didn't have a mustache, but he denied he had talked to me before."

TROOPER TESTIFIES

Samuel May, a state policeman, was called by the prosecution and said that a man named Daniel Shaffer had identified Gross as a caller at the Gormley homestead. He also testified that he talked to Gross in the Butler state police barracks, saying:

"I talked to Gross there and he told me he had been to Cleveland, that he knew Father Clifford and found he was at Murrinsville and that he and a man named Williams went up there along with a man named Steele. He denied to me that he was at Gormley's but he was told right to his face by Shaffer that he was the man who drove to see Gormley."

The question of the mustache bobbed up again, and May said:

"The first time I saw him he had a small mustache. The next time I saw him he did not have one and denied ever having one."

The first witness of the trial, Sheriff Lawrence Thompson, preceded Mrs. Gormley. He gave routine testimony as to the summoning of jurors.

James A. Midberry, another of the first Kline jury panel, was asked by Negley if he knew Gross.

The witness looked at the defendant and said:

CLAIMS ALIBI

Gross' attorneys, Callahan and William H. Martin, of Butler, said he would plead not guilty, claiming his indictment was due to mistaken identity.

He is specifically accused of having approached Mrs. Margaret Hovis, Mrs. Gormley, Midberry and John Conrad, members of the jury, seeking to influence them in favor of the Mayor.

Gross said this morning, before the trial started, that he had been visiting James McMillan, of Prospect, the father of a sister-in-law, at the time the jury tampering is supposed to have occurred. He added:

"I haven't anything to fear. I didn't do anything wrong.

"Why, I don't even know Mayor Kline personally. I've only seen him a few times at political gatherings."

OTHER TRIALS SET

Following Gross' trial, District Attorney Negley said, Mrs. May Scott, wife of a Pittsburgh detective, her brother, Bert Daugherty, and W. H. Cook will be tried on charges of embracery and conspiracy.

Frank Norris, accused of embracery, will face the court after the other three, the District Attorney said.

A sixth defendant, Robert H. Cunningham, Turtle Creek contractor, has asked for a change of venue.

Dry Agents Arrest 3 In Ohio Raids

WHEELING, W. Va., June 13.—Federal prohibition officers, working in Ohio, Sunday, staged two raids, arresting Joe Bellella and Peter Stevis in a poolroom in Bellaire and Carl Dolina, at Martins Ferry. They confiscated a still and 2,000 bottles of beer.

Orchestra Pianist Dies in 9-Story Fall

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP.)—Theodore Poister, 28, of Galion, O., for two years a pianist in B. A. Rolfe's Orchestra, jumped or fell nine stories from a bathroom window of his apartment and was killed instantly. Detectives said he probably lost his balance and fell out.

EJECT CANNON HECKLERS AT DRY RALLY

International News Service.

CHICAGO, June 13.—Militant prohibitionists, led by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Church South, today protested against treatment at the hands of hecklers and the attitude of convention officials.

A group of anti-drys disrupted a meeting of the "loyalty convention" of associations supporting the Eighteenth Amendment yesterday at Third Presbyterian Church. After being ejected from the meeting, the anti-drys were forced to move on by a police squad at the request of the dry leaders.

The anti-prohibition group heckled Arthur M. Barnhart, chairman of the meeting, when he complained that only the anti-prohibitionists were permitted to distribute literature in Chicago hotels and railroad stations.

Barnhart, who declared the dry associations had been refused the use of a hall near the convention as a headquarters after renting it, the owner explaining that gangsters had threatened to bomb the place.

At this point, the leader of the anti-dry group shouted:

"You're all racketeers."

He was glared at, but no attempt was made to eject him. Then Bishop Cannon arose and began an attack on Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, later directing his attention to former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

The leader of the anti-dry group arose. He shouted:

"Are your own skirts clean, Bishop?"

Attendants surrounded him and informed him he would have to leave. He retorted:

"I'm a taxpayer. I want to know why a tax-free institution like this church can hold meetings of political racketeers."

One dry, with a Bible in his hand, took the floor. He said:

"I prayed for the success of this meeting before I came. Let us now pray for the salvation of this brother."

UNITY PLEDGED BY DEMOCRATS

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP.)—Whatever the outcome of the Democratic national convention, the leaders of the party, including the unsuccessful presidential candidates, "will get behind the nominee and support him loyally."

This was the declaration of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Gov. Franklin Roosevelt, Jouett Shouse, Owen D. Young, Newton D. Baker, former Gov. James M. Cox, John W. Davis and 54 other leaders today as they joined in a united appeal for completion of the party's $1,500,000 victory fund before opening of the convention in Chicago on June 27.

The appeal was described as one of "practical politics." The joint message said:

"Now, when neither candidate nor platform is known, when neither gratification at the selection of an individual nor disappointment at the defeat of others can have its influence, is the time of all times for members of the organization to display their party patriotism."

Coxey Demands Money Inflation

So said Gen. Jacob S. Coxey, who led the first "hunger march" on Washington at the head of a ragged army of jobless, before he departed for Chicago, where he is due today.

He is an avowed candidate for the presidential nomination on the Republican ticket, and meant to fight for the votes of the Ohio delegation at the convention. Coxey is mayor of Massillon, O.

Hurley Not Seeking Post Held by Curtis

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(AP.)—Secretary Hurley, of the War Department, told newspapermen flatly today he is not a candidate for the Republican vice presidential nomination.

Dares Volcano to Recover Bodies of Youth, Girl

HILO, Hawaii, June 13.—(AP.)—Man descended into the fuming crater of Halemaumau—"House of Everlasting Fire"—and reclaimed from Pele, dreaded Hawaiian fire goddess, the bodies of a despairing lover and the sweetheart he slew before leaping into the volcano, clasping her body.

A daring Japanese contractor, Rikan Kunishi, gambled with death yesterday as he was lowered into the firepit of Kilauea volcano, returning eight hours later with the bodies of Sylvester Nunes, 20, and Margaret Enos, 17.

The descent was made in a tiny cage suspended perilously from a cable stretched across the pit, into which Kunishi would have plunged to a boiling death in the lava, 1,200 feet below, had the cable broken.

Shortly after he reached the ledge 900 feet below the brink, on which the bodies lay, he signaled that his trip would be successful. He returned with the bodies strapped to his cage and claimed the $1,000 for which he contracted to do the job.

Nunes kidnaped and shot the girl June 2 because she refused to marry him, and then leaped into Pele's traditional home clasping his sweetheart's body.

Coffin Scores Hoover's Veto of New 'War Council'

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(AP.)—Friendly but sharp criticism was heaped upon President Hoover yesterday by Howard E. Coffin, nationally known Detroit engineer, for refusing to set up once more the Council of National Defense as a means to restore confidence.

Coffin, a member of the original council's advisory commission and one of those who framed the law creating the council in 1916, wrote Mr. Hoover that he was in error regarding that organization a war measure only. He maintained it was intended for non-partisan economic planning for the country's immediate and future welfare.

Further, Coffin criticized the past and present policy of the government in meeting the "destructive tide which threatens to overwhelm us," as "delayed defensive" tactics instead of "aggressive offensive," and said there seemed to be an obsession that "dollars—and dollars alone—can be used as ammunition by our defending forces."

He reminded Mr. Hoover that he himself was "first brought into the American picture" by the defense council and its advisory commission, which was responsible for his appointment as head of the food administration.

'PIG WOMAN' ILL, DONOHOE MURDER TRIAL HELD UP

DISAPPEARANCE STARTS KIDNAP RUMOR

Witness Returns During Recess, Ready to Again Face Accused Pair

By AL GOETZ
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 13.—A fainting spell by a star witness today upset the trial of R. C. Bledsoe, formery county detective, and Cosmo Stengoni, Masontown, for the murder of Constable Jack Donohoe three years ago. Mrs. Hannah Reed disappeared from the Courthouse before court opened today and county detectives and tipstaffs were sent in search of her. Court adjourned a half hour early. During the recess, Mrs. Reed returned.

She said that for the past year she had been subject to fainting spells and feeling faint this morning she left the court room. She said she simply left the court room for air, and that nobody had bothered her.

NAMED BLEDSOE

Mrs. Reed on Saturday had testified that she had seen Bledsoe and Tony Bell, acquitted former county detective, together shortly after the murder and that Stengoni had visited her house after the murder and told her to keep her mouth shut. When she disappeared reports were current that she had been kidnaped.

Only two witnesses were heard this morning. State Police Sergt. John Tomek gave mostly corroborative testimony and County Detective Jack Hann was called upon to identify exhibits admitted to evidence.

The state today planned to call Tony Bell to tell his version of the killing.

Bell's testimony was expected to provide startling disclosures of Fayette County's political racketeering. The state's star witness, one-time county detective and former Masontown police chief, has many things to tell in keeping with his promise to "clear his conscience."

FAIR DENY GUILT

Bell's version of the three-year-old slaying of Donohoe implicates Bledsoe, another former county detective, and Stengoni, alleged racketeer. The defendants on Saturday visited the scene of the crime with the jury of eight men and four women and stoutly denied their connection with the case.

Bledsoe, handcuffed to Stengoni and seated in the back seat of a Sheriff's car while the jury went over the ground, remarked to this correspondent:

"How could I be guilty of this murder? Look, they say I threw the gun in the river. Wouldn't I be just all kinds of a dumbbell to do a thing like that, me, a cop and all?"

Stengoni, maintaining the same stoic calm that has marked his demeanor since the trial started a week ago, just grunted.

Bledsoe, turning to him, asked:

"What do you say, Cosmo, wouldn't we be dumbbells to be in on anything like that?"

Stengoni grunted again.

The jurors visited a spot in the lonely lane where Donohoe's wrecked automobile was found with its bullet-riddled passenger on the morning of July 31, 1929.

Bonus Unit Moves Out of Pittsburgh

A group of belated bonus marchers from Youngstown, O., headed by former Mayor Joseph L. Heffernan, moved out of Pittsburgh yesterday on automobile trucks after spending the night at the Helping Hand. They stopped in McKeesport, where they attended a benefit motion picture show given to raise funds for McKeesport veterans.

Joseph Figulski, of Turtle Creek, led another detachment of veterans from that section. They carried a petition to Congressman Clyde Kelly.

Rival Jailed, Dick Gets Harrison Post

John E. Dick was appointed Township Commissioner for the First Ward of Harrison Township by Judge Elder W. Marshall today to take the place of Michael Friel, who resigned after he was sentenced to jail for a year for embezzlement of $3,000 tax funds.

Friel had been delinquent tax collector before his election last November as Township Commissioner. Dick was the defeated candidate for office.

Youth Hurt Fatally In Baseball Game

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va., June 13.—(AP.)—Injuries suffered in a sandlot baseball game at Henderson, near here, caused the death of a 19-year-old youth.

The victim, James Vernon Wamstey, of Henderson, and another boy collided as they ran through the outfield, both intent upon catching a high fly. Wamstey suffered internal injuries.

16 Die in Ecuador Rum Runner Battle

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, June 12. (AP.)—An outbreak of banditry in which a band of liquor thieves wiped out a detachment of guards near Cuenca with a total of 16 dead on both sides, was reported in Ecuador today.

Ten guards encountered 20 rum runners who were stealing liquor in a town near Cuenca, dispatches said.

DEATH THREAT SUSPECT HELD

A man who testified he could speak but little English and write none, was arraigned in Central Police Court today accused of sending threatening letters to Barney Lipka, of 5508 Raleigh street, superintendent of the Prudential Insurance Company.

Lipka told Magistrate Rothenberg that a letter he had sent the man, Nikoddan Takatomitz, 43, of 3804 Foster street, was returned to him with this notation on the back:

"If you don't come across with money wou'll be dead before Saturday. I'm out of work and need money."

Guilty in Vote Case, Policeman Paroled

A verdict of guilty was opened in court today in the case of Michael Macinko, special McKees Rocks policeman, charged with intimidating voters at the 1931 primary election. Judge W. H. McNaugher paroled Macinko for two years. Leo Riordan, Independent party investigator, was the prosecutor.

Man Drowns In Swim At Dawn

Braddock police, assisted by employes of the Braddock waterworks, today were dragging the Monongahela River for the body of Peter Bartman, 26, of 1010 Jones avenue, North Braddock, who drowned early this morning while in swimming with a companion.

John Wesnewski, 25, of 106 Penn street, Braddock, told police that he and his friend Bartman went in for a swim between Eighth and Ninth streets at 5 a. m. Grappling hooks are being used by the rescuers.

HUNT WOMAN'S FORTUNE

CHICAGO, June 12.—(AP.)—A treasure hunt for $3,000,000 given away by an allegedly insane woman starts this week in Probate Court.

The amazing story was revealed today by attorneys for Mrs. Florence Sears. She is seeking to recover assets of the estate of her elderly mother, Mrs. Lydia Norman, now in an asylum.

Mrs. Norman gave 10,000 acres of land in Georgia worth $300,000 to a casual acquaintance, Attorney Robert S. Lee said; she made a Chicago woman a present of a $150,000 library, and gave another woman jewelry valued at $300,000.

Civil suits will be started against all of the persons who received large gifts from Mrs. Norman, Attorney Lee said.

Band Leader Dies At East Liverpool

RADICALS FORCE DAVILA TO QUIT

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 13.—(AP.)—A renewed threat of confiscation of the $75,000,000 investment in the American-controlled Cosach nitrate combine was seen today in the resignation of Carlos Davila, former ambassador to Washington, from the Socialist junta which controls the government.

Senor Davila resigned last night from the week-old Socialist regime which ousted President Juan Esteban Montero on June 4. His resignation was believed to have been forced by the other members of the junta because his policy toward foreign interests, particularly Cosach, was considered too moderate.

He returned to the presidential palace early today, and this led to some speculation that a patching up of differences might be under discussion. Reports from the palace said, however, that the junta had decided on Davila's successor, who was to be a man of considerably more radical views.

In the meantime Col. Marmaduke Grove, who led the army forces that marched upon the palace a week ago Saturday and engineered the Socialist coup, was in charge.

Gang Victim Slain, Strapped to Mower

NEW YORK, June 13.—(INS.)—A murder mystery confronted police today. With a lawnmower straped to his chest, the bullet-riddled body of a man was found off Babylon Beach.

Tattoo marks on the man's arms inclined police to the belief he was a seaman, perhaps a rum-runner, who was killed in a gang vendetta.

Willard Gets Degree At Mass. College

AMHERST, Mass., June 13.—(AP.)—Massachusetts State College today conferred honorary degrees of doctor of laws on Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and John E. Wilder, of Chicago.

RAINEY URGES SALES TAX AS BUDGET HOPE

Scores Treasury and Hoover As Need for More Money For Expenses Is Revealed

WASHINGTON, June 13. —(AP.)—A statement by administration leaders that the new revenue and economy bills would lack $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 of balancing the budget drew sharp criticism today from House Democratic leaders.

Representative Rainey, of Illinois, House Democratic leader, told newspapermen the Treasury's "gross incompetence has been shown by the estimate that $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 more is needed to balance the budget."

SEES MORE TAXES

He added that it was his opinion this new estimated deficit could be met only by additional taxes. But Representative Crisp, of Georgia, acting chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee when it handled the new tax law, said in an interview that he saw "no need for more taxes."

Rainey held the "difficulties can best be met by taking out of the law some of the nuisance and excise taxes before they become effective and replacing them with a sensible general sales tax." He said:

"We've got to raise the money somehow. We can't do it by economizing, so a revision of the taxes is about the only chance we have left.

SCORES HOOVER

Rainey asserted that Congress this session has "approved one dole after another, but has done nothing to stimulate employment, put more men to work and give them an income." He added:

"The only thing we can hope so far is that these palliatives will keep the patient alive until somebody else gets in the White House.

"We aren't going to put men to work until the White House visions the necessity of a general building program. The only thing the White House visions now is the campaign and the fact that he (President Hoover) wants to be re-elected."

Crisp asked the Ways and Means Committee to amend the new tax law so as to repeal the provision that exempts contracts for tires, tubes, gasoline and similar automotive accessories from excise taxes provided contracts were made before May 1, 1932.

MILLS FAVORS HOME LOANS

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(AP.)—A favorable report on the pending legislation to create a system of home loan discount banks was submitted to the Senate Banking Committee today by Secretary Mills. Mills said:

"The Treasury believes that a better organization of facilities for financing home mortgage loans would be highly desirable and that the provision of a nation-wide system of federal home loan banks for the purpose of extending credit accommodations to member institutions engaged in making home mortgage loans would greatly improve the country's financial structure.

"The organization of such a system of banks should relieve the pressure not only upon savings banks, insurance companies and other institutions operating in this field, but also upon present owners of home properties. It should, moreover, promote home ownership.

"The Treasury, therefore, fully approves the purpose of the proposed legislation."

URGES U. S. AID FOR BUSINESS

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(AP.)—Legislation to permit the Reconstruction Corporation to lend to private industry was recommended to the Senate Banking Committee today by Clarence Woolley, chairman of the American Radiator and Standard Sanitary Corporation.

The committee has approved the Democratic $2,000,000,000 unemployment relief bill, but voted against use of the money for loans to private competitive industry.

Woolley told the committee it would be not only wise but eminently desirable that the Reconstruction funds be made available to private enterprise.

Woolley said there were four principal avenues through which government money could be applied. He listed them as public construction, private building construction, the railroads and projects of private corporations.

FLEISHER MUTE ON SLAYINGS

DETROIT, June 13.—(AP.)—Harry Fleisher, who surrendered to police last week, after being sought for months in connection with the Lindbergh baby kidnaping, stood mute today when he was arraigned in Recorder's Court on a murder warrant outstanding for nearly a year. A plea of not guilty was entered, and Fleisher was remanded to jail without bond for examination June 22.

The murder warrant grew out of the Collingwood Apartment massacre here last September, in which three men were slain. Harry Keywell, Irving Millberg and Raymond Bernstein now are serving life terms for the slaying. Fleisher was named by Solly Levine, an eye-witness to the shooting, as the fourth slayer.

New Jersey state police have questioned Fleisher concerning the Lindbergh case and have obtained nothing but denials of any knowledge of the case from him. They have not yet announced whether they plan to take any action against the gangster.

Bartlett to Erect Peary Monument

NEW YORK, June 13.—(INS.)—Capt. Robert Bartlett, explorer, today said he planned to leave tomorrow or the next day for Cape York, Northern Greenland, to erect an Arctic monument to Admiral Robert E. Peary, who discovered the North Pole.

Mrs. Marie Peary Stafford, the explorer's daughter, born at Anniversary Lodge, Bowdoin Day, farther north than any other white child, will sail with Bartlett.

EX-COUNTY AIDE TOLD TO PAY TO GET JOB

Aged Laborer Discharged, Asked to Give Money For His Reinstatement

An aged county road laborer, discharged last fall after 10 years' service, was told he would have to pay for being put back on the payroll, he told investigators in the county audit probe today.

The former worker related that after he had been laid off he had approached the superintendent of his district and asked for his job back. He said he was told:

"If you give me some money you will be put back to work."

FAILS TO GET JOB

He had no funds and did not get his job back, the witness declared.

Another witness asserted that Louis Cooper, son of Jabez Cooper, county road official, was on the payroll while he was attending a university. The only work he ever saw the son do, the witness said, was to drive an automobile in which his father rode.

Other witnesses, former and present road laborers, told of county labor and materials being used to build a foundation for a garage for William Kauffield, clerk of road division No. 6, in Oakdale; in construction a tennis court at a school in Greentree; improving a road in front of the Neville Island police station; in work at the home of a Mr. Bonini, group foreman, Carnegie.

DENIES STATEMENT

A foreman in the road department admitted collecting $10 each from two laborers for campaign purposes last fall. He said he gave the money to Superintendent Cooper, of his division, and that the latter said he was collecting under orders from the "front office."

Investigator Leo Riordan asked:

"Didn't you tell these men the money was for 'Old Joe' because he was broke?"

The witness denied making such a statement.

MEANS CALLED 'LIAR' AT TRIAL

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(AP.)—The veracity of Gaston B. Means was questioned today by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover as the prosecution opened jury arguments in the trial of the ex-convict on charges of swindling Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean out of $104,000.

Mother love, Rover said, impelled Mrs. McLean to hope she could aid in returning the kidnaped Lindbergh baby while Means "was willing to capitalize on human misery and woe." She is alleged to have given Means the money to recover the child. Rover charged:

"Means' diabolical plan was a tissue of lies from beginning to end. When Gaston Means told the truth, he lied to get out of it."

As Rover termed Means a "slippery, slimy racketeer," the burly defendant sat in his chair, his head cocked on one side, gravely chewing cough drops and watching the government attorney.

Body of Aged Man Found in Allegheny

Efforts were being made by the Coroner's office to identify the body of an aged man, found yesterday in the Allegheny River near the NP tower of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in Shaler Township. The man, attired in a brown suit, had a one-inch scar on his face.

REPEAL DEMAND GROWING IN DELEGATE RANKS; PENNA. GROUP SPLIT

'MOISTEN' DRY STAND

By WILLIAM S. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

A tremendous vote was being pledged to repeal planks. Aside from the New York delegation, the Illinois, Michigan, Connecticut, New Jersey and Massachusetts groups were to support a repeal plank. The Indiana delegation came up with another proposal to submit the question of repeal.

CONVENTIONS DEMANDED

All these planks also demanded submission of the question to state conventions, elected solely to consider the prohibition issue. The administration likewise opposed that idea, having eliminated from its own draft all reference to the method of submission.

The plank favored by Republican drys would put the party on record as declaring that any proposal to repeal or modify prohibition must be taken in accordance with Article V of the Constitution and must set out a substitute plan for control of the alcoholic liquor traffic. The drys contend such a question must be left to Congress without advice from a political convention.

The dry board of strategy, representing all the dry church organizations, held conferences of their own, planning war on the anti-dry planks. They failed to announce any specific program after a Sunday session, but were meeting again today. Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South; Ernest K. Cherrington, of the Anti-Saloon League; F. Scott McBride, of the same organization, and Mrs. Ella A. Boole, of the W. C. T. U., headed the conferees.

New York's big delegation led the parade of states in demanding an unequivocal plank in the platform calling for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. The New Yorkers caucused a few hours after reaching Chicago, and with celerity and dispatch they demanded that something be done about the prohibition amendment.

Without a dissenting voice among the 97 delegates, they adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, that it is the sense of the New York delegation that the Eighteenth Amendment to the federal Constitution be resubmitted to the people of the United States in the following manner:

"That the Congress of the United States propose the repeal of the said amendment with the provision that the several states pass upon said question by conventions duly called. And it is the sense of the New York delegation that we further recommend that the delegates to the several state conventions be chosen at special and not at general elections."

There were no equivocal terms in the New York resolution, no question of "retention, repeal or revision." Furthermore, the New Yorkers served notice they intend to battle down the line for their plank, irrespective of whose toes may be trampled upon in the process.

JOB LOAN URGED

There was virtually no controversy over the remainder of the platform, except for a demand by the Illinois delegation for approval of a plank calling for a $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan issue. The economic, fiscal, farm, tariff and foreign affairs planks were brought here by Secretary of the Treasury Mills and Secretary to the President Newton.

Administration leaders declared these pronouncements would be approved by the convention without opposition. The only row will come if the administration insists upon a declaration against a federal bond issue for unemployment relief.

Dewey Proposes Third Party Rally

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP.)—Dr. John Dewey, liberal philosopher, who supported Alfred E. Smith for the presidency in 1928, issued a call today for a national meeting at Cleveland on July 9 and 10 to crystalize independent sentiment and perhaps eventually to form a third party.

The major political parties, he said, have outlived their usefulness.

STATE LEADERS CLASH

By MARK SHIELDS
Publisher Editor.

At the Pennsylvania caucus this morning, Schantz was named to succeed Senator David A. Reed on the State Committee on Resolutions, but Senator John M. McClure, of Delaware County, was made chairman. The committee will meet late this afternoon, with prohibition a leading issue.

No successor was named for Reed as member of the National Resolutions Committee, but this may come up tonight, with McClure functioning in this post also. The fact that he was named chairman of the state committee was the basis for this conclusion. Reed is not expected to attend the convention.

Arriving delegates found Pennsylvania leaders already on the ground hesitant about any direct commitment, but all were visibly impressed by the unanimous declaration of the New York delegation last night for a straight repeal plank.

The Allegheny County delegation had lunch with Walter A. Bonitz, Pittsburgh delegate to plan action on prohibition repeal.

Bonitz, Pittsburgh delegate; Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell and Charles A. Dorrance, of Scranton, were insisting that there should be no equivocation, and that there should be a straight-out declaration for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and modification of the Volstead act.

James M. Hazlett, Republican city chairman of Philadelphia, spokesman for William S. Vare and as messenger of the Philadelphia boss, bearing a wringing wet message, has been under extreme pressure for the last 24 hours to modify the eastern leader's insistence for a repeal plank.

PLEAD FOR DELAY

In a conference, which lasted until the early hours this morning, James Francis Burke, State Senator McClure and Chairman Martin all attempted to dissuade Hazlett from insisting on an anti-dry declaration before the caucus of the Pennsylvania delegation tonight.

Hazlett, this morning, was in long distance telephone communication with Vare and the understanding in well-informed circles was that the ailing Philadelphia chief maintained an attitude of insistence upon a complete and unequivocal declaration for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Vare, at this time, is not insistent upon modification of the Volstead act. Other Pennsylvanians, however, notably a substantial group from Allegheny County, resentful at the pussyfooting attitude of Martin and Burke, the latter presumed to be acting for President Hoover, demanded that modification be a part of the instructions given Pennsylvania's member of the national resolutions committee.

CONFLICTING VIEWS

The number of resolutions on the anti-prohibition subject afloat in Chicago today is restricted only by the number of delegates present. Each newcomer appears to have his own views of the subject and the great problem for Pennsylvania's anti-dry majority is to come to some decision on an intelligent and forthright declaration to be laid before tonight's caucus.

At 2 o'clock today, the Mackrell resolution declaring for repeal and modification will come before the special committee of five Pennsylvanian delegates headed by former State Senator Schantz, who replaces the absent Senator David A. Reed as chairman. Mackrell's resolution will not be approved and the special committee will have little to bring before the general caucus tonight.

When the caucus meets it will have before it an anti-prohibition resolution which slightly revamps the proposal of Church made public yesterday exclusively in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

In addition to declaring for repeal, this redrafted resolution, which has the approval of Dr. Butler, urges upon Republicans of all state ratification of an amendment rescinding national prohibition.

ANTI-DRY RESOLUTION

The resolution, together with its preamble as tentatively drafted, reads:

"Believing that the Eighteenth Amendment has failed in its purpose to promote temperance and, in such failure, respect for all law has been greatly lessened, for it:

"Resolved, that we urge Congress to submit promptly to the several states and recommend the ratification of... its state conventions to be called for that sole purpose in accordance with Article Five of the Constitution, a resolution for the immediate repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. The entire question of liquor control is to be returned to the state, county, city or village by local option, or otherwise, or prohibited, in accordance with the desires, wisdom and good conscience of the people therein."

In conference this morning, Hazlett was being urged to support this new resolution. It is understood that the Allegheny County delegation will use its influence to secure its approval by the caucus.

MACKRELL'S STAND

Mackrell, in a statement today, indicated he would not insist upon the language of his own resolution originally introduced in Philadelphia, May 14, but would be for any expression, no matter by whom introduced, which declared for modification and repeal.

BAN ON HITLER'S TROOPS TO END

BERLIN, June 13.—(AP.)—Tomorrow the cabinet will publish two emergency decrees, one lifting the ban on Adolf Hitler's National Socialist storm troops and the other imposing certain new financial measures.

One of the last acts of Chancellor Bruening before President von Hindenburg replaced him with Franz von Papen, was to order dissolution of the storm troops as a menace to the state. The order brought vigorous protests.

Today tailors were working overtime to turn out new uniforms in anticipation of the resurrection of Hitler's private army.

The financial decree will impose a graduated tax, starting at 1% per cent. on all persons who hold jobs; it will reduce the dole for the unemployed and the war veterans, and will eliminate all exemptions from the turnover tax.

Carol Dissolves National Parliament

The decree calls for new elections for the Chamber of Deputies on July 17, for the Senate on July 20 and for the convocation of a new Parliament on July 30.

Four Schools Hold Annual Outings

The Watt, Somers Trade and McKelvy schools are holding their picnics at West View Park today. School pupils of the Seventeenth Ward are picnicking at Kennywood Park. The South Side Business Men's Association is sponsoring the outing.

BRITAIN SHUNS GOLD STANDARD

LONDON, June 13.—(AP.)—Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, told Parliament today it would not be desirable for Great Britain to return to the gold standard "as long as existing conditions continue."

The country went off the gold standard last September 20 when Philip Snowden was Chancellor. The pound sterling dropped in value immediately and is now worth $3.68.

Last week the League of Nations gold committee recommended return to the gold standard as quickly as possible by those governments which have abandoned it. To aid in restoration of the standard, the report recommended, a "satisfactory solution of the war debts and reparations problem" and a reasonable degree of freedom in the movement of goods and services.

Claim of Miracle Rejected by Pope

VATICAN CITY, June 13.—(AP.)—Pope Pius has rejected a miracle accredited to the venerable Antonio Claret, Spanish founder of the Missionary Sons of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, and therefore study of his case for beatification has been interrupted.

The miracle, one of two presented to the Sacred Congregation of Rites by sponsors of the petition, had to do with the curing of a baby.

Bradford Organization to Stage Treasure Hunt Saturday at Reciprocity Meeting

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Something a little different is being planned by the Bradford Juniors for the reciprocity meeting which they will have Saturday. The guests are being invited for the afternoon, when games and a treasure hunt will occupy their attention. The picnic supper will be served around a campfire.

Mrs. Joseph M. Stein, State Federation chairman of juniors, is to be the guest of honor. Miss Kathryn Hanna, hostess for the occasion, is chairman of the grounds committee. Dorothy Martin heads what is known as the playday committee. Kathryn Golden is directing plans for the treasure hunt and Lucille Hartman is supper chairman.

At a special meeting held yesterday in Mrs. William Marley's home plans were completed for the affair.

"The Quest for a Cup of Tea" is the pleasant-sounding title on which the Pittsburgh Literary and Musical Club has based its 1932-33 program. No study program will be given, of course, on the opening day, which will be devoted to the usual address of retiring and incoming officials and to music. At afternoon programs there will be discussed "Nearby Places," "South America," "Islands of the Pacific," "Japan," "China," "Russia," "Holland," "France," "Spain and Italy," "Ireland," "Scotland" and "England," each one of the papers being a linking up with the "Quest." The annual outing on June 5 closes the year, which begins October 3.

Mrs. Jean Wilson Gilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Wilson, of Zellenople, became the bride of Theodore Oliver Harris, of Sunbury, Pa., at 12 o'clock noon, on Saturday, in the Shadyside Presbyterian Church. Officiating was the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr.

Church Wedding

The bride wore a gown of tea rose lace with matching hat and a corsage of orchids. Her sister, Miss Laura Bell Wilson, was maid of honor, and wore poudre bleu lace with a beige hat. Dr. Theodore O. Elterich was the best man.

Mrs. Harris is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and a member of Phi Mu fraternity.

After a motor trip through the New England States and Canada, Mr. Harris and his bride will be at home in Pittsburgh.

A bridge breakfast is being given Wednesday at the Keystone Athletic Club by Mrs. I. W. England. There will be 50 tables in play.

BRIGHT COLORS PERVADE SUMMER FASHION ENSEMBLES

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, June 13.—There was a time when no Frenchwoman would dare appear on the streets of Paris in anything but an all-black costume. But those days are gone forever, apparently. Bright red hats and scarfs, brilliant green and blue accessories, vividly colored flowers—all these are now seen almost as frequently in town as in the country.

SO FAR HAS this color business gone that many of the French houses are showing fashion collections made up of clothes that are more often in color than in black. One well-known designer goes so far as to leave black entirely out of his group of daytime clothes, reserving it exclusively for formal evening things.

NAVY BLUE, an old-time American favorite, is being taken up by the French as a substitute for black street clothes. Paris women carry their navy blue color schemes to the limit, matching their shoes, gloves, hats and handbags with their coats and suits. Blue shoes are especially important as a 1932 street fashion in Paris.

WORTH, KNOWN in Paris for decades as a designer of clothes for conservatives, is much taken up with navy blue this year. A good majority of the clothes he has made for younger women are in navy blue.

THE ACCOMPANYING dress, also by Worth, is fashioned of wool crepe roma in the same geranium red as trims the coat. There are contrasting touches of white at the neckline.

The Pendulum Swings Again to QUALITY

The long-established Joseph Horne Co. policy of Quality First has been thoroughly justified by time. The inevitable consequences of the exploitation of cheap merchandise are leading people to scrutinize quality, today, more closely than price, and to turn to the store which can be depended upon for quality.

It is the policy of the Joseph Horne Co. to sell only First Quality Merchandise at all times, regardless of price.

Truhu Silk Print Frocks

A Feature in the "Sunshine Corner"

$10.75

Only at Horne's, is Truhu silk by the yard available in the city of Pittsburgh. And, likewise, to this store has been allotted this special collection of dresses made of that famous silk, by a maker of fine, tub-silk dresses.

The supple, pure silk fabric needs no further comment, except to say that in this case it comes in dark prints (navy, brown, black and wine), on snow-white grounds; and in delicate pastel prints, including rose, peach, canary and blue.

If It's Truhu, It's Washable

Six models, beautifully designed and finished, with generous, pleated skirts, do honor to the superiority of the fabric. All typical of the youthful, summer trend in the finer kind of washable silk frocks.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W. W.: I finally got the lowdown on the Roger Wolfe Kahn-Hannah Williams explosion . . . Her closest pal is Mrs. Kim Moran, with whom Hannah is dwelling at Delmonico's, and has been since the parting . . . It happened this way—Kim, who is a generous guy, gave Hannah a bracelet valued at $10,000 . . . When Hannah brought it home, Roger felt ridic, and took his wife to a jeweler's and selected a bracelet valued at $2,000, urging her to return Kim's gift . . . But the cheerful little earful no dice—and the fight was on. Hannah leaving . . . Roger was criticized at first for meeting the "not responsible for no wife's debts" advertisements in the papers, but this is who he did that . . . Hannah, after shaking him, went to H. Cartier's and purchased 24 more frocks, sending him the bill . . . So you see? . . . Incidentally, Hannah being a wise gal, isn't going to divorce Roger. It will be a legal sep—and that's the pro and Kahn of it.

Noel Coward's leading lady is planning to return to America, but before she does, she is trying to clear up her accounts with local modistes, etc. . . . A femme attorney phones them and offers a settlement of 15c on the $, otherwise she may be forced into bankruptcy . . . The Paul Whiteman-Biltmore Roof duet makes a delightful combination . . . Lou Holtz was taken for $3,000 on the Bremen by card sharps . . . The newest gag this Summer at the Cascade's swimming pools goes this way—hostesses and gigolos for the unattached will be offered at a dime a swim, a la a dime a dance . . . What next? . . . Miss Guinan says that according to business reports they are not even "passing the buck" these days.

Marion Harris, who triumphed in that London cafe, opened there in "The Jackpot," a new show, which ran one consecutive week . . . Alex Woollcott called. Says what do you mean that he "fears" a revolution—he hopes for one! . . . Wm. Gaxton is gunning for the guy who penned him while he obliged with a tune at that smart spot in the Park.

Ted Shayne called. Very annoyed and said he is doing "High Hat," and Machamer hasn't anything to do with it . . . I phoned Machamer. He said Ted is crazy, also that the mag will be a monthly for only 2 issues, going weekly again in Sept. . . George Wellbaum, of the N. Y. Phone Co., called. Said they have thousands of southpaws working for them—only on certain jobs are left-handed people rejected . . . I saw "Hey, Nonny, Nonny!" too, and agree with you, but you overlooked a better barb in the names of the lyricist and composer, Max and Nat Lief . . . You might have called the show "The Lullaby of the Lief's" . . . Be sure and see "Doomed Battalion"—it's a critic's picture.

Mrs. Jack Pettis would appreciate your making it clear about her divorce . . . I told her you didn't announce it, that it first broke in the news . . . She hoped, however, you would say that she is getting it, not Jack . . . The mother of June Knight says that June may use the name, having gwaid Jack Holland half of all she earned while working in "Hot-Cha," and besides she had it legally changed . . . The Pirates has barred all movies and the depression on its stage . . . Sophie Tucker is the way, ran up against an awkward angle, as a result, she wasn't permitted to sing a song she made famous on her first Broadway job, the title being "Good-bye, Mr. Greenback!" . . . The railroad employing John Coolidge (you remember his old man had to let him go with others recently . . . Here's a titter—Jesse L. Lasky used to play the trumpet, you knew it all along. But did you know he played it in spangled tights—from which an American flag was lowered as the Big Punch!

Benchley will go to the movie sector via the Canal—and then with Doug on his next: Oriental jaunt . . . Friend of mine was riding with Billy Arnold, the auto racer, who has won so many cups. Arnold was doing about 80, when he turned to my friend and said: "Do you mind if I slow down to 80; I want to see some of the scenery?" . . . I suppose you've heard that nowadays when a girl wants to break a date—she goes out with him! . . . Gilda Gray was annoyed by the remarks of a columnist in a town she was playing, so she called up several influential citizens, who made it hot for the lad . . . He apologized the next day in his column, saying lovely things, and went so far as to liken Gilda to Abraham Lincoln, of all people!

More lowdown—this time on the George Jessel sitch-ee-ayshun . . . He made his recent trip from Europe chiefly to have it out with his wife, urging her for a divorce, and promised her a substantial settlement plus considerable yellmoney for his freedom . . . He vowed that if she didn't give in, he would return that night to the old country, never to return, warning her she would get nothing . . . Mrs. Jessel, however, refused, but George kept his word and sailed that night—ignoring six weeks at $4,000 per in local and Chicago picture theaters . . . Marilyn Miller, I hear, is seriously ailing in a private Hollywood hosp—she had to have a portion of her jawbone removed, and her friends hold out little hope for her recovery . . . No truth in the Garbo report, at least the Moritz says no . . . But that's what they said last time . . . Bernie is back at the Palace . . . I told him you played it when it was two-a-day.—Your Girl Friday.

Jackie Coogan Ready for College

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, June 13.—Impolite to remind you of your age, but Jackie Coogan goes to college the coming August.

It seems that while we've been absorbed in the coming of the talkies and other cinema problems the kid of yesteryear has grown up. Only a little while ago he was the wistful waif looking up at Charlie Chaplin from beneath that big cap. Even in "Tom Sawyer," the change wasn't so apparent.

Now he's 17 and going to college. Mrs. Coogan, a wise movie mother, confesses she can hardly believe it, either. Jackie is no sissy—he plays tennis, golf and is an expert swimmer—but he's been kept a boy.

Last week he had his first date. Mrs. Coogan straightened his tie, gave him the big car and chauffeur and told him to be home by midnight. He was there 20 minutes earlier.

Where will he go to college? Up to Santa Clara University, also the alma mater of Edmund Lowe. He'll specialize in languages, because he intends to continue with his acting career. There's a chance he may do picture work in his vacations. Tiffany wanted him and younger brother, Robert, to appear in a film this summer. Mrs. Coogan vetoed the idea, just as she turned down some flattering vaudeville offers for the two boys.

Jackie Coogan

HE WILL SWIM

As Santa Clara is noted for its football teams, I asked Jackie's mother if he would go out for this sport.

"Why he's too small," she said. "He weighs only 105 pounds."

But swimming honors, that's another matter. "Frosh" Coogan is out to win them if he can.

"You'll get your man."

And then:

"After you find him, will you come to visit me in India?"

"Sure," flipped Tallulah. "If I find him, I'll go anywhere."

GOSSIPS SAY

Connie Bennett is being praised for her quick-wittedness. She was at a Hollywood party when the news was flashed that a Beverly Hills bank was closing its doors the next morning. Summoning her car, she routed the Warner Brothers comptroller and insisted that he stop payment on her weekly paycheck. The next morning he managed to do this just in the nick of time. . . . The Beverly Hills home of Lillyan Tashman and Edmund Lowe will now attract as much attention as their red-and-white Malibu cottage. Jetta Goudal was commissioned to redecorate it during the absence of the two stars. All the walls on the lower floors are now mirrors . . . Cecil B. de Mille's adopted daughter, Catherine, will play a part in his new picture . . . John Boles is being welcomed back from his personal appearance tour . . . If you can believe your eyes and ears, the Martha Sleeper-Randolph Scott case is waxing serious . . . Ever since Hollywood saw Will Mahoney do his tap-dance on the xylophone, he has been a popular figure in cinema circles. This week he was guest of honor at the West Side Asthma. But Would Odd Asthma cho Marx introduced him as:

Harry Ruby, by the way, would write a theme song for this club, "I Think I Could Die for Good Old Asthma, Bht Wohld Odd Asthma Die for Me?"

Returning from New York, Director Edward H. Griffith says that the film version of Phillip Barry's play, "The Animal Kingdom," will attempt to crystallize more sympathy for the hero. One method, he reveals, will be to build up the play's revolt against the machine age. The studio realizes that tinkering with a Phillip Barry play is a tender job, but thinks Griffith and Horace Jackson can do it. Back when "Holiday" was released, Barry is quoted as saying that he couldn't tell where his work left off and Jackson's began.

THUNDER

Three Barrymores to Play Rasputin

"Rasputin" has been announced as the production which will occupy the combined attention of the three Barrymores, Ethel, John and Lionel, at the Metro-Goldwyn Mayer studios. This picture is based on an unpublished story by Alfred Henschke Klabund. The director has not yet been selected. The period of the story is Russia of the 1907-17 decade, when the famous "Black Monk" was the power behind the throne.

Plays and Players -:- By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Ed. Yell is in town. No strangers here. Mr. Yell is looking at the Pitt—and stock possibilities. He thinks the town is ripe—or will be—for another resident company, and he is partial to the Pitt for its home, because of his long association with previous stock organizations in that theater, both as an excellent character actor and director. It was in the latter capacity that some of the finest things done in stock in the Penn avenue house, including "Death Takes a Holiday," had the benefit of Mr. Yell's helping hand. If his plans are successful, he intends to establish a good company and present dramatic plays and comedies of the most recent vintage that have not been shown here in the regular course of road production. He proposes to engage visiting stars occasionally, and will seek some of the younger ones rather than older artists. A good idea—don't you think?

Some of the subscription plays promised by the American Theater Society, Inc., which has established quarters in suite 506 Nixon Building, in charge of Mrs. H. C. Boghman, Jr., and Mrs. T. M. Jones III, have been announced. One of them will be a new Eugene O'Neill work. The tentative list now includes Philip Merrivale in "Cyrano," "A Trip to Pressburg," by Leo Perutz, translated by William A. Drake; "Autumn Crocus," with Frances Ledrew, who appeared in it in London; John Howard Lawson's "The Pure in Heart," Rose Franken's "Another Language," recent New York hit, George O'Neil's "Something to Love For," Eugene Gurdet's "Three Times Waterloo," and Franz Werfel's "The Mirror Man." Subscription plans will be mailed this week.

Norman Carroll, president of the Earl Carroll Producing Corporation, is en route to Paris, where he will join his brother, Earl, and conclude the legal aspects pertaining to services of European stars and the presentation of a London production, intact, in New York next season. Business concluded, Earl will return to New York to ready the production, while Norman stays aboard a little longer for a pleasure jaunt with the missus, formerly Frances Marchant, of Bellevue. The Carroll boys call Pittsburgh home.

Marion Davies Works On New Film

Marion Davies has started work on her new untitled starring picture, the cast of which includes Robert Montgomery, Billie Dove, Zasu Pitts and James Gleason. This production is based on an original story by Frances Marion, who wrote "The Big House," "Emma" and "The Champ." Miss Davies' last release was "Polly of the Circus."

Leslie Howard Cast in "Smilin' Through"

Leslie Howard has been signed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to appear with Norma Shearer and Fredric March in "Smilin' Through." Production plans call for a start on the story directly after Howard arrives at the M-G-M lot.

Pichel, Boteler Cast In 'After Rain'

Irving Pichel and Wade Boteler have been added to the cast of "After The Rain," now in production at Movietone City with Peggy Shannon and William Boyd in the feature roles. Raul Roulien, Paul Porcasi, Laska Winters, Murray Kinnell and Stanley Fields are also in this picture, screen version of Alfred C. Kennedy's stage play.

Margaret M. Richardson Weds Luther W. Anderson

At 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the First Methodist Church of Carnegie, Miss Margaret Mildred Richardson, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. George L. C. Richardson, of Carnegie, became the bride of Luther Wilson Anderson, son of Mrs. Luther C. Anderson, of Welch, W. Va. Officiating was the bride's father.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Dr. A. M. Richardson. She wore a gown of ivory satin made in princess mode, having a lace yoke and long, close-fitting sleeves. Her veil of tulle cascaded from a cap of lace caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lillies of the valley. Miss Eleanor Weisser, of Atlantic City, was the maid of honor, and wore flowered mousseline de soie and carried spring flowers. Her hat was blue. Charles Anderson was his brother's best man, and ushers were George L. C. Richardson, Jr., brother of the bride; Rummel Anderson and George Francis, of Charleston, W. Va., brother and cousin of the bridegroom.

Miss Elizabeth Storer played the wedding music. A small reception and dinner were given in the bride's home for the families and bridal party.

Mrs. Anderson is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University and has been teaching in the Pleasantville, N. J., High School. The bridegroom is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan and of the law school of West Virginia University, and is a member of Beta Theta Pi and Phi Delta Phi.

Women's Party to Ask Equal Rights Planks

The National Woman's Party will demand an equal rights plank in both Republican and Democratic party platforms. This plank will embody, as a national measure, indorsement of the proposed equal rights amendment which provides "Men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and every place subject to its jurisdiction."

It will specify further that all international relations and agreements relating to women entered into by the United States shall be on the basis of equality.

Wiggins, Landscape Painter, Dies at 84

OLD LYME, Conn., June 13.—(AP.)—Carleton Wiggins, whose paintings of landscapes and farm animals have been exhibited in the Royal Academy of London, the Louvre in Paris, the Metropolitan Museum and other art centers, died at his home Saturday night at the age of 84.

Boat Ride, Card Parties Keep Club Women Busy

Saturday was a busy day for clubwomen. There was the County League of Women Voters' boat excursion that carried nearly 700 passengers down the Ohio and back during a most enjoyable afternoon. The program of dances seemed to please the onlookers. There was general dancing, but many of the guests preferred cards and even the children were provided with special entertainment—games, under the direction of a specialist in that field.

Although many more tickets were sold, 35 tables were in play at the bridge party given by the Woman's City Club. Simple decorations of red, white and blue streamers and flags and the aides in colonial costume sounded an appropriate Flag Day note.

About 250 persons attended the benefit bridge given at Pennsylvania College for Women by graduates who are members of the College Club. The tables were placed on the veranda, sun parlor and large dining room in Woodland Hall and the tea table was presided over by Mrs. W. H. R. Hilliard and Miss Cora Helen Coolidge. Proceeds of the affair will be used to furnish the Cora Helen Coolidge room at the new College Club.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

Irene

AT THE AGE of 20, Irene was a blonde. And what a blonde! She had a head of hair that should have been on display in the Metropolitan Museum of Art. More, her entire make-up was just as beautiful as that hair. Her lips were as red as a luscious cherry. Her eyes were two pools of soft loveliness. Her smile was as the gentle zephyr, and her voice was like the peaceful rustlings of the leaves in the early spring. But, my dear friends, was she dumb! Wow!

Well, maybe I shouldn't be quite so unkind. Just let me say that she said the right things at the wrong times, and let it go at that. Any little lady who could maintain a Rolls-Royce and a Park avenue apartment on a salary of $60 a week as a chorus girl, couldn't be as stupid as I have made her sound. And that's exactly what Irene was doing.

Yes, indeed. Irene was leading the life of a flock of Rileys. There was nothing she wanted that she couldn't have—and she wanted plenty. Men of all types and sizes fought for her attentions.

But her conversations generally ran somewhat along the following lines:

"I saw the prettiest necklace in Cartier's yesterday. I love necklaces, don't you? Oh, I love rings and brooches, too. And speaking of jewelry, I got all fixed up yesterday. I'm so fond of jewelry that when my attorney asked me what I wanted to sue George Asterbilt for, I insisted it was brooch, of promise. Wasn't that silly? Tee, hee.

"Let's go somewhere after the show. I'd love to go out tonight because I'm feeling in the mood. Although I don't know. Maybe I don't feel as much like going out as I think I do. I'm moody that way. Don't you think so?"

And so she would go along, hour after hour and day after day. When she didn't feel like appearing in the chorus, she simply didn't go to the theater that night.

Irene loved to drink champagne. Nothing else would do. She was so fond of the stuff that they'd hark up vans in order to keep her supplied. She was always about three-quarters plastered, but she had an explanation for the situation. She said she didn't really like wine; what gave her a thrill was when the corks popped.

Once, when some millionaire pleaded with her to marry him, she talked semi-sensibly. The conversation is well remembered because it seems to be the only case on record when she spoke with the intelligence of a half-wit.

"But, Irene," pleaded the wealthy man, "you'd be so much better off if you'd marry me. What's going to happen to you if you don't?"

She spilled a glass of wine on the carpet and laughed merrily. "Nothing's going to happen to me," she replied. "Im going to go on just as I am. Tee, hee. Ain't I having the best time in the world? You betcha. I'm going to stay in the show, and have my cars, and like all the boys. I'm going to do that forever. Tee, hee.

"Didn't you just ask me to marry you? Yes, of course, you did. Tee, hee. I forget so easily. But it doesn't make any difference because I'm not going to marry you anyhow. I had a friend once who got married and she said it was silly. So why should I be silly?"

We come now to Irene at the age of 30. Her hair is dark, and her eyes are cold. She is married and the mother of two children. She lives in a small town in New Jersey and her husband is what is known as a substantial citizen. That is to say, he catches the 8:45 every morning, shaves himself, earns an excellent living, returns at 10 p. m., thinks that the modern generation will come to no good end and loves his wife and children.

Irene's life is very interesting to Irene. Believe it or not, she condemns the modern stage and she is an ardent supporter of the present prohibition law. She is what is known as a clubwoman and a social worker. That is to say, she neglects her own children in order to tell other women that children should not be neglected.

As the president of several women's clubs she is often called upon to make a speech. Can you imagine Irene making a speech? Well, get a load of a few of the remarks she gave out at a recent session. And remember: this is Irene at the age of 30.

"I am heartily in favor of our present prohibition position," she stated. "Liquor is the basic cause of half the worries of the world, and we must not let our glorious nation slip back into the evil that was here before we were blessed with the Volstead act.

"Our enemies grow apace. Powerful interests are ever seeking to restore the saloon and plunge our husbands and children into the depths of degradation. I know whereof I speak. I know full well what can happen to a person who imbibes too freely from the forbidden cup. Oh, ladies, if I could only tell you how well I know!

"We, the women and wives of America, must fight against the return of liquor. It is up to us to see that our wonderful country remains as pure as it is today. You must never believe what you read in the papers about crime and depression being due to prohibition. That is merely propaganda that is being spread by our enemies.

"At our next meeting I will take up the matter of the filth that is being broadcast to the children of our nation by the modern motion picture. We, the women and wives of America, must fight against this terrible evil. In order to show you what I mean, I am arranging to show a number of degrading scenes that were cut from recent pictures by the hard-working censors. I would advise you ladies to arrange for your seats at once, as I am certain the crowd will be one of the largest of the season."

At home Irene and her husband are the typical married couple. When he gets a cold she gives him two tablets and rubs his chest with ointment. When she gets a cold he tells her she should have been more careful. They kiss on an average of three times a week and fight on about the same scale. As the neighbors can tell you, they are an ideal couple.

What's that you say? It doesn't seem possible to you that Irene could change so much in 10 years? Well, I'll be doggoned! I forgot to tell you a very important thing.

The Irene in the first part of the story is still a chorus girl. The Irene in the second part is a different woman entirely! . . .

BEGINNING at the first angle in the present southerly line of California avenue west of Sedgwick street; thence extending along the present southerly line of California avenue north 78 degrees 24 minutes east 158.50 feet to the dividing line between properties now or late of Minnie White and Alice Cooper Kakiliy; thence south 12 degrees east 44.12 feet to a point; thence southeastwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the right with a radius of 1220 feet, a central angle of 4 degrees 34 minutes 20 seconds and a chord bearing south 55 degrees 08 minutes 15 seconds east for an arc distance of 106.45 feet to the southerly line of an unnamed 20 foot way; thence along the southerly line of the said unnamed 20 foot way north 78 degrees 24 minutes east 23.14 feet to the westerly line of Doll way; thence along the westerly line of Doll way south 12 degrees east 27.66 feet to a point; thence southeastwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the right with a radius of 1220 feet, a central angle of 3 degrees 25 minutes 20 seconds and a chord bearing south 49 degrees 16 minutes 40 seconds east for an arc distance of 72.87 feet to a point of tangent; thence along the tangent south 47 degrees 34 minutes east 96.94 feet to the dividing line between properties now or late of Andrew Easton and the Granite Improvement Company; thence along the latter mentioned dividing line north 78 degrees 24 minutes east 20.48 feet to the westerly line of Sedgwick street at a point distant south 12 degrees east 283.50 feet along the westerly line of Sedgwick street from the southerly line of California avenue; thence along the westerly line of Sedgwick street south 12 degrees east 157 feet to a point; thence north 80 degrees west 194.91 feet to the westerly line of Doll way; thence north 48 degrees 22 minutes west 109.52 feet to the northerly line of right of way of the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne and Chicago Railroad Company at the intersection of the dividing line between properties now or late of Lida Anna Cornelius and the Granite Improvement Company; thence along the northerly line of the said right of way north 34 degrees west 87.20 feet to an angle in the same; thence continuing along the same north 40 degrees 43 minutes west 50.46 feet to a point; thence northwestwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the left with a radius of 1150 feet, a central angle of 5 degrees 16 minutes and a chord bearing north 60 degrees 26 minutes west for an arc distance of 105.71 feet to a point of tangent; thence along the tangent north 63 degrees 04 minutes west 35.28 feet to the place of beginning.

SECTION 2. The Department of Public Works is hereby authorized and directed to cause said California avenue in the Twenty-first Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, from California avenue at the first angle west of Sedgwick street to Sedgwick street at the first angle of California avenue to be opened in conformity with the provisions of Section 1 of this ordinance.

SECTION 3. The costs, damages and expenses occasioned thereby and the benefits to pay the same shall be assessed against and collected from properties benefited thereby in accordance with the provisions of the Acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania relating thereto and regulating the same.

SECTION 4. That any ordinance or part of ordinance conflicting with the provisions of this ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed so far as the same affects this ordinance.

Passed in Council June 6, 1932.
Approved June 9, 1932.

NO. 179.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing and directing the construction of a public sewer on Walna way, from a point about 20 feet north of Overview street, to the existing sewer on Lipton way, including, as may be necessary, the excavation of exploratory test holes, and providing for the letting of a contract or contracts therefor; and providing that the costs, damages and expenses of the same be assessed against and collected from property specially benefited thereby.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That a public sewer be constructed on Walna way, from a point about 20 feet north of Overview street, to the existing sewer on Lipton way, including, as may be necessary, the excavation of exploratory test holes. Commencing on Walna way, at a point about 20 feet north of Overview street; thence northwardly along Walna way, to the existing sewer on Lipton way. Said sewer to be terra cotta pipe and 8 inches in diameter.

SECTION 2. The Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works are hereby authorized and directed to advertise, in accordance with the Acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and the ordinances of the said City of Pittsburgh relating thereto and regulating the same, for proposals for the construction of a public sewer as provided in Section 1 of this ordinance; the contract or contracts therefor to be let in the manner directed by the said Acts of Assembly and ordinances; and the contract price or contract prices not to exceed the total sum of one thousand ($1,000.00) dollars, which is the estimate of the whole cost as furnished by the Department of Public Works.

SECTION 3. The costs, damages and expenses of the same shall be assessed against and collected from properties specially benefited thereby, in accordance with the provisions of the Acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania relating thereto and regulating the same.

SECTION 4. That any ordinance or part of ordinance conflicting with the provisions of this ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed so far as the same affects this ordinance.

Passed in Council June 6, 1932.
Approved June 9, 1932.

Stage Comics On WCAE Tonight

Sparkling comedy reigns on WCAE tonight at 11 when Harry Rose, the "Broadway Jester," and Norman Prescott, noted comedian and entertainer, both of whom are appearing at Loew's Penn Theater, are heard as guest artists in the Sun-Telegraph Kite Club of the Air. Rose, nationally known for his comedy sketches and songs, gives a humorous monologue and sings. Prescott tells in humorous vein how the Hollywood stars foretell the future.

Harry Rose

The Penn's popular singing organist, Lois Miller, and Buster Shaver featured in the Penn revue, with his two famous midgets, Otto and George, in a novel "miniature" interlude, also are on the program.

More than a dozen stars join in a studio party during the "Evening In Paris" broadcast, featuring Pierre Brugnon and Alice Remsen, on WJAS tonight at 9:30. Kate Smith, Morton Downey, Lanny Ross, Singin' Sam, the Boswell Sisters, Norman Brokenshire, Col. Stoopnagle and Budd, Freddie Rich, Burns and Allen and Guy Lombardo are scheduled to appear.

Lowell Thomas begins his broadcasts under a new sponsor, the Sun Oil Company, tonight at 6:45 on KDKA. He will be heard daily except Saturday and Sunday, as in the past.

Program Pointers

Kay Donna, petite Pittsburgh songster, is scheduled to go on the network tonight with another of her programs of old favorites, "Do You Remember?" heard locally through WCAE at 10:30. . . Gloria Adams and Trudy Haynes, Southern Harmony Girls, present a 15-minute program of colorful tunes on WJAS tonight at 10:30 with Herbert Fritsche, pianist.

Kay Donna

As a part of the Industrial Fair being held at Dubois this week, a mythical visit is paid to that city during the Westinghouse Parade on KDKA at 6:15.

Tribute is paid to Vermont, the home state of Calvin Coolidge, during the Parade of States program on WCAE at 9:30.

"Melody Lane," a new series of programs of vocal, organ and instrumental music, makes its bow on KQV at 7.

Cosmopolitan music comprises the program of the Dance Gypsies on WCAE at 9. A Spanish Serenade, a Cuban Bolero, an old Irish air, a Hungarian Czardas and a popular American melody are heard in concert form.

Richard Crooks sings "Only a Rose" and "Kathleen Mavourneen" on WCAE at 8:30.

Fan Fare

Marian Salmon, pianist heard on the Trained Seals and Sun-Telegraph Family programs, recently completed her first year on the air at WCAE . . . She is a Pittsburgher — and her hobby? Music. She's a graduate of the Frick Training School . . . Charlie Agnew, who begins a new series of programs over an NBC network next Sunday, started his career as a drummer . . . Now his favorite instruments are the trumpet and the xylophone . . . An estimate reveals that more than 300,000 persons visit NBC's New York studios annually.

Miss Salmon

Arnold Johnson's orchestra, heard on KDKA with Whispering Jack Smith and the Humming Birds, uses a theremin, electrical musical instrument, for special effects.

Col. Stoopnagle recently gave the following reasons why the public should "Keep Stoopnagle Out of the White House": He doesn't like silk hats, finger-bowls, shaking hands, throwing balls at opening games and going fishing in a stiff collar.

Contracts presenting Ruth Etting, the Boswell Sisters, Alex Gray, Norman Brokenshire and Nat Shilkret's orchestra on that cigaret quarter-hour have been renewed.

"The March of Time" programs return to the air September 9.

Farm Agents Join Insurance Firms

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., June 13.—Two former Belmont County farm agents are to be with a New Jersey insurance company after August 1, according to announcement from the Columbus headquarters of the Ohio agriculture extension service. Ira S. Hoddinott, who went from Belmont County to Columbus to serve as Ohio milk-marketing specialist, has gone to Chatham, N. J., to serve as assistant to one of the company executives, while J. C. Neff goes to Ames, Ia., to supervise Western farms for the same company.

We Are Better Off Without Fair Weather Friends

If she really loved him would she hand back his ring because he lost his job?

Or would she stick by him, helping him keep up his morale until he could get another one?

What's your idea?

Hal's girl gave him the gate when he got the well-known Pink Slip, and he's feeling pretty low; also, he's wondering—wondering if maybe she wasn't just marrying him for a meal ticket, and if losing his job didn't maybe do him a good turn when it showed up her racket.

"Dear Sally—

"I wonder if you could tell me what was my ex-sweetheart's game? Was she really sincere, or was she just working me for a good thing?

"She seemed to be a pretty girl. We were engaged for nearly a year. We had made plans to get married in a few months. I had a good job and thought the future was pretty bright.

"Then I lost my job, and when I told her about it she changed completely. Her actions were unbearable.

"Now I am not a loafer. I tried very hard to get other work but I couldn't. And at that, I have only been out of a job for two weeks.

DOUBTS HER LOVE

"Yet she told me that I couldn't call on her any more until I was working again. On top of that she claimed she loved me! Now everybody knows that jobs are very hard to find just now, so I can't understand her laying down the law that I must keep away from her till I get one, like I was loafing on purpose. It gets my goat.

"I told her that she didn't care for me if she could order me to stay away on account of not working. We had a fight and now our engagement is broken. I have the ring. She didn't make any trouble, I'll admit, about giving that back.

"But what I want to know is—did this girl really love me? Or did she just think I'd be a good meal ticket? Would a girl act like that if she really did love a man?

"It doesn't seem to me that she could. And I am wondering still, what was her game? Maybe I am well off that I did lose my job before I got taken for a sucker.

FAIR WEATHER KIND

My guess is that your suspicions are right, son, and it was your paycheck, and not you, that she fell for. To say the least, she certainly was a fair weather friend, and I'd say you were lucky to find it out before you got roped into a marriage.

Of course no self-respecting girl would keep on being serious with a bum who didn't want to work, and wouldn't take a job if he found one. But neither would a regular girl desert a real man in a pinch. She'd stick, even if things did look kinda dark for a while. She'd have faith in him and help him to have faith in himself.

Am I right, girls?

Would you slam the door on the boy friend if he had a little hard luck, or would you fight through with him?

Fay King Tells of Man Who Found Home Dreary While Wife Was Away

By FAY KING

Spending a few days in a certain city once, I called to pay my respects to an important man I knew there.

He cordially invited me to dine at his home. I had heard much of his magnificent residence.

We dined alone. His wife was away with a relative who was dangerously ill.

After dinner, at my request, he showed me over his home. Blind to all my exclamations of admirations he was silent until we settled down for a little talk.

"It's like a tomb here alone," he said. "I have been away so often and always thought my wife should be content here—with everything. I realize now how dreary it can be. I shall never leave her here alone again."

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Trying seasons for feet, this. Traveling over hot pavements, hoisted up on spiked heels, life must seem bitter to them. Comfort the little dogs by bathing at bedtime in water to which baking soda has been added, one tablespoonful to a quart of water. Rinse, dry and massage with lanoline.

Plastic surgery is used to correct outstanding ears and to decrease the size of the lobes. But as long as girls can curtain their ears with curly locks, there will be no great rush to the offices of cosmetic surgeons. Touching the ear lobe with rouge throws it into a shadow, makes it less conspicuous.

Eye make-up on the right gal, put on the right way, is flattering. There is now a wide choice of colors, from mauve to violet, from blue to green, from grey to brown. Many beauty shops offer the use of a private booth where the honorable patron can experiment to her heart's content.

Household Hints

Should the inside of the silver-plated lid of the mustard pot or the horseradish jar be inclined to turn green, coat it with a thin layer of paraffin.

Use one cup of strong coffee in place of the milk or water you are accustomed to using when making fudge. The flavor is decidedly different and delicious.

It is absolutely necessary to mark stockings in the big family or they will become hopelessly confused in the laundry. The best way is to have a certain color for each member of the family and keep firmly to it. Make a cross at the top of every stocking in the shade selected for that person and then there will be no difficulty in sorting.

Mothers, take care of those baby teeth! In olden times the first teeth were pulled out on the slightest pretext, but we all know now that the child will benefit in health if the first set of teeth can be preserved until the second set appears, as much of the health and vigor of the second teeth depend upon the care the first teeth receive.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Appreciation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter has been "keeping company" in a way with a certain young man who is attending college near us. Recently he has gotten into some trouble and he was sent home. These difficulties were adjusted and he returned. When on his way back to school he stopped to see us, and told us of his trouble. He was rather discouraged, and I wrote him a letter of encouragement and advised a better standard of associates. He has not answered my letter at all, and I wrote it over four weeks ago. He has been writing to my daughter, and I think he should have answered my letter with a word of appreciation, or made mention of the receipt of it to my daughter. Am I right? Or is he right in failing to mention the receipt of it at all?

During this trying time, or directly after, my daughter wrote to his mother (she had met her before) telling her she would not encourage him in visiting us (or her) at any time that would interfere with his school work. She has not received a reply. Should his mother have answered her letter? Is it not a lack of courtesy to ignore her kind letter? We will be grateful for your answer.

READER.

Apparently this boy and his family painfully lack the written expression of appreciation of kind words and a wish-to-be-of-help. Both letters should have been answered. I cannot understand why the boy and his mother shouldn't have been so deeply grateful for your u nderstanding words that they would have responded immediately to such goodness and graciousness.

A Gracious Note

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I invited a young man to attend a dinner dance with me, which invitation he accepted. I had a very enjoyable evening, and on the way home he had trouble with his car.

The next day I wrote him a little note, saying I hoped he did not have any trouble with his car going home, and that I had spent an enjoyable evening. Will I be criticized for writing this note? Do you think it was proper, or was it unnecessary?

PERPLEXED.

While this note wasn't "necessary," it seems to me a very gracious thing for you to do, and I am sure that the young man appreciated your kind thought. Such a note couldn't be and wouldn't be criticized or misinterpreted by anyone except someone who is not kind and gracious at heart . . . and that wouldn't count!

The Girl's Umbrella

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My girl friend tells me that it is impolite of me not to carry her umbrella when we are coming back from anywhere and it is not raining. Am I impolite not carrying it? I feel that it is not becoming. A. C.

I agree with you, and you have said it well . . . that it is "not becoming." I see no reason why the girl should not carry her own umbrella.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Controlling the First Lead

Bidding for Slams is not a question of the playing-tricks in the combined hands. A correctly bid Slam requires that the possibility of losing tricks to adversely held honors be weighed and discounted. This is one of the reasons why, even in reaching a Slam contract, the bidding should follow Approach methods, so that if the partnership finds that 2 or more tricks must be lost on the hand because opponents hold honors which must take tricks regardless of the final contract, the bid may stop short of the fatal Slam attempt, and the players be content to play only for game.

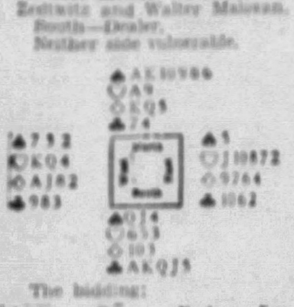
South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♠ (1)	Pass	3 ♠ (2)	Pass
4 ♠ (3)	Pass	5 ♠ (4)	Pass
6 ♠ (5)	Pass	Pass	Pass

(1) Showing Retrid strength in the club suit.

(2) Disclosing that the spade suit also is retoddable.

(3) If North's spades are strong enough to retrid, then spades apparently offer the best chance for game. South at this time, in view of his minimum holding, does not vision the probability of a Slam.

(4) The bid of five spades invites partner to bid for a Slam, if the hand is in any sense stronger than he has already shown. It warns him not to do so otherwise.

(5) South's hand actually does hold slight added values. The fact that his spade support includes Q J x indicates that

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a two-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope.

North's spade holding must be of at least six cards in length. The club suit is solid and should afford discards of losers in North's hand of hearts or diamonds. The Slam bid is therefore correct.

When East opened the heart Knave, Mr. von Zedtwitz, who held the South hand, remarked:

"It all depends on whether you control the first trick."

The Slam, as is apparent, was easily made, the adverse trumps being drawn and one heart and two diamonds discarded on Dummy's good clubs. The solidity of the trump and club suits assured the North player of a chance to safely develop his hand, provided he did not have to lose in excess of 1 trick in the red suits.

Today's Question:

South is Dealer.
The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Double	Redouble	Pass
Pass	2 ♣	Pass	3 ♡
Pass	6 ♡	Pass	East
Pass

What should South lead, holding:

♠A Q 10 6 ♡J 6 2 ◇Q 6 5 ♣A 9 8

Answer: Hearts two. A brief consideration of the bidding furnishes the important clue to the hand. North's Redouble was an obvious psychic. East's pass of the Redouble indicated great spade strength. West's final bid of six hearts almost surely was based on a minor suit, probably spades. The lead of the Ace of Spades, therefore, would only establish East's indicated King. The Ace of Clubs seems to be a safe trick later, and a diamond lead may save the Declarer a guess in a possible finesse for the Queen. On the bidding, partner cannot hold a probable trump trick which would be jeopardized by the lead of that suit; hence the waiting lead, which will not surrender needlessly the twelfth trick to the Declarer.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Empyema Causes Trouble in Breathing

When infection takes place, causes pus to accumulate within the lining of the chest, we have a condition known as empyema. It sometimes follows pneumonia or pleurisy, but it may occur independently of these diseases.

Dr. Copeland

Normally the sac in which the lungs are suspended contains a serous fluid, but when infection occurs this fluid is replaced by accumulated pus. This may become so abundant and thick as to interfere with the normal expansion of the lungs.

The afflicted person, usually a child, looks pale and has difficulty in breathing. There is fever, which rises and falls, and this peculiar temperature curve is spoken of as a septic temperature. It is due to the absorption into the blood stream of poisons from the empyema.

If an X-ray picture is taken of the infected lung a shadow is seen when pus is present, but if this test is not available, the diagnosis of empyema can be confirmed by tapping the chest walls.

This is a much simpler procedure than it sounds, and it does not require moving the patient to a hospital. It is performed by inserting a long hollow needle through the skin and tissue into the suspected area. If empyema is present, pus will be obtained. It may be necessary to repeat the procedure, because the pus is sometimes so thick it cannot flow readily through the needle.

If pus is found and the patient runs a septic temperature, with signs of difficult breathing, an operation may be advisable. This should not be delayed, because it is important that the pus be removed as soon as possible. Otherwise the pus may break through the lung tissue and reach a large bronchial tube. In that case, when the patient coughs he will expectorate foul, thick, offensive material.

This condition is followed by various complications. Instead of reaching a bronchial tube, the pus may spread and break into other organs or tissues, and form many abscesses. Then surgical attention is required in order to establish drainage immediately, so that pus in the body may be permitted to escape. This is accomplished by an incision so that the pus can be evacuated, with provision for its complete removal by drains. In severe cases it may be necessary to remove a part of one or two ribs.

When the pus is removed the compressed lung is able to expand, and there is no longer difficulty in breathing. The color becomes better and the temperature soon returns to normal. Convalescence is rapid in these operated cases. Complications occur only in cases where operation is delayed.

The operation for empyema can be performed in the home, but when a hospital is available it is advisable to remove the patient there, since the facilities and care received in the hospital aid in a quick and complete recovery.

PREMIERS ACT TO AID EUROPE

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service.

PARIS, June 13.—Constituting themselves a "war debt moratorium committee" pledged to the cause of saving Europe, Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, and Premier Edouard Herriot, of France, departed for Geneva and Lausanne today.

During the next few weeks, the two premiers, hailed as the most liberal statesmen in Europe, will occupy themselves almost exclusively with the tasks of solving the reparations and disarmament problems.

Whatever conclusions may arise, at present they have the satisfaction of knowing they are in complete accord on most of the problems they will have to tackle.

So far as reparations are concerned, it appears that MacDonald and Herriot agree that the Hoover moratorium must be continued to effect at least until after the American election.

Hopes are held out by the Premiers that by next fall some chance will have occurred in the American viewpoint to permit a permanent solution of the problem. The European viewpoint can suggest no other solution than cancellation of war debts.

DE VALERA'S MOTHER DIES

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 13.—(AP.)—In the modest home where she had lived quietly for 31 years, Mrs. Catherine Wheelwright, the mother of Eamon De Valera, president of the Irish Free State, died yesterday.

De Valera was her only son by her marriage to Vivian De Valera, a Spanish sculptor and musician, whom she met in New York shortly after her immigration from County Limerick, Ireland. After his death and her subsequent marriage in 1891 to Charles H. Wheelwright, Mrs. Wheelwright sent Eamon to relatives in Ireland. He last visited his mother in December.

Mrs. Wheelwright, who was 74, came to this country in 1876 and trained as a nurse in a New York City hospital.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 9:30 a. m. Besides the Irish political leader, she leaves a son by her second marriage, the Rev. Thomas J. Wheelwright, C. S. R., of West Hyd. N. J., and two brothers, Edward Coll, of Washington, Conn., and Patrick Coll, of Bruree, Ireland, her birthplace.

SIFT BELLEVUE MAN'S DEATH

The Coroner's office today is investigating the death of Thomas Davis, 50, of 10 Clarno avenue, Bellevue, who was struck by a taxicab two years ago. Davis died in Mercy Hospital this morning.

The morgue report shows a damage suit is now pending in Common Pleas Court as Davis signed a release shortly after he was injured and while he was said to have been under the influence of morphine which had been administered to relieve his pain.

Robert E. Wagner, of 1425 Beverly place, was the last driver at the time of the accident, which occurred at Margaretta street and Lincoln avenue, Bellevue. Davis was first taken to Suburban General Hospital in Bellevue, and had been removed to Mercy Hospital.

HUSBAND SLAIN, WIFE QUIZZED

LATROBE, Pa., June 13.—State police today were still questioning Mrs. Lillian Smith, 27, who yesterday shot and killed her husband, Wilbur Smith, 27, Derry Township road supervisor, near their home.

The wife told police that they were practicing with a .22 caliber rifle, and that the husband went into a shed to obtain more shells. While he was in the building, she said, she fired a shot in his direction, thinking to frighten him. The bullet struck him in the side.

Mrs. Smith is the mother of four children, the youngest four months of age.

British Destroyers Save 350 at Sea

SHANGHAI, June 13.—(INS.)—Two British destroyers today took 350 passengers from the Chinese steamer Shengking, which went aground on Chienming Island, in the Yellow Sea, 15 miles off Wei-Hai-Aei, on the Shantung Peninsula.

A brief dispatch mentioned no casualties and did not suggest the fate of the ship, which was owned by the China Navigation Company.

Panama Canal Cuts 2-Way Lock Traffic

PANAMA CITY, June 13.—(AP.)—The removal of one of the four lock shifts on the Panama Canal, continuing 16-hour daily operation, but limiting two-way traffic to eight hours instead of the present full time, was ordered today.

It was explained that full time status would be resumed when the daily average traffic amounted to 18 ships. The average is now 12, and decreasing.

Thomas and Maurer Named by Socialists

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP.)—Norman Thomas, of New York, and James H. Maurer, of Reading, Pa., were notified formally at a meeting of New York Socialists last night that they had been selected as that party's nominees for president and vice president, respectively, of the United States.

Louis Waldman, New York chairman, said differences within the party ranks had been smoothed over.

Flying Grandmother To Attend Reunion

NEWARK, N. J., June 13.—(AP.)—Mrs. M. Foster Bain, of New York, a grandmother who has passed the half-century mark, will pilot her own airplane to attend the thirtieth reunion of her class at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis., this week.

Mrs. Bain, who has 200 hours solo flying to her credit, will be accompanied by a professional pilot, but expects to handle the controls herself all the way.

A. E. ECKLES, LAWYER, DIES

Attorney Alexander F. Eckles, 58, of the law firm of Eckles & Davis, died Sunday in his home at 1170 Dobrman street, McKees Rocks, after a short illness. He was a school director of Stowe Township and solicitor for both Stowe and Neville townships.

Mr. Eckles leaves his wife, Mrs. Marie Eckles, and a son, Lowrie Eckles, of New Castle. He was a graduate of University of Pittsburgh, a member of First Baptist Church of McKees Rocks, Masonic Order, Grotto, Elks and Moose orders and Chartiers Country Club. Funeral services will be at the home Wednesday afternoon.

1,500 Open Meeting Of Eastern Star

Officer Kills Man Who Shot Butcher

CARLSBAD, Cal., June 13.—J. P. White, 52, real estate operator, was shot to death by a state motorcycle officer yesterday after wounding Ellis Zahniser, 42, a butcher, and firing upon two other men, one of whom sought to disarm him.

Carl Schmidt, sheriff's investigator, said a quarrel over a note led White to shoot Zahniser.

Volcano Erupts In Mexican Quake

MEXICO CITY, June 13.—(AP.)—A sharp earthquake was felt at Colima early yesterday, followed in the afternoon by a small eruption from the Colima volcano, said dispatches. Several light earth shocks were felt in Mexico City in the afternoon.

If she'd only save the ELASTICITY that makes stockings WEAR!

SHE could easily prevent those embarrassing runs. Other girls do. They make their stockings last twice as long by Luxing them after every wearing.

With Lux, you keep your stockings elastic—so the delicate silk threads give under strain—stretch and then spring back into shape without breaking.

Try it yourself! It takes only 2 minutes to Lux a pair of stockings. You'll agree that the easy Lux way of washing saves stocking money—makes even delicate chiffon hosiery wear.

The LUX Way to make stockings last twice as long

Wash this 2-minute way:
1. One teaspoon of Lux for each pair of stockings.
2. Add lukewarm water, squeeze suds through stockings, rinse well.

Don't use too-warm water—this fades color. With Lux you use lukewarm water. No hot water needed.

Don't rub with cake soap. It ruins elasticity. With Lux there's no rubbing! Even stubborn spots come out perfectly if you press a few dry Lux diamonds into the dampened spot.

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali, which robs silk of its life, weakens threads, fades colors. Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water alone is safe in Lux.

Sheep Shearer, 73, Clips 50 to 60 Daily

SPENCERS GROVE, Ia.—(INS.)—Seventy-three years old, Abe Breitbrike, living near here, still holds his own with young men when it comes to shearing sheep. He has made his living as a sheep shearer for 53 years and still is able to clip between 50 and 60 head a day.

Gaudy Clothes Give Away Two Bandits

DETROIT. — (INS.) — Police have found a new way of detecting criminals — seek gaudily dressed dance hall habitues. Two youths picked up on "general principles" because of their gaudy outfits were grilled and confessed participation in 17 robberies, the proceeds of which were spent on taxi dancers and cordage.

Skunk Good Pet, Student Declares

MOUNT VERNON, Ia.—(INS.)—Dwight Peterson, Cornell College student from Kinnakaka, Mich., has a skunk for a pet. Peterson declares that the skunk, shunned by most persons, is one of the most lovable pets one could have. He feeds the animal a special diet of eggs, milk and meat.

Dogs Killing City's Ducks Ordered Shot

PORTLAND, Ore. — (INS.) — The stern order, "Shoot to kill," has been issued to guards of Laurelhurst Park assigned to watch the duck pond. The order, however, does not refer to human prowlers, but to marauding dogs which have been making serious inroads into the park's waddling population.

New England Town Taxes Half of Cow

BROOKFIELD, N. H.—(INS.)—This town has taxed half of a cow, says the town report. How? Well—Otto Hanson, a World War veteran, and his brother owned a cow jointly. Otto's property is exempt from taxation and the remaining half belonging to the brother was taxed.

Detroit City-Owned Railway Profitable

DETROIT.—(INS.)—The city's municipally owned street railways system is making money, $20,301 in April alone, Joseph E. Multz, general manager, announces. It was the third consecutive month the railway system has shown a profit. Last year there was a deficit of $63,000.

Hike of 1,700 Miles Wins Job for Man

OAK BLUFFS, Mass.—(INS.)—Duncan McKenzie hitchhiked from Galesburg, Ill., a distance of 1,700 miles, to obtain a position with a Martha's Vineyard steamship company. His motive worth for a job impressed William A. Smith, superintendent of the line, and he placed him at work.

France Will Spend Millions on Ports

PARIS.—(INS.)—A total of $20,776,000 has been made available by the French government for the extension, improvement and restoration of ocean ports. In addition, $1,176,000 has been appropriated for lighthouse improvement.

Penna. Delegates Recall Brown's Fate

By MARK SHIELDS

CHICAGO, June 13.

Republican leaders, as they furiously go about the business of deciding how little concession they can make to anti-prohibition sentiment and at the same time maintain the support of drys, are really thinking about the Democratic convention, two weeks from today.

Mr. Shields

They realize that the Democrats will have had the opportunity to read their plank, and to model their attitude accordingly. They are extremely fearful that the minority group will put them in the hole, but they are not sure what they can do about it.

Pennsylvanians, particularly, are perturbed at the prospect facing them. State Chairman Edward Martin, who has no political affection for President Hoover—nor have many Pennsylvania politicians as they admit when they talk frankly—nevertheless wishes a plank which will contribute to party success, whether or not it compromises principle.

There are, however, some practical-minded politicians here in Chicago who think back in 1930, when the failure of Francis Shunk Brown to come out with the unequivocal declaration on prohibition cost him the gubernatorial nomination, and turned control of the state government over to Gifford Pinchot.

In this group it is frankly stated that to hesitate on prohibition now means a repetition on the state debacle on a national scale.

State Chiefs Qualify As Gum Shoe Experts

Pennsylvania headquarters in the Congress Hotel offer a fine illustration of the use of the rubber-soled shoe and the pussy-footing step. The so-called big party leaders are in a quandry as to where they shall turn. They feel that the sentiment of their state is wet, but they would like to adopt some attitude which would enthuse the wets and at the same time not antagonize the drys.

Those whom custom and courtesy designate the big political leaders would would like to carry water on one shoulder and alcohol on the other. It is a good trick if you can do it.

Back of the whole situation is a look ahead to the gubernatorial campaign in 1934. Undeniably there is under way now an effort to put Martin forward as the choice of the organization. He would like to meet the emergency two years hence with both anti-prohibitionists and drys as his friends.

Some of those associated with him now believe this can be done. The one or two really intelligent political manipulators in the Martin entourage, however, realize that the time has come for definite declarations, and it is significant that their advice is that the declaration shall be along the wet or liberal line.

So far, this advice has not served to move the state chairman, who is continuing in the ostrich attitude that you can eat your cake and have it.

Burke Wears Longest Badge of Convention.

In this Republican convention there may be some badges adorning the palpitant and hesitant breasts of delegates which cost more than that proudly worn by James Francis Burke, of Pittsburgh. Indeed, some of Mr. Burke's Pittsburgh associates may have expended much more to be elected, and to function, than he has.

But no badge in this or any other country bears such various designations as that worn by Mr. Burke. None sports so many bars from top to bottom.

On separate golden labels Mr. Burke is set forth as general counsel of the Republican National Committee, parliamentarian of the same august group, alternate delegate-at-large—to be revised to delegate-at-large because of the absence of Senator David A. Reed, and various other bars denoting the numerous functions of the Shadyside citizen. Mr. Burke has the longest badge of the convention.

The controversy over a special session of the State Legislature is being discussed by the assembled organization leaders. At a conference yesterday more time was devoted to this subject than to national affairs. It is apparent an effort is being made to perfect a counter-proposal to be laid at the feet of Gov. Pinchot June 20, and the organization wishes this proposal to be something which will enlist the sympathy of the public generally.

Then, if Mr. Pinchot does not desire to call a session on the terms laid down by the organization, with the appropriation and tax plans suggested by the old line leaders, it may be possible to put him in the hole, and to make it appear that it is the Governor and not the organization leaders which has blocked relief measures. Actually, there are numberless organization leaders participating in these conferences who are against a special session under any terms.

2 BULLETS DROP SUSPECT AT WINDOW

Pistol Found After Shoeless Alleged Prowler Loses Life; Identity of Victim Sought

An alleged prowler was shot and killed as he climbed through a kitchen window at the home of Henry Heinrich, dairy proprietor, of 201 Crest avenue, Clairton, early today, according to a Coroner's report.

Police said the man, aged about 30, and well dressed, was fired upon by Heinrich as, with gun in hand, he crawled into the room where Heinrich had been sleeping.

Struck by two bullets, he staggered a few feet from the window and collapsed. Heinrich summoned police, who reported the man dead when they arrived. A loaded revolver and the man's shoes were found beneath the window, police said.

Morgue officials said they found nothing to identify the dead man.

PROWLER GIVES GIRL BLACK EYE

Jane Gray, 22, of 946 Beech avenue, North Side, a stenographer, went to work today with a black eye.

The colored optic was administered by a prowler she discovered in her room, according to a police report.

Miss Gray told police that she was awakened by someone in her room and believing it her roommate, inquired:

"Is that you, Trudy?"

A soft voice answered affirmatively, and then, Miss Gray said she was struck in the face.

The prowler escaped without loot.

UPWARD TREND FORECAST IN PRICES

Executives Told to Keep Up Quality; Many Topics To Be Faced in 4 Days

Near-exhaustion of consumers' supplies is a hopeful sign for the possible early upward trend of prices and resumption of business, according to P. A. O'Connell, of Boston, president of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, addressing the opening convention of the organization today in the William Penn Hotel.

A warning was sounded against substitution of imitation goods for quality products as Mr. O'Connell urged store executives, gathered from all parts of the country, to readjust overhead and operating expenses rather than seek to offer low-priced inferior goods to stimulate volume.

FOUR-DAY SESSION

The convention opened for four days with a general session this morning. Irwin D. Wolf, of Kaufmann's, presided, and A. H. Burchfield, Sr., president, Joseph Horne Company, welcomed the delegates.

Separate sessions of five groups of management will feature the convention. These groups opened meetings this afternoon. The store managers' division was addressed on economies, changes in organization and shopping service by A. G. Drake, of Rrand Rapids; Howard W. Lovett, Boston, and C. G. Hobart, Chicago. H. M. Phifer, Pittsburgh, presided.

SAFETY STUDIED

Safety and maintenance were subjects being discussed before the Retail Delivery Association by L. F. Mathot, Pittsburgh, and Willard Bixby, New York. The Controllers' Congress was hearing operating cost discussions by Archibald MacLeish, Chicago; C. S. Carroll, Boston; R. E. Vogt, Milwaukee, and John Clark, New York.

One of the important subjects in management was being discussed by the personnel group, with Dr. David R. Craig, director, Research Bureau for Retail Training, University of Pittsburgh, presiding. The department morale was being stressed by Miss Natalie Kneeland. Selling methods as needed today were being outlined by Grace D. Ely and Louise Bernard.

CHILLED AIR COOLS COACHES

Ice-chilled air blown through Pullman and chair cars before they are boarded by passengers at the Pennsylvania Railroad Station, is an innovation being used today to offer night travelers sleeping comfort.

Twenty-four special cooling plant trucks are in use here. A huge fan sends its breezes over blocks of ice. The chilled air then travels through a huge hose attached at one end of the car. As the air is swept through the car, a suction fan on the ice machine draws the warm air from the other end of the car.

The cooling process is continued until the heat absorbed by the steel walls and roof during the day has been drawn off, leaving the inside with a comfortable temperature.

Firemen Pay Tribute To Dead Sunday

Memorial services for firemen who have lost their lives in the line of duty will be held Sunday afternoon in Stowe High School, in connection with the Washington Bicentennial celebration in Stowe Township June 18 to 25, under auspices of the Firemen's Association of Allegheny County.

A water battle will be staged every night, and fraternal night will be observed June 22. A parade of uniformed firemen and apparatus will be held June 25.

Lehigh Grads Elect Glen Osborne Man

J. Daniel Berg, of 1207 Beaver road, Glen Osborne, president of the Dravo-Doyle Company, has been elected vice president of the Lehigh University Alumni Association, it was announced today. Berg was graduated from the University in 1905.

Gravel Bin Crash Causes Landslide

Workmen today were clearing away about 300 tons of gravel which was spilled on the Allegheny River bank near the Washington boulevard when a bin of the Pittsburgh Gravel Company collapsed. No one was injured.

PROBE OF PARK OFFICE WIDENS

Giving intimations of having uncovered a mass of evidence, members of the Allegheny County Bar Association committee investigating the conduct of the office of District Attorney Andrew T. Park forecast last night that the probe might be an "all summer job."

The committee, headed by J. Smith Christy, is said to be investigating new charges that county prosecutors allowed jurors friendly to defendants to serve in election fraud trials.

Heating Association Convention to Open

The twenty-third annual convention of the National District Heating Association will open in the William Penn Hotel tomorrow, with delegates in attendance from many sections of the United States and Canada.

The convention will be welcomed to the city by Thomas A. Dunn, president of the Chamber of Commerce, with response by D. L. Gaskill, of Greenville, O., secretary of the association. The annual banquet will be held Thursday night, and election of officers will follow Friday morning.

Two Men Beaten, Robbed of Money

Two men reported to North Side police early today that they had been strong-armed. George W. Hahn, of 512 Ivy street, said he was seized by two men on the Seventh Street Bridge. They fled with $35. A few minutes later Charles Beckwith, 49, 204 Anderson street, told North Side police he had been robbed of $5 after he had been strong-armed at Robertson and Anderson streets.

Robbers Steal 30 Suits From Store

Robbers forced the front door and took 30 suits of clothes valued at $600 from Joseph Smith's store at 39 Overhill street early today, police reported.

CHURCH PARADE DEFIES RAIN

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP.)—Despite a drizzling rain, upwards of 40,000 men marched up Fifth avenue yesterday in the golden jubilee parade of the Holy Name Society, an organization of Catholic laymen.

The police estimate said an additional 30,000 watched from sheltered spots along the avenue. The parade was followed by an address by Cardinal Hayes, in which he denounced blasphemy on the stage. He said:

"Those who don't revere God cannot revere anything else, and America needs his reverent love so much today. All our difficulties and sorrows are solved if we are reverent and patient with Almighty God."

Covenant Mission Meeting Tomorrow

The monthly religious meeting of the New Covenant Mission, Pride and Crawford streets, will be held at 7:45 p. m. tomorrow, with the Rev. W. L. C. Samson, pastor of the Ninth United Presbyterian Church, South Side, in charge.

PROBE SLAYING OF CONSTABLE

ROCHESTER, Pa., June 13.—State police from New Brighton sub-station yesterday questioned all local policemen in connection with the fatal shooting of Constable John Fee, of Beaver Falls, as he sat in an automobile in Harrison street, near the Pennsylvania Railroad station here, early Saturday.

The troopers are preparing their case for a preliminary hearing which will probably be held Wednesday night before Justice of the Peace W. A. Wehr.

Calvin Davis, 24, of 616 Second avenue, Eastvale, said to be a nephew of Burgess Stewart L. Barnes, of Rochester, and Norman Blinn, 23, of 419 Jackson street, Rochester, Fee's companions, are being held in connection with the killing.

South Side Man Held As Pinchot Annoyer

Described as a frequent and annoying correspondent of Gov. Gifford Pinchot and Al Smith, George Hardick, 40, of 2824 Arlington avenue, was being held at South Side Police Station today for the state police.

Picnic for Dormont And Mt. Lebanon

Hundreds of school children of Dormont and Mt. Lebanon will attend the annual community picnic Friday, June 24, at Kennywood Park. Transportation will be furnished the pupils of both communities, who will be given free amusement tickets. A group of citizens is making arrangements for the Dormont schools, and the Mt. Lebanon Lion Club is making the plans for that community.

Body of Heroine Here for Funeral

The body of Mrs. Elizabeth Casey, 27, which was recovered from Lake Erie at Cleveland yesterday, was brought to Pittsburgh today for funeral services tomorrow. Mrs. Casey drowned May 30 while trying to rescue a friend. She leaves her husband, Patrick Casey, of 2328 Primrose street. Services will be held at Erny's funeral chapel at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow.

Radio Entertainer Recovering in Home

Phyllis Morton, well known to WCAE radio listeners for her recitals of poetry, is at her home, 29 North Linwood avenue, Crafton, recovering from an eye operation necessitated as a result of an injury several years ago. She expects to be back on the air in several weeks, she said today.

THE ICE MACHINE . . . ONE HOSE DRAWS OUT AIR, COOLED ON ICE, PUMPED BACK INTO CAR

WILL ROGERS SAYS

CHICAGO, June 13.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

Well, here I am, right at the stage door waiting to see all the actors in this great comedy called "a convention held for no reason at all." I have the distinction of being the first Democratic white child to arrive at the Republican fiasco. Breakfast at home Saturday morning, dinner in Kansas City, then into Chicago for breakfast Sunday, but disgraced myself by making the last hop on the train, as there was no regular plane. Guess I am getting old, and going back. Be taking up golf next. A newspaper man spoiled my whole convention by asking me if "I was an alternate." Now a delegate is bad enough, but an alternate is just a spare tire for a delegate. An alternate is the lowest form of political life there is. He is the parachute in a plane that never leaves the ground.

Yours, WILL.

PITTSBURGH'S PER CAPITA DEBT GAINS

Taxpayers Here Must Pay Average of $108.30 Each; New York Leads Nation

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP.)—The average American citizen in 219 leading cities must eventually pay $114 to eliminate the debt of his local government.

This is $4.96 more than his obligation was in 1931, and $9.88 more than it was in 1930.

His obligation increased 4.5 per cent this year over last year, and 8.7 per cent over 1930.

And for 33 large cities net bonded indebtedness has increased from $2,658,000,000 10 years ago to $4,633,000,000 this year, an increase of 77 per cent. The population of these cities increased during the decade from 21,873,778 to 26,204,801, or 20 per cent. The per capita net debt increase was from $119.27 to $176.82 for the period.

New York, the largest city, also has the largest debt, a total of $1,145,054,815, excluding debt incurred on self-supporting enterprises, or $1,644,054,815 net debt. New York's per capita figure, excluding self-supporting works, was $165.22, third highest of 13 cities studied with population of more than 500,000.

Philadelphia had the greatest big city per capita debt at $213.72, while Baltimore was second with $165.31, nine cents above New York. St. Louis with $70.50, had the lowest debt in this group.

Other big cities ranged as follows: San Francisco, $151.28; Detroit, $150.61; Buffalo, N. Y., $133.53; Cleveland, $112.08; Milwaukee, $110.93; Pittsburgh, $108.30; Chicago, $107.86; Boston, $83.30; Los Angeles, $78.41.

Girl Takes Poison, Police Place Charge

Mrs. Amelia Davis, 18, of 83 Harwood street, was in South Side Hospital today after having swallowed poison last night following an argument with her husband. Her condition was not serious. Police lodged a charge of disorderely conduct against her.

2 DEAD, 3 HURT IN TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

Driver Arrested in Ingram Fatality; Crash Into Pole Fatal to Youth

Walter G. Eltringham, 18, of 741 Wymore street, died in South Side Hospital yesterday of injuries sustained Saturday when his automobile skidded and struck a pole near Paris Lake. Mary Johns, of 3000 Dellwood street, a passenger in the car, was slightly hurt.

Nicholas Kolline, 65, of Ingram avenue, was injured fatally when struck near his home by an automobile driven by Thomas E. Wellstein, of Keokuk, Ia. The victim died in Mercy Hospital a few hours later. Wellstein was arrested and gave bond for his appearance before the Coroner.

Robert Minitan, 22, of 5528 Plymouth street, and Howard Metcalf, 21, of 5437 Ellsworth street, were in Homeopathic Hospital with injuries suffered when an auto in which they were riding, driven by Bernard Huber, Jr., of 725 Copeland street, collided with a car driven by Esther Pasquale, of 226 Omega street. Neither of the drivers was hurt.

Charles Lason, 12, of 322 Reifert street, was in South Side Hospital with a fracture of the left leg, sufferede, police said, when he was struck by an automobile driven by Edward Donohue, 37, of 400 Winton street.

BEER SEIZED, COUPLE HELD

Prohibition agents today said the 20 half-barrels of beer they seized in West River avenue yesterday were intended for a houseboat in the Allegheny River nearby. So they raided the houseboat and arrested John Polcenek and Anna Seder and reported finding a half-barrel of beer and two gallons of whisky. Both were held for hearing.

When the agents seized the 20 half-barrels they arrested Andrew Kuzniewski and Burness Cotterill, who were placed under bonds today after hearing on charges of possession and transportation.

Other week-end arrests reported by the agents included John and Anna Cencrik, 1206 Washington street, Braddock; Mary Flago and Frank Rudman, Prospect street, East Pittsburgh, and Michael Rogner, of Plum way. They were also charged with violating the liquor laws.

HOW TO HANG 'OLD GLORY'

Correct hanging of flags tomorrow, Flag Day, is urged by patriotic societies as necessary in showing proper respect for the national emblem.

TINTYPER RUBENSTEIN . . EARNING HIS COLLEGE COURSE

Duquesne Student Wins Diploma With Nickels.

Photographing the student body with a tintype camera, is the latest and best method found yet for earning college tuition, according to Morris Rubenstein, Duquesne senior.

Morris has earned all of his college expenses with the nickels he obtained for his tintypes. On Wednesday he will receive his diploma. Besides snapping pictures of Duquesne students, he has traveled many miles through several states with his camera.

Last summer he traveled 6,000 miles through Pennsylvania, Ohio and New York. This season he hopes to go to Europe with his camera.

The secret of getting good pictures is to humor the subjects as they pose and make them smile, Rubenstein says. When the girls and boys stand out in front ready to be snapped, he says:

RETREAT OPENS AT DUQUESNE

The annual spiritual retreat of the Fathers of the Holy Ghost, who compose the administration of Duquesne University, began last night in the university chapel. Resident officers and faculty of the university together with visiting priests bring the attendance to 54.

The Rev. James F. Carroll, director of scholastics at the Holy Ghost Seminary, Ferndale, Norwalk, Conn., is preaching the conferences. The Rev. Eugene Phelan, provincial of the Holy Ghost order, arrived last night.

SHOT IN FIGHT OVER WOMAN

Shot in the abdomen during a quarrel said to have started outside a confectionery at 2201 Penn avenue when a woman was slurred, Steve Filkosky, 23, of 2227 Mulberry way, was in West Penn Hospital today in a critical condition.

Joseph Maiette, 40, owner of the store, said he shot Filkosky in self-defense, according to Penn Avenue police. Maiette declared, police said, that a fight started when one of several youths insulted his wife.

Filkosky seized him by the throat, Maiette said, and was choking him when Maiette drew a revolver and shot him. Police said they arrested Maiette and two others, Joseph Bartkins, 28, of Hawthorne road, Millvale, and Anthony Jacobs, 24, of 2216 Spring way, both of whom were held as witnesses.

What a LUNCH for Mother!

And it's the easiest thing in the world to prepare. Just fill a bowl with Kellogg's Rice Krispies, pour on milk or cream and add some fruit. There it is! Help yourself! Proteins, energy, vitamins — all in this delicious treat.

Every one likes Rice Krispies because it's such a different cereal. Toasted rice bubbles that actually crackle in milk or cream. Delicious for breakfast. Splendid for the children's supper — so healthful and easy to digest.

3 HELD IN SCORE OF ROBBERIES

Three men were held for investigation by South Side police today, in connection with a score of robberies throughout the city, after having been arrested in Brownsville road in a stolen automobile, according to Lieut. Paul Berman.

One of them, George Drake, 28, of Antenor street, suffered a broken leg when he tried to run away, Berman said. He is in the South Side Hospital. The others, John Jarek, 18, of Elmont street, and Joseph Bera, 19, of Riley street, were being held at South Side police station.

County detectives reported thieves entered the store of Ben Saunders, in Pitcairn, and escaped with $1,000 taken from a cash register. The detectives took fingerprints from the register.

A. G. Swaidner, of 27 South Fremont street, Bellevue, reported that a thief entered his automobile while he was stopped in traffic in Western avenue, and after threatening him with a revolver, took $10 and the machine.

BOND MARKET IRREGULAR, NARROW

Investors Stand Aside Awaiting Definite News On Congress and Debts.

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP)—Conflicting trends pervaded the bond market during the past week, with the result that the averages followed a narrow range and traders and investors maintained a "show me" attitude toward taking on any heavy commitments.

On the other board, there was a mildly improved sentiment on reports that Congress would adjourn this week. The Treasury's $750,000,000 note and certificate offering was heavily over-subscribed and the American dollar picked up strength in the foreign exchange market. The banking consortium, headed by the Morgan firm, made moderate purchases.

At the same time, the red side of the ledger still contained numerous items. Most of the railroad liens still had a shaky appearance; the effect of the new taxes was viewed with some apprehension and last, but not least, the forthcoming Lausanne conference cast a dark shadow on the international outlook. Financial optimists, however, were of the opinion that almost anything that may happen in Europe had already been discounted in this market.

RAIL LIST SOFT

The railway category was the weakest, while the utilities and industrials were only moderately lower. Application of the New York Central for a large loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, in addition to continued poor earnings reports, acted as a further depressant to the carrier group. Although there were wide swings in some of the low-price speculative loans, daily trading volumes were small, with offerings tending to diminish sharply on the decline.

The utilities and industrials were mixed, but there was little urgent selling in either of these lists. Power and Light Company bonds were inclined to sag, at times, and communications corporation loans were under some pressure. The oils displayed a firm tone.

U. S. ISSUES STEADY

British 5½s, recently the strongest of the foreign section, dropped under par for the first time in more than a month, but later rallied. French loans were heavy, but the Germans recovered substantially. Japanese bonds eased. The Chileans were liquidated following the political upheaval in the South American country.

United States government issues were comparatively steady throughout, recording only daily fractional changes in somewhat light trading.

BUILDING WORK AIDS STEEL

CLEVELAND, O., June 13.—(AP)—Structural steel bookings, 50 per cent above the average rate of awards thus far in 1932, continued to give strength to the steel industry last week, although steel making operations declined 4 points to 17 per cent, the magazine Steel says in its weekly trade review.

Structural bookings of 26,361 tons brought the aggregate up to 109,713 tons for the past four weeks and was the largest volume for any consecutive weeks in almost a year.

Other than for structural material, the magazine said, demand for finished steel had subsided to a degree reminiscent of the summer lull of preceding years—a low point which producers had hoped to avoid because they did not ascend to the spring peak.

The magazine says:

"Sentiment, however, has not sunk to a 17 per cent basis. Producers make no effort to gloss the situation over, yet remain convinced that June and July will prove the low point and that the extreme recession in operations only hastens the upturn."

Chevrolet Sales Approach Output

DETROIT, June 13.—Chevrolet dealers report the sale of 48,218 new cars and trucks in May, or within 200 units of domestic production for the month, according to W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager. Sales so far this month show continuance of the rising curve. Chevrolet also is conducting an intensive new car campaign this month.

Deposits of Kelly Tire Bonds Ample

NEW YORK, June 13.—Deposits of both the 6 per cent and 8 per cent preferred stocks of Kelly-Springfield Tire Company under the company's recapitalization plan have now exceeded the two-thirds of the outstanding shares required.

More than 60 per cent of outstanding common stock also has been deposited and it is likely that deposits of this issue will reach the required two-thirds level within the next few days after which the plan will be declared operative.

Murray to Vote On Capital Revision

NEW YORK, June 13.—A special meeting of stockholders of Murray Corporation of America has been called for July 11 to vote on a proposal to convert present no par common shares to an equal number of shares of $10 par value, reducing stated capital to $8,089,120 from $22,745,127.

Directors propose to utilize a portion of the resulting capital surplus of $14,636,007 to write down net physical assets by $8,896,654 and to eliminate an item of $295,851 carried on the books as goodwill of Jenks Muir Manufacturing Company, a wholly owned subsidiary.

TRANS-LUX PAR VALUE CUT

NEW YORK, June 13.—Trans-Lux Daylight Picture Screen Corporation has called a special meeting of stockholders for June 30 for the purpose of authorizing a change in capital stock from 1,000,000 shares of no par to 1,000,000 shares of $1 par, and to reduce the stated value of outstanding capital stock to $1 a share from $7.50.

The meeting will also consider the question of canceling outstanding options on stock and of giving new options under the same terms and conditions at a lesser price for an extended term for services performed.

Tire Shipments Gain Sharply in April

NEW YORK, June 13.—Shipments of pneumatic casings for April totaled 3,697,630, an increase of 25.2 per cent over March this year, but were 25 per cent below April, 1931, reports Rubber Manufacturers Association, Inc. Production of pneumatic casings in April was 3,516,861 casings, a decrease of 4.2 per cent under March this year and 28.9 per cent below April, 1931. Pneumatic casings on hand April 30 amounted to 9,845,820, a decrease of less than 1 per cent under March and 1.9 per cent below April 30, 1931.

Farm Exports Best In Seven Months

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Owing mainly to an increase in wheat and flour shipments, exports of agricultural products from the United States in April were higher than in any of the seven preceding months. The index was 80. Exports also were higher than in April, 1931, and April, 1930.

WATER RUNNING UP HILL SHOWN

Water running up hill? Simple! In the eerie light of the stroboglow, water ascends from the bowl to the fawcet into which it appears! How?

Flashes of light, lasting only three ten-millionths of a second, are synchronized with the falling drops of water. The drops appear to stand still. Each drop is seen at exactly the same position. The image carrys over in the eye until the next flash.

As the frequency of the light flashes is increased, each drop is seen a fraction of an inch higher. The water appears to flow backwards from the bowl into the pipe above.

Airplane propellers whirling at full speed, gears revolving in mesh, the movement of valves in gasoline engines, or any other movement, rotating or reciprocating up to 10,000 times a minute, appear motionless when viewed in the stroboglow's wierd red light.

GOLD EXPORTS ARE NEAR END

Poor's Service Declares Reversal of Movement To Take Place Shortly

NEW YORK, June 13.—A revival of confidence in the dollar on the part of European investors should follow the adjournment of Congress, according to Poor's Service, and the result may be that after the central banks of Europe complete their present program there will be substantial imports of gold into the United States before the end of 1932.

We believe, says Poor's, that the central banks of Europe will continue to build up their gold reserves by calling in their American balances, but estimate that the remaining gold that can go out as a result of this policy cannot amount to more than $400,000,000. It is probable that more than this amount is already under earmark, so it seems likely that the current month will see some sort of a climax in the gold movement.

CLIMAX SEEN

Certainly if gold continues to go out through June at as high a rate as during May the result should be pretty close to an exhaustion of foreign ability to draw gold from the United States by cashing in current balances. This would leave foreigners able to draw additional gold only by selling their holdings of United States securities at sacrifice prices.

Poor's estimated late in May that $1,250,000,000 was the maximum amount that foreign nations might theoretically withdraw by cashing in all the obligations of the United States that they possess, including both current balances and securities. Practically it appeared to Poor's at that time as if Europe was in a position to draw only a few hundred millions more from our gold stock. It now looks as if Europe was rapidly reaching the end of this withdrawal process.

BALANCE FAVORABLE

Not only is the United States still a creditor nation with a merchandise export balance and with other payments coming due to her that must be settled in some way, but there is a prospect that when the tide of business and the trend of the securities markets appear to have turned in America, there may be a fresh rush of foreign capital employment under the protection of Uncle Sam. Political developments recently on the continent have been none too reassuring to European investors. In recent weeks there have been signs of a movement of capital to England where matters appear to be on the upgrade. Any signs of similar improvement in the United States might easily be followed by a similar influx of funds here.

Wholesale and Jobbing Trade Conditions

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP)—Tabloid review of wholesale and retail business conditions and the state of crops as reported to Bradstreet's last week from the following centers, on the basis of comparisons with conditions in the same areas in the corresponding week last year:

	Whole. and Job. Trade	Retail Trade	Mfg. and Industry	Collections	Crops
Pittsburgh	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow	Good
Chicago	Fair	Fair	Quiet	Fair	Fair
Cleveland	Quiet	Quiet	Slow	Slow	Good
Detroit	Quiet	Fair	Quiet	Slow	Good
Indianapolis	Fair	Quiet	Quiet	Slow	Fair
Louisville	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow	Fair
Milwaukee	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow	Fair

Omaha	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow	Fair
St. Louis	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow	Good
St. Paul	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow	Good
Baltimore	Fair	Fair	Quiet	Slow	Good

Pittsburgh—Plate glass and tableware activity sluggish; jewelry demand off; department store trade disappointing.

Chicago—Seasonal buying brings retail volume about equal to 1931; spring wheat condition best in years.

BUSINESS

Columbia Gas Profit For Quarter to Show Only Small Decline

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

COLUMBIA GAS and Electric Corporation is expected to report earnings for the second quarter of the present year close to those of the corresponding period of 1931. For that period the organization showed income of $5,442,187 after all charges, which was equivalent to 24 cents a share on the common stock. The decline under this figure for the three months ended June 30, 1932, will be small.

In the first quarter of the present year, Columbia Gas earned $6,481,071 or 43 cents a share. Smaller earnings for the second quarter than for the first will follow seasonal precedents since domestic demand for heating purposes invariably declines during this period.

Industrial Demand Continues Decline

A LOW RATE of industrial demand has been the principal factor in reducing Columbia's earnings this year. The number of industrial customers has increased during the past year, but most of them are suffering from unfavorable business conditions so that the total sales of gas to this class of customers has declined sharply.

Columbia's present policy is to sit tight, reduce its indebtedness as rapidly as possible, and wait for a business recovery. Its vast expansion program has been completed. It has the largest single natural gas system in the world. Its great expenditures for capital improvements during recent years have not started to yield a return. However, when business does revive, the company may be expected to show an exceptionally sharp revival in earnings as it starts to get the business which its new facilities will make available.

Current Position Steadily Improves

EVEN THOUGH adverse business developments have materially cut into earnings, Columbia Gas still is making a profit sufficient to cover its dividend requirements of $1 a share annually on the common stock. But it is paying this dividend in 5 per cent preferred stock instead of cash, so that the current financial position is improving steadily.

Bank loans are being reduced and a good cash position is being maintained. On April 14, Philip D. Gossler, president, said that bank loans had been reduced $6,500,000 since January 1. This left a total of bank loans outstanding of $37,000,000, and cash in excess of $12,500,000.

It may safely be estimated that Columbia Gas will be practically out of debt to banks within a year from now even if there is no improvement in business.

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Slugger Aiding Terry. Saltzgaver Not Alone.
Umps Wink at Fights. Max's Training Bouts.

OTT'S BAT FACTOR IN GIANT UPLIFT

THE NEW YORK club has been getting vastly better results on the field since Bill Terry took charge 10 days ago. Whether this has been due to the change in leadership, or to the possibility that the Giants, naturally a powerful team, were bound to get going sooner or later no matter who might be directing them, is a question. But there can be no disputing the fact that Mel Ott's home run slugging has outweighed all other individual items in making Terry look good so far.

Mel Ott

Up to today, the New Yorkers, under their new boss, had won seven out of nine games and five in succession. During that drive Ott made six home runs, against the same number in the previous 40 contests played by the club. He helped to win the first of the seven victories with a homer against Boston, and his clouts were directly responsible for three of the last five wins. On June 7 he made two four-baggers to beat the Reds, 4 to 3, knocking in three of the four runs; June 9 he made two more to beat the Reds again, 3 to 2, and last Saturday his circuit swat gave the Giants three runs in their 6-to-4 decision over the Pirates.

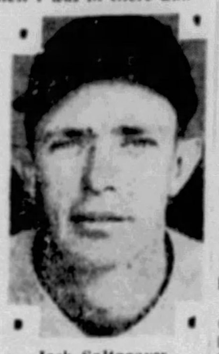
FRANK HOGAN, the Giants' big catcher, frequently pulls the unusual, but he outdid even himself in that direction the other day by contributing an exceptional number for the book. He made himself the only player on record who ever got hurt getting a base on balls.

Ordinarily, this is practically impossible, but Hogan is an extraordinary person. In moving aside to let a fourth wide pitch go by, the huge backstop twisted a muscle in one of his legs, and after limping heavily to first base he continued to the clubhouse for repairs. Next day he was unable to catch.

THEY'RE GOING PRETTY far in some of the minor leagues to restore so-called color to the game. By official order, they've come to closing their eyes to player fights on the field in the belief that a few good scraps will revive interest in the diamond sport.

Umpires in the Southern Association and Texas League are said to be under secret instructions to turn their backs to fights that start on the field and permit the combatants to battle it out, or at least not to interfere too hastily.

AGAINST THE YANKEES in their recent series, the Tigers acted at times like a club in a panic. Their weird performance recalled to Joe McCarthy a minor league experience. "In Minneapolis," he related, "the late Joe Cantillon had a big, awkward outfielder named Carl Cashin. One day when I was in there with the Louisville club, we had the bases full in the ninth inning with two out and three runs needed to tie. One of our fellows singled to right. The ball rolled through Cashin's legs to the fence, everybody scored and we won. After the game, when Cantillon was on his way to the clubhouse, a kid asked him for a ball. 'Get out there behind Cashin tomorrow,' snapped Cantillon, 'and you'll get all you want.'"*



Jack Saltzgaver

WHEN THE YANKEES gave up Jack Saltzgaver for the time being as a failure and shipped him to their Newark farm in the International League, they drew attention again to the fact that the highest-priced players have the toughest time making good in the major circuits.

Saltzgaver, a minor league standout at second base for St. Paul last year, cost $45,000 and was raised as a recruit who couldn't miss in the big show. Joe McCarthy believes that the jump was just a little too much for the young man at this time and that he has enough natural ability to make the grade in another year or so, but for the present Jack must be listed as a failure.

AND SALTZGAVER IS only one of half a dozen players brought into the majors at fancy prices this year who have failed to live up to their glowing advance notices. One of the others is also a Yankee, in the person of Shortstop Frank Crosetti, who cost $75,000.

Among the rest might be mentioned Len Koenecke, Giant outfielder, whose price was pretty close to that paid for Crosetti; Stanley Hack, third baseman, who set the Cubs back $40,000; Catcher Bill Brenzel, for whom the Pirates coughed up something like $35,000, and Sam Gibson, a come-back, purchased by the Giants for $17,000 on the strength of an impressive pitching record in the minors.

NOT ONE IN the lot has been a success. Brenzel preceded Saltzgaver to the minors, having been placed with the same club, Newark, under option by the Pirates. Hack made a flashy start for the Cubs, but soon was taken out of the lineup. Crosetti has been lifted a couple of times, and has shown up so poorly as a hitter that he bats eighth when he plays. Koenecke has fallen far below hitting expectations, and Gibson is credited with only two slab victories. Fancy price tags and a lot of publicity appear still to act as a jinx on ambitious rookies.

REPORTS THAT SPARRING partners have been landing heavily on Max Schmeling don't mean a great deal. In the first place, such stories from training camps are frequently mere publicity fakes, and even if they are true in this instance there is nothing in them to alarm Schmeling supporters. Sparring partners have done that to Max before, but he always has managed to come through in a real fight.

Schmeling is going to be hit by Jack Sharkey a week from tomorrow night, and hit hard. Make no mistake about that. But whether it will cause the defeat of the champion is another question. Max has been hit on the chin in all of his fights, but since coming to this country he never has finished second in any bout.

One detail in which the 200-meter dash in the Olympic Games will differ from the 220-yard race in the average American track meet is that the Olympic event will be run around a curve. In the United States, straightaway dashes are the rule at this distance, but in Europe the custom is to run around one turn.

Dean Cromwell

Because the 200-meters was first staged on a curved course in the Olympics, and because it has continued to be run this way on each succeeding program, that will be the order again in the 1932 Games at Los Angeles.

DON'T THINK THIS turn doesn't make a difference. You can see its effect by a comparison of the world records for 220 yards, run straightaway, and 200 meters, run around a curve. A 200-meter course is less than 220 yards, being only 218 yards, 2 feet and 2 inches, yet the world record for it is a full second slower than that for 220 yards, being 21.6 seconds against only 20.6 seconds for the furlong. Other conditions may have had something to do with that wide difference, but Dean Cromwell, Southern California track coach, estimates that, even with everything else equal, a sprinter loses at least three-fifths of a second running 200 meters around a curve. That is, if he can run the 200 meters in 22 flat on the straightaway his curve time will be 22.6. At that Cromwell looks for some surprising time in Los Angeles. He says the Olympic Stadium track is the fastest in the world, and for this reason he expects to see the Olympic record of 21.6 shattered this summer.

TEAMS TO PLAY BARGAIN BILL TOMORROW

NEW YORK, June 13.—A sulking batik of Pirates roamed the stretches of Upper Broadway today. The Pittsburgh athletes were peeved as a result of a second successive day of idleness, their diamond clash with the Giants scheduled for this afternoon having been called off at mid-day on account of wet grounds.

George Gibson's battlers encountered a similar eventuality yesterday, but if the skies clear they will not want for action on the morrow, the two teams being carded for a doubleheader. The dual engagement grew out of the postponement of yesterday.

The postponed game of today will be played as part of a twin bill at the Polo Grounds on Wednesday, July 27. The Pirates are due to be back on their second eastern excursion at that time.

The New York Giants cut their roster to the new 23-player limit today by releasing Leroy Parmalee, right-hand pitcher, on option to the Indianapolis Club of the American Association.

Parmalee's departure followed the release of Eddie Marshall, infielder, to Montreal, also on option.

GIANTS HAVE EDGE

The Polo Grounders have copped the only game played in the series, in fact the tilt staged Saturday was the first of the season between the oldtime rivals. When the Giants were in Pittsburgh recently they ran into a wet spell and not one game of the schedule set was attempted.

A small crowd of disappointed Giant fans put on a mild riot yesterday after the New York management had called off the game. The decision angered the followers of the sport, some of whom demanded the return of their money. This was refused and the failure to give back the long green rather than dole out rain checks made the fans howl in derision. Police had the situation well in hand and aside from the tossing of some harmless cartons no damage was done.

The doubleheader slated for tomorrow will bring the Pirate-Giant series to a close. When they finish in Manhattan the Buccos will move northward to Boston, where on Wednesday they will open a five-game series. A doubleheader will be put on by Boston folks on Friday, the occasion being Bunker Hill Day. The Buccos will proceed to Brooklyn to wind up their jaunt after they finish in Boston.

BUCS' SUITS HIGH

Although the Rovers have dropped three of the five games played on the journey East they are not discouraged. They are still within a few steps of the honor position which notch is occupied by Rogers Hornsby's Cubs.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF LAST SATURDAY: MORE WEIGHT, MORE SPEED—At first thought it is puzzling that a loaded plane should fly faster than an empty one. However, it is easier to understand when it is realized that a loaded plane requires a greater lift on each square foot of wing area, and to obtain the lift on the wings a greater speed must be attained. The plane I drew in my cartoon is a Curtiss-Wright, Junior, such as will be given to the winner of the first prize in the National Believe It or Not Contest.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

The show featuring Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, and Johnny Indrisano, of Boston, was postponed this afternoon because of threatening weather. An attempt will be made to stage it tomorrow night.

A constant drizzle, with no sign of a letup, caused the management to set back the card before time for the fighters to weigh in this afternoon.

BUTCH IN SECOND CHANCE

Mike Burch, of Cleveland, and Babe Collins, of Monessen, in the eight-round semi-final. Fritzie Zivic and Steve Semich are paired for the second bout, and Max Elling and Packy McFarland will box the opener.

In the event of a second postponement tomorrow, the show will have to be set back a full week to next Monday or thrown out altogether because of conflicting attractions at other local clubs this week.

Indrisano arrived in town yesterday to join his manager, Andy Neidereitter, of New York, who stayed over after Paulie Walker, another of his proteges, boxed Davy Grove at Hickey Park, Millvale, last Thursday night.

BILLY PETROLLE ARRIVES

Billy Petrolle, the Fargo (N. D.) Express, joined the local fistic colony yesterday to finish his training here for his 10-round battle against Tommy Grogan, of Omaha, headlining a card at Greenlee Field, Wednesday night. He will work out today and tomorrow at the Pittsburgh Lyceum at a different hour than Grogan, who also is putting in his training licks there. Grogan, incidentally, has been none too impressive in his drills, but they say he is that sort of a gymnasium performer. A willing mixer and good right hand puncher, he saves his best stuff for the ring.

Grogan will train at 1 p. m. and Petrolle at 2 each day. Billy sparred with Patsy Gallagher yesterday, while Grogan drilled with Max Elling and others.

HICKEY PARK SHOW

In addition to the Bowl and Greenlee Field offerings, still another boxing bill is scheduled in the Pittsburgh district this week, featuring an all-star conglomeration of local talent at Hickey Park on Thursday night, headed by Lee Sala and Anson Green in the windup of four eight-round bouts.

Three world champions box non-title matches this week. Kid Chocolate meeting Roger Bernard for Promoter Lew Tendler in Philadelphia on Wednesday, and Maxie Rosenbloom taking on Tony Shucco at Springfield, Mass., tonight. Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight king, engages Harry Dublinsky in a non-title affair in Chicago Thursday night. Chocolate is the junior-lightweight champion and Rosenbloom the light-heavyweight ruler.

DAVIES AT TORONTO

PROS COMPETE AT CONNEAUT

By TOM BIRKS

District golfers inaugurated a heavy week of competitive play today as the big guns of the district trained their drivers and mashies on old man par in the Oakland Beach open tournament at Conneaut Lake. While the professionals are battling for the money at the lake, the feminine stars opened a week of activity by competing in a Western Pennsylvania Women's Golf Association one-day tournament at Westmoreland Country Club.

Professionals from all over the tri-state district set out on the 72-hole medal play grind this morning at Conneaut. Sam Parks, Jr., of the Summit Club, at Uniontown; Joe Ludes, assistant to Emil Loefler, at Oakmont; Ted Luther, of Valley Heights, winner of the medal at the recent open qualifying round at Oakmont; Pete O'Hara, the Westmoreland wizard; Rader Jewett, of Wheeling, and Monty Onoretta, the boy from Schenley Park, who shot such brilliant golf to qualify, are tourney favorites.

Toots Erath, of Edgewood, expects to make the boys step to win, and Luther, who is going to be honored with a banquet by the Valley Heights members Thursday, may give the Valley Heights club another trophy.

Thirty-six holes were being played today, morning and afternoon rounds, and 36 more tomorrow.

President Bill Stocker, of Stanton Heights, took his Caddie Masters' Association to Edgewood this afternoon for the first one-day tourney of the season. The second will be played at Uniontown two weeks hence.

Tomorrow is going to be a big tournament day. The public links qualifying round is on at Schenley Park; a women's invitation tournament booked at Highland and a women's tourney at Allegheny Country Club hold the spotlight.

Bosses to Send Girl Athlete To Olympics

DALLAS, Tex., June 13.—(AP.)—Holding more records than she can remember offhand, Mildred (Babe) Didrikson went back to work today for the bosses who will send her to the Olympic games.

The blonde athlete, who is nearly 19 years old, said she was glad to be back at her job of rate clerk with a local company. She walked out on her employers a week ago when they declined to add another week's vacation to the six already arranged for her.

That was last Monday, so that she had the week, anyway. But she spent most of it here in Dallas applying for reinstatement. She was so sorry about running away she cried.

Niblick Shots

Walter Johnstone, genial professional at the Butler Country Club, has instituted a new idea for his Saturday sweepstakes. For the dollar entrance fee, members starting the round are given a ball, and the balance of the fee goes for the prizes.

A banner crowd is expected to attend the party to be given in honor of Ted Luther by the Valley Heights members Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Jackson, with a combined card of 86-14—72, led the field in the two-ball foursome medal play competition under one-half handicap at the Pittsburgh Country Club yesterday. C. E. and Jean Burgess finished second with 111-31—80 and C. W. Bennett and Mrs. H. A. Gibney third with 110-29—81.

Do not forget the mixed foursomes tor the Family-Help-Family fund at the Field Club on Friday. The dollar entry fee should attract many district golfers to Dave McKay's classy layout.

At Edgewood, J. H. McCrady, Jr., and G. D. Engel tied for top honors in the 18-hole medal play, full handicap dueling, each turning in low net scores of 74. McCrady with 85-9—74 and Engel with 88-14—74. E. L. Weigand was third with 83-8—75.

Bryant Bannister and Mrs. E. B. Bruce, with an aggregated score of 152, won the 18-hole four-ball mixed foursome tourney at the St. Clair Country Club yesterday. H. F. Ruoff, paired with Mrs. Thomas E. Griffin, negotiated the course in a combined score of 158 to annex second prize. The scores of the winners:

Bryant Bannister—73-4—69; Mrs. E. B. Bruce, 110-37—83. H. F. Ruoff, 92-18—74; Mrs. Thomas E. Griffin, 100-28-81.

BOWEN STRONG IN COMEBACK

By JESS CARVER

Ol' Slewfoot Bowen, known as Reggie, Pete, R. F. and various other more or less dignified cognomens, who never has done and likely never will do things by halfs, has inaugurated his long threatened comeback as a quarter-miler in no uncertain fashion.

Pete, former Pitt star, I. C. 4-A and N. C. A. A. champ, out of big league sprinting competition for two years, galloped over the quarter-mile distance in the Metropolitan A. A. U. championship meet in New York Saturday in 48.2. His time shattered by a full second the 35-year-old record, set back in 1897 by Maxie Long.

Now 48.2 will hardly win the event in the Olympics, and it may be that Ol' Slewfoot will have to do even better to win himself a berth on the U. S. team, but it is a pretty nifty performance for a gent who was out of training for so long and who was supposed to be all washed up, ironed and folded and ready for the moth balls. They thought Pete was through when he "broke" in the back stretch in the national A. A. U. championship meet here in the Pitt Stadium two years ago in the final of the quarter-mile.

For a time Pete thought he'd hang up his spikes and take up a less strenuous mode of living, so he got a job at a dog racing track, running exhibitions against the greyhounds. Pete beat the dawgs a couple times, though it is said that R. F. employed a bit of trickery by tying a piece of steak on his trunks. Naturally the hounds were not going to pass Pete as long as they could whiff that steak. The charge was never proven, however.

Erie Pete will compete in the eastern semi-final Olympic test at Harvard this week. He'll have to leg it against a much stronger field at Cambridge than lined up with him in New York, but Slewfoot, always best against tough competition, may be able to get under 48.

LOTT, GRANT DUAL CHAMPS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 13.—(AP.)—George Lott, of Chicago, and Bryan Grant, of Atlanta, whom Lott defeated in the singles finals, won the national clay courts tennis doubles title yesterday from Cliff and Ed Sutter, of New Orleans, 6-4, 6-4, 1-6, 4-6 and 6-3.

Lott and Grant reached the final by defeating Robert (Lefty) Bryan, of Chattanooga, and Doc Barr, of Dallas, in the semi-finals, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5. The last set was played yesterday after darkness interrupted the struggle Saturday.

Russell Captures Sharon Auto Race

SHARON, Pa., June 13.—Jack Russell, Greenville driver, proved the hero of the 50-mile stock-car automobile race held yestedary at the Sharon Speedway, when, acting as relief pilot for Jack Lanhan, Masury, O., he finished first in a field of 11 starters. He was timed in 53 minutes.

Mike Klapak, Warren, O., was second, less than 300 yards behind. H. W. (Skinny) Allen, Greenville, was third, while another Greenville driver, Nelson McClimans, took fourth.

Just before the race ended, Virgil Hamilton, Pittsburgh, narrowly escaped serious injuries when his car turned over. Virgil Mansell, Warren, O., and Lloyd Deiger, Sharon, were also unhurt as their cars crashed early in the race.

SOUTH PARK LOSES

The South Park polo team was routed by the 107th Field Artillery riders yesterday at South Park, 8 to 1, in a match played on a muddy field. Kiser, No. 1 man for the Artillery, tallied four goals. William Volz was thrown heavily during the match, but escaped injury. The lineups:

Artillery	Pos.	South Park
Kiser	No. 1	Dette
S. Volz	No. 2	W. Volz
Watson	No. 3	Loether
Collins	Sub.	Ackerman
	Sub.	Dezenhart

Score by chukkers:

Artillery	1	1	2	1	2	1	—8
South Park	0	0	0	1	0	0	—1

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

ST. LOUIS, June 13.—When I run out of cross-word puzzles I often wonder what sort of instructions they give scouts of the Boston Red Sox. Do they say, "Go out and get us an infielder that bobbles two out of every three grounders—and be sure he can't hit?"

Nick Altrock

Or do they tell him, "Beat it for Arizona and sign up two pitchers that are practically blind and minus their thumbs?" If that's the orders they get, the Red Sox scouts sure have made good.

We followed the Boston club into St. Louis and I hear a couple of days ago they almost called off a Red Sox-Browns game for a new reason—non-attendance.

SENATORS FAIL TO SHAKE BROWNS' JINX

BAMBINO HITS TWO HOMERS; CUBS GAIN

Associated Press.

For information of American League pitchers, the one sure way of stopping the Washington Senators is to put one a St. Louis Browns uniform.

The Senators can hold their own with the rest of the league but as soon as there are one of Bill Killefer's chuckers take the mound they roll over and play dead. So far they've played the Browns seven times and the Browns have won six games, three of them shutouts.

NATS LOSE PAIR

Killefer's outfit won both games of a doubleheader yesterday, 6-3 and 4-0, and boosted their average above the .500 mark for the first time this season. The first game was a disconcerting affair, what with Carl Fischer, former Senator, in a Brown's uniform, and Dick Coffman, former Brown, pitching for the Senators. Fischer had all the better of the argument as he limited Washington to seven hits. Walter Stewart pitched his second shutout over the Senators in the nightcap, a three-hit affair.

George Herman Ruth personally conducted the New York Yankees to a 13-to-5 victory over Cleveland, hitting his nineteenth and twentieth homers and a double to drive in six runs. The Detroit Tigers did some high-powered batting in the fifth and seventh frames to tumble the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-6, despite Foxx's twenty-second homer. Pete Jablonowski, former Cleveland hurler, made his first start for the Boston Red Sox and was the victim of his teammates' errors, bowing 4-1, to the White Sox.

CUBS BEAT BRAVES

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs stretched their lead to a game and a half by winning a wild 13-inning battle from the Boston Braves, 5-3. The Cubs won it on doubles by Jurges and Herman and a single by Moore.

One of a large group of St. Louis Cardinal graduates, Flint Rhem, pitched the Phillies to an easy 5-to-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. The other two National League games were rained out.

BROWN JOINS I. L. STAFF

Frank (Bull) Brown, native of Pittsburgh, who recently was released as umpire by the American Association, will switch his allegiance to the International League as a result of quick negotiations entered into after he left Hickey belt. He expects to leave the city tomorrow to take up his new duties.

Brown's departure from the Midwestern wheel came as a surprise to local followers of the game as reports from players and others in the American Association regarding the local umpire were highly favorable.

George M. Weiss, an official of the Baltimore club, of the International League, was in touch with Brown soon after he became free. Weiss was a magnate of the Eastern League when Brown officiated in that class A circuit.

SET FIVE WORLD RECORDS

RALPH METCALFE JACK FELLER GEORGE SALING GLENN CUNNINGHAM

These four stars broke five world records in the National collegiate meet and Olympic tryouts at Chicago, Saturday. Metcalfe, from Marquette, set new standards for the 100 and 200-meters and 220-yard dash; Keller, of Ohio State, bettered the time for the 220-yard hurdles, and Saling, of Iowa, shattered the 120-yard hurdles mark, while Cunningham, of Kansas, bested the N. C. A. record for the mile. Metcalfe also tied the world record for 100 yards. This is an International News Photo Service picture.

NET TOURNEY PLANS SET

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Though Inter-Club League competition has been set aside until July 9, Pittsburgh Tennis Association luminaries in no sense face a period of inaction. Just five days hence—next Saturday, to be exact—upwards of 100 racqueters will square off in the men's singles division of the forty-fourth annual Western Pennsylvania championships on the four clay courts of the Stanton Heights Golf Club here.

Chairman Frank Smith has announced that already numerous entries have been received for the man-to-man tilting. Powerful performers from all of the numerous P. T. A. member clubs have signified intent of seeking the David I. McCahill Cup, symbolic of West Penn men's singles supremacy.

The flagon will be defended by Bill Haseltine, of Philadelphia. Haseltine first annexed the goblet in 1930, when he trimmed Fred Rudisill, of York, Pa., in a one-sided finale. He repeated last year at the expense of Sam Harbison, Allegheny Country Club flash, and if he can annex a third leg on the trophy a week from next Sunday he will retire the bowl in his own permanent possession.

Main rivals of the Easterner in the coming conclave are Drs. John and Dave O'Loughlin, P. A. A. aces, ranked respectively first and second in the Steel City district; Harbison, No. 3 in the same territory; B. F. Arkle, Wheeling crack and 1931 West Penn semi-finalist; Billy Ramsay, of Uniontown; Paul Hicks, Edgewood stylist, and Frank McClintock, indefatigable University Club driver. Entries in men's singles must be mailed to Chairman Smith no later than Wednesday evening, for all names must be in his hands no later than 5 p. m. on Thursday. Smith's address is the Frick Building, Pittsburgh, and he may be reached by telephone at Atlantic 2800 during the day or at Churchill 1439 after the dinner hour. The man-to-man draw will be made on Thursday at 8 p. m. Entrants in men's doubles, women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles may file names until 5 p. m. next Monday.

Bob Carey Wins In Ft. Wayne Races

FORT WAYNE, Ind., June 13.—(AP.)—Bob Carey, of Anderson, Ind., was the leading performer on yesterday's race card at the local speedway, winning the 50-lap feature event and the first 10-lap race and setting a 26.5-seconds record over the five-eighths-mile track in the time trials.

Boxer Travels In Ice Box of Freight Car

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP.)—A youthful boxer and his youthful manager arrived from Green Bay, Wis., today, having made the last lap of their journey in the ice compartment of a freight car.

A railroad policeman awakened them this morning in the freight yards at Thirty-second street and Eleventh avenue and placed them under arrest. In court they said they were in search of employment, preferably boxing matches, and the magistrate gave them a suspended sentence.

The youths described themselves as Donald Flint, 21, and Glen Church, 22, both of Green Bay. Church, the manager, did most of the explaining. He said they had come East in a week's time, and that last night in Syracuse, N. Y., they jumped into the ice compartment of the car and shut the door before realizing their danger. However, they found no ice and went to sleep.

Today the Grays are idle, but tomorrow they play at Warren, O.; on Wednesday at Sewickley, on Thursday at Altoona, and they meet the Cuban Stars at Toronto Saturday and again in Detroit Sunday.

Buster Crabbe Sets Six U. S. Records

LOS ANGELES, June 13.—(AP.)—Six American swimming marks were bettered by Buster Crabbe in the Olympic tryouts for Southern California here last night.

Establishing new times, he covered the 550 yards in 6 minutes, 38 2-5 seconds; 1,100 yards in 13 minutes, 38 2-10; 1,200 yards in 14 minutes 49 6-10 seconds; 1,540 yards in 19 minutes, 12 seconds, and 1,650 yards in 20 minutes, 34 and 2-10 seconds.

Josephine McKim reduced the Southern California mark in the 100-meter free-style for women. Her time was 1 minute, 10 seconds, beating that in the finals of the 1928 Olympics.

Burgoo King Hurt; Out of Rich Race

CHICAGO, June 13.—(AP.)—The withdrawal of Burgoo King, leader of the season's 3-year-olds, has made the $50,000 added American Derby, Saturday's climax of the Washington Park racing season, another of those wide open affairs.

The King, victorious in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, was about to be shipped from New York to make a try for the rich prize, but bowed a tendon in training, and probably will not race again this season.

HUNNEFIELD RELEASED

READING, Pa., June 13.—(AP.)—Manager Clarence Rowland, of the Reading club of the International League, has released Bill Hunnefield, former Chicago White Sox and New York Giant infielder, outright.

MEYERS BOWL BOUTS OFF

at the B. & O. A. C. clubhouse in Hazelwood tomorrow night.

Between Rounds

Dan Bolich is in good shape again and wants to meet any of the bantams.

Bill Keller, of Canton, O., is anxious to show Mickey Walker, his middleweight, and Carl Cramer, his featherweight, in Pittsburgh. Both have appeared here before and are well known to the fans.

It still is a question whether Kid Chocolate will box for the Meyers Bowl or Clarence Pete Bolich, for a match, but so far Chocolate's manager has balked at agreeing upon the opponents offered.

Billy Petrolle is getting a guarantee of $7,500 with a privilege of the gate receipts and not a guarantee of $5,000 for his match with Tommy Grogan, it develops. Grogan is on a straight percentage basis.

A switch in the program at Hickey Park Thursday night brings Aaron Green, Homestead Negro heavy, against Lee Sala, of Donora. Ricco Frangiapa, of Clearfield, Pa., was to meet Sala, but he has left the management of Frank Klaus to seek his fistic fortune around Philadelphia. Jackie Wilson meets Joe Gallagher in the semi-final. Tiger West and Jim McVay are in the second bout and Joey Spargo will be one of the principals in the opener.

LERMOND SETS 'CHASE MARK

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP.)—Lieut. George Lermond, former Boston College and Army star, smashed the American record for the 3,000 meters steeplechase as the last five events of the senior track and field championships of the Metropolitan A. A. U. were run off at Travers Island yesterday.

Lermond was clocked in 9:23 4-5 for the distance to win by 25 yards from Walter Pritchard, of Hamilton College, with Ensign F. E. Highley, of the Navy, third.

Lermond's time clipped more than five seconds off the mark recently hung up by Joe McCluskey, of Fordham. McCluskey was timed in 9:28 6-10.

England Advances In Davis Cup Play

WARSAW, Poland, June 13.—(AP.)—England divided the last two singles matches of its Davis Cup series with Poland yesterday and won the series, 4-1.

Fred Perry defeated Maks Stolarow, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4, but Ignacy Tlozynski gave the Poles one match by beating H. G. N. Lee, 6-4, 6-4, 2-6, 7-5. England will meet Germany in the fourth round.

BERLIN, June 13.—(AP.)—Germany eliminated Ireland from further Davis Cup tennis play in their series concluded yesterday, 4-1.

Leading 2-1 after the first two days of play, Germany swept both of the final singles matches.

MONTREUX, Switzerland, June 13.—(AP.)—Italy gained a 2-1 lead over Switzerland in their Davis Cup tennis series by winning the doubles yesterday. Saturday's opening singles matches were divided.

BOUT POSTPONED

LOS ANGELES, June 13.—(AP.)—The re-match of Baby Arigmendi, Mexico's latest boxing idol, and Newsboy Brown, Los Angeles bantamweight, has been indefinitely postponed from June 21, due to severe cold contracted by Arigmendi. The Mexican last week outpointed Brown in 10 rounds here.

RAN SCORES KAYO

WARSAW, Poland, June 13.—Eddie Ran, hard-punching Polish welterweight, returned to his native country after campaigning in the United States for a year, and knocked out Volkmark, of Germany, in the eighth round of their scheduled 10-round bout here last night.

RAIN HALTS MATCHES

CINCINNATI, June 13.—(AP.)—Rain caused postponement of all but six matches in the tri-state tournament yesterday. In the only match involving out-of-towners, Paul Iams, Dayton, O., defeated William Wertz, Portsmouth, O., 6-3, 0-6, 6-4, in the junior singles.

ALL-AMERICANS TO APPEAR IN FILM

In the year 1889, Walter Camp picked his first All-America football team. From that date to this all-America teams have been selected annually, but never has an all-America football team been any more than a mythical lineup on paper.

Through the combined efforts of Carl Laemmle, Jr. and Christy Walsh, an all-America football team will be seen in existence for the first time in history, when the players selected by the All-America Board of Football in 1931 report next month at Universal City, Cal.

The picture has been officially sanctioned by the All-America Board of Football, and, in addition to the 11 players on last year's team, the five members of the board likewise will appear in the film—Glenn S. Warner, Stanford; Bill Alexander, Georgia Tech; Jesse C. Harper, Notre Dame; Eddie Casey, Harvard, and Christy Walsh. A story now is being prepared under the direction of Richard Schayer and Dale Van Every, who wrote "The Spirit of Notre Dame" last year.

An unusual sequence in the coming picture will show radio covering of a football game by Ted Husing, to whom the late Knute Rockne referred as "the most accurate and satisfactory of all football announcers."

The 1931 All-America team in this picture will be opposed by another team selected from among famous football stars of recent years, whose names will be announced at an early date. The following are under contract:

Marchmont Schwartz, peerless triple-threat sensation at Notre Dame in 1931; Gaius Shaver, quarterback, Southern California, officially voted the most valuable player in the Pacific Coast Conference last year; John Baker, Southern California, whose magic toe kicked the goal that beat Notre Dame; John Orsi, Colgate, best end in the East; Jerry Dalrymple, captain of Tulane and considered the greatest end ever produced in the South; Tom Yarr, captain, Notre Dame; Clarence Munn, sensational lineman at Minnesota and officially voted the most valuable player in the Big 10 Conference; John Cain, Alabama's smashing fullback and captain-elect for 1932; Jesse Quatse, Pittsburgh's powerful tackle; Jack Riley, famous tackle from Northwestern, and Ernie Pinckert, all-round sensational star, of Southern California.

CARIDEO SIGNED

Riley, a wrestler, and Munn, a shot-putter, both have an excellent opportunity to participate in the Olympic games, in which case they will not take part in the picture until a later date.

The following players already have been signed for the opposing team in the picture: Red Cagle, West Point; Frank Carideo, Notre Dame; Lee Hanley, Northwestern; Fred Sington, Alabama; Moon Mullins, Notre Dame; Fred Linehan, Yale; Ernie Nevers, Stanford, and John O'Brien, Notre Dame.

Princeton Honors Billy Marks, Jr.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 13.—W. L. Marks, Jr., son of Jim Marks, Kiski football coach, a graduate of Kiski last year, has been marked as the outstanding athlete of the freshman class at Princeton by receiving his third set of class numerals for membership on freshman teams.

Marks played end on the 1931 football team and was a regular guard on the basketball team last winter. His numerals this spring were awarded for his play on the 1931 golf team, of which he was captain and number one man.

Katz Kadlic and Eddie Kalbaugh are two other former Kiski stars who are moving along to the varsity this year, and from their work on the freshman football team last year are expected to be a great help to Coach Fritz Crisler in building his 1932 team.

Davis Cup Netters To Sail Tomorrow

NEW YORK, June 13.—(INS.)—Wilmer Allison, Frank Shields and John Van Ryn, the three members of the United States Davis Cup team who defeated Brazil without the aid of the national champion, Ellsworth Vines, will join the youthful Californian in London in time to compete in the Wimbledon tournament.

The U. S. L. T. A. announced today that the three remaining Davis Cup players will sail tomorrow night for Europe, arriving just in time for the all-England championship.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Vines will play together for the first time when they team for the mixed doubles in the English championships. Shields will pair with P. D. B. Spence, of South Frica.

Kraus to Succeed Bohren at Hobart

GENEVA, N. Y., June 13.—(INS.)—Francis L. Kraus, former Hobart line ace, will succeed Carl W. Bohren, former Pittsburgh star, as head football coach at Hobart, according to announcement today. Jerry Ford, formerly Pitt back, will assist Kraus.

Bohren will study for a master's degree at Pittsburgh, where he graduated in 1924.

HEAVYWEIGHTS MATCHED

COLTS HARRY M.-A. LEADERS

Rain took a healthy poke at the Middle Atlantic League schedule yesterday, washing out two of the scheduled three games, but failed to dampen the pitching ardor of Joe Uriano, of Clarksburg. The Generals' star moundsman turned back the Huntington Boosters, 3-0, being touched for only three hits. Wilder, General outfielder, connected for a home run. The score by innings:

Home run: Wilder, Clarksburg.

Home run leaders in the league

last week went to Beckley, the Black Knights accounting for 19 runs.

The improved play of the champion Cumberland Colts, who had the old air raised to them by Manager Lee Mackey, featured the league play, the Colts challenging for the lead after a slow and disappointing start. The Colts won six out of eight last week as the pitching staff gave up only 21 runs and the team stole 15 bases.

Beckley owns a team batting average of .347 and last week collected 119 hits for a total of 185 bases.

SUN-TELEGRAPH WANT-AD

MOVIE LOVERS CONTEST

—CLUES—

you will find the titles of several popular motion picture plays. One of these titles is the correct answer for each of the two Movie Lovers Contest Pictures—No. 7 and 8, herewith printed. Which are the correct titles? Find them and write the names below the contest pictures. Do not submit any pictures until the end of the contest.

Follow These Simple Rules —Read the Prize Lists

(1) The Movie Lovers contest will consist of a series of 60 cartoons to appear in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph—one each day for 60 consecutive publication days—starting Monday, June 6th. The contestants are to find the correct title for each picture from a list of motion picture titles that will be printed every day, scattered among the WANT ADS every day throughout the life of this contest. More lists of answers will not be accepted as an entry. The answers must be accompanied by the pictures you think said answers represent. Do not submit any pictures or answers until the entire set of 60 has been printed. Entrants are advised against an elaborate arrangement in submitting entries. Remember, the awards will be made for correctness of identity of the pictures, correct spelling of titles in your entry and neatness. Misspelled titles in your entry will be counted as total errors.

(2) The contest is open to everyone living in Pittsburgh or within 100 miles of Pittsburgh, with the exception of employes of the Sun-Telegraph and of WCAE, Incorporated, or any member of their families.

(3) As explained in the list of prizes herewith printed there are three divisions or classes. It is not necessary to subscribe or send in a subscription to the Sun-Telegraph to compete for one of the Class A prizes. The Class B prizes are open to entrants who send in one six-month subscription for the daily Sun-Telegraph. Class C is open to entrants who send in two six-month subscriptions to the daily Sun-Telegraph.

(4) There is a total of 148 prizes in the Sun-Telegraph Movie Lovers contest. The maximum amount to be paid out in prizes is $2,500.00—the smallest amount is $525.00. There will be only one first prize awarded, one second prize, etc. In other words, a contestant submitting the largest and neatest number of correct answers, according to the rules, will receive the first prize regardless of what class he or she is in, but the amount to be paid such prize winner will be determined by the class he or she is in. The same rule applies to each of the 148 prizes. In case of tie, contestant so tied will be paid an equal amount of the prize which they are tied—subject to the above classification rule.

(5) It is not necessary to buy a copy of the Sun-Telegraph in order to compete for these prizes but it is absolutely necessary that each contestant shall have on file in the office of the Sun-Telegraph an enrollment or registration blank, form of which may be clipped or copied from the Sun-Telegraph. Please pay particular attention to this stipulation. In the meantime, if you prefer, tracings of the contest pictures will be accepted and for this purpose you may have free access to the files of the Sun-Telegraph at the Sun-Telegraph office or at the leading public libraries.

(6) The Contest Editor's decision on all matters pertaining to this contest is absolutely final and legally binding and this is an express condition accepted by the entrant in filling the enrollment or registration blank.

(7) The contest will close at midnight Friday, August 5, 1932. All sets of pictures and lists of answers must be delivered to the office of the Sun-Telegraph by mail or by hand before midnight Friday, August 12th. Entries received later than this date, governed by the postmark or the time of the hand delivery, will not be considered. Address your entry SUN-TELEGRAPH MOVIE LOVERS CONTEST EDITOR, POSTOFFICE BOX 594, PITTSBURGH, PA.

STOCK MARKET LOSES EARLY ADVANCES

Securities Markets Wait Action on Bonus, Relief; Western Union Slumps

Stocks had a momentary upturn in the morning, coincident with further fireworks in Auburn and an upturn in New York tractions, but a heavy tone soon developed. What with an administration request for further economies, and the league and relief problems still to be dealt with, Wall street was irresolutor over an adjournment of Congress this week. There was also a tendency to await developments at Chicago and Lausanne.

Auburn dropped 5 points at the start, rebounded about 12 then fell back to the vicinity of Saturday's close. Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit common and preferred rose about 3 and 5 points, then gave up part of their gains. An extreme gain of 2¾ in American Tobacco "B" was sharply reduced, and several other advancers of a point or so were more than lost. By early afternoon, net declines of 1 to 2 points appeared in such issues as United States Steel, Bethlehem, National Biscuit, Coca-Cola, Wrigley, Macy, Borden, International Shoe and Western Union, the last two registering new lows.

Industrial and trade reports appearing over the week-end failed to provide any incentive to market activity. Steel production continued to slacken, but some lines were reported experiencing a little pickup in advance of the taking effect of the new excise taxes on such lines as tires and oil. The freight car loadings report for the week ended June 4, to appear tomorrow, will show a sharp drop, reflecting the Memorial Day holiday, but advance estimates indicated that this decline would be somewhat smaller than the average of recent years.

The New York tractions generally turned upward, in response to the new unification proposal advanced by Samuel Untermyer, proposing an exchange of shares of the present companies for those of a new company on a basis considerably above current market prices. Western Union was heavy, in anticipation of adverse dividend action when the directors meet tomorrow. A deficit was shown for April, and brokerage quarters generally felt that maintenance of the current $4 annual rate could scarcely be expected.

On the whole, little of a character to influence the market was expected from the Republican convention in Chicago, although the action on prohibition is awaited with much interest, since some quarters in Wall street are inclined to view all steps toward modification or repeal as bullish.

COTTON PRICE TONE EASIER

NEW YORK, June 13.—Cotton futures opened steady, ½c higher in response to steady Liverpool cables, but encountered considerable July liquidation, which held prices to small gains.

There was also some local and southern selling, which sent prices off a point or two right after the call, but trade buying was in evidence and the demand seemed to increase following a rally from opening declines in the stock market. Reports of wet weather in the eastern belt leading to increased apprehensions of weevil damage were also a factor and prices worked up from 4.96c to 5.02c for July and from 5.39c to 5.42c for December during the early trading, making net advances of 5 to 6 points on the more active positions.

Easiness of the stock market checked buying in cotton and the market later in the morning was quiet with prices showing reactions of a few points under further near month liquidation and reselling by some of the early buyers. At midday July was ruling around 4.99c and December, 5.38c or about 1 to 2 points net higher on the more active positions.

LIVERPOOL, June 13.—Cotton receipts 4,000 bales, all American. Spot in good demand, but business moderate; prices one point higher; quotations in pence: American strict middling, 4.67; good middling, 4.27, strict middling, 4.22; middling, 4.17; strict low middling, 4.07; low middling, 3.97; strict good ordinary, 3.77; good ordinary, 3.47. Futures closed quiet, July, 3.81; October, 3.81; December, 3.84; January, 3.86; March, 3.91; May, 3.96.

Reconstructive Forces Are Making Headway

—By B. C. FORBES—

CHECKERED HEADWAY — progress—was recorded both in Washington and Wall street before the week ended.

Adjournment of Congress within a week is promised. This prospect is enthusiastically acclaimed. Much of recent unsettlement is attributed by business to the extraordinary irresponsibility exhibited by lawmakers. Nothing was too crazy for KNOW NOTHING politicians to propose, provided it would "soak the rich" or play further havoc with finance, industry, employment. The very worst proposals have not reached the statute books but the record is bad enough.

B. C. Forbes

THE FINANCIAL POWERS that be are prepared to institute earnest efforts to turn the economic tide if Washington does not upset everything. Impressed—alarmed—by downhill developments, they finally abandoned their do-nothing, defeatist policy, or rather lack of policy. It ultimately dawned on them that it would avail them nothing to look out only for number one if employment, industry, business, securities went completely to the dogs.

A brighter view is now taken of the chances for effective, fruitful, successful action.

OF COURSE clouds still overhang both abroad and at home. Europe's attitude towards war debt payments is ominous. France continues to take away her gold, doubtless imagining that this will intimidate us. She may learn very pointedly that none of her gold, not one ounce, is wanted here. Latin-American conditions are bad. Indeed, the whole world still is in turmoil.

But, the whole foreign attack on the American dollar, the whole artificially inspired distrust of America's impregnability, the whole campaign of malicious misrepresentation, have spent their force. Before long the superiority of America's dollar, the superiority of American investments, the superiority of America's strength are certain to become universally recognized. Then you will see a return flow of investment and other funds.

AT HOME conviction gains ground that good bonds and stocks have grossly discounted the worst that could happen—short of revolution. Nor is it believed that the general price level is likely to sink appreciably lower. Signs multiply that contraction in general economic activity is nearing an end. The curve has not yet started upward, admittedly; but it has flattened out perceptibly and perhaps prophetically.

WALL STREET indulged in the spectacular late in the week. Friday witnessed a third dramatic stock market rebound. Its suddenness, its sharpness, its breadth were impressive, suggesting that the short side may have at least become untenable. The swift recovery in American exchange—that is the international value of the dollar, measured by other currencies—was equally impressive.

It is well to remember that each share of stock as well as each bond sold has been bought by somebody. Presumably they have been bought by individuals or institutions able to pay for them, because brokers' loans are now so near zero, that transactions obviously are mostly on a cash and carry basis. It follows, therefore, that many securities have been moving out of hands unable to carry them into hands able to hold them.

The day inevitably will come when those who sold from fright will begin to re-accumulate, when those who have been holding off until satisfied the upward movement has definitely started will swoop down and buy, when institutional selling will dry up and purchasing set in.

ALL THAT IS CERTAIN.

What is uncertain, what cannot be foretold, is when it will occur.

This late bullish outburst may mark the dawn of genuine recovery. It may not.

MY GUESS is that within the next six months a very definite movement will be inaugurated that either rehabilitation will be emphatically under way or—well, the reverse.

Courageous leadership, sanely supported by every class, should bring the ardently-desired results.

Mutual Life Quits Writing in Canada

TORONTO, June 13.—(AP.)—The Mutual Life Insurance Company, of New York, has announced it will write no more policies in Canada after August 1.

The company will continue agencies in Canada for the benefit of present policyholders, but will seek no new business. New York laws restricting the cost of all new business, regardless of where obtained, were said by the company to have made it increasingly difficult to compete with Canadian firms which are not similarly restricted by Canadian laws.

REVENUE ACT MAY AFFECT POOLS

Information Required Will Embarrass Operators and Individuals in Trading

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP.)—The stock market operators whose success depends in no small measure on keeping their movements concealed until they are ready to reveal them, are somewhat apprehensive over a provision in the new federal revenue act.

Under it, managers of all pools, syndicate and joint investors' accounts must file with their income tax reports, a supplementary information return containing the names of all participants in the market operation. The stocks bought and sold by these participants, the prices paid, and a statement of each individual's profit or losses must be furnished.

HITS OFFICIALS

Its effect, some Wall street observers believe, will be to make public officials and persons engaged in occupations which converge closely on the field of public service, exceedingly chary about participating in syndicate operations—assuming that they might otherwise do so.

A debatable point arises among tax experts as to whether the Income Tax Bureau could make this information available to Congress or to government investigators. Ever since the furore arose when income tax returns were published several years ago, Washington has kept the returns inviolate from outside scrutiny.

INFORMATION NEEDED

The new provision will apply to a wide variety of cases. It will, for example, compel syndicates in public offerings of bonds to supply detailed information to the tax bureau. It will force pool operators to give detailed accounts showing purchases and sales made, attempts to mark up stocks along with full reports of the persons participating in their deals, to whom money may have been paid for advertising purposes, and whether or not the names of wives have been used on dummy accounts, through which to clear buying and selling orders.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

The demand for fruit and vegetables was dull today at the wholesale markets in Pittsburgh. There were no changes in quotations.

The butter, egg and cheese markets showed steadier, with eight changes in quotations.

Car lot sales were moderate with 245 cars on track. Arrivals included 3 cars apples, 1 bananas, 1 beans, 7 cabbage, 5 cantaloupes, 2 carrots, 3 cucumbers, 1 grapefruit, 46 lettuce, 1 onions, 1 oranges, 2 peas, 3 peppers, 29 potatoes, 3 strawberries, 1 sweet potatoes, 9 tomatoes, 4 watermelons and 1 mixed vegetables.

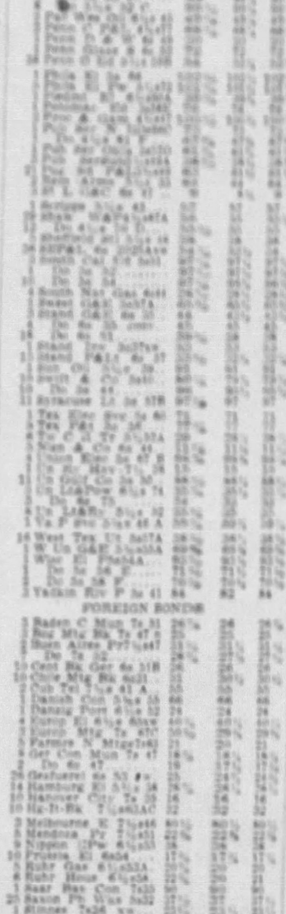
FOREIGN BONDS



SECRET PLACE TO WED FOUND

DENVER—(INS.)—Kiowa, 60 miles southeast of Denver, was recently revealed as Colorado's Gretna Green.

In the past years Denver couples wishing to keep their matrimonial ventures from the curious eyes of the public, have traveled to Littleton, to Golden, to Castle Rock and to Boulder for the ceremony. All of these points developed newsgathering facilities which resulted in Denver newspapers giving publicity to marriages in inverse ratio to the amount desired by the principals.

Some lovelorn couple traveling far from the main highways and railroads must have happened on Kiowa and learned that it was the county seat of Elbert County. Not only is there no railroad into the town, but—of more importance to couples wishing secrecy—there is no daily newspaper.

A recent rearch of Elbert records revealed a dozen or more marriages during the past year of Denver couples who successfully kept the news to themselves.

PRIMARY FUND QUIZ URGED

KANSAS CITY, June 13.—(AP.)—A suggestion for a Senate investigation in advance of the Missouri primaries to determine who is financing various senatorial campaigns in the state is made by Bennett Clark, of St. Louis.

Democratic opponents heard his challenge in an address before the Women's Jefferson Club. He invited Republican candidates to join in requesting the inquiry.

Charles M. Howell, of Kansas City said he would not "insult one of my opponents" by suggesting he was disobeying the law.

Father of Ten Ends Life by Hanging

CHARLEROI, Pa., June 13.—Mike Pavlick, 56, of Maple Creek, father of 10 children, ended his life yesterday by hanging, police reported. Members of the family said Pavlick was in good health, and no cause was established for the act.

PLEASANTVILLE, Pa., June 13.—The back-to-the-farm movement has struck this northern Venango County community. Purchase of cows, not cars, is the order of the day. Gardens are again popular.

MONEY MARKET ATTAINS NEW SECURITY

Threat of Foreign Nations Thrown Off by U. S. Dollar; Gold Withdrawals Ending

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
(Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, June 13.—The American money market, by meeting the huge and unprecedentedly rapid foreign demand for gold, has attained a new independence and security.

Having nearly exhausted the foreigners' capacity to take our gold, the New York money market has virtually thrown off the threat of being a foreign vassal subject to the whims and caprices of short term creditors abroad.

Mr. Rukeyser

The raid on the dollar has been successfully met. Henceforth, in considering economic policy, Americans can center their attention more than in the immediate past, on the domestic, rather than the international consequences, of credit and currency decisions.

GOLD LOSS LARGE

On inquiry in authoritative sources, I have checked the essential accuracy of reports from overseas that the Bank of France has nearly exhausted its dollar balances in New York. It is said to be within 10 days of the end of the movement of repatriating gold holdings.

The second largest taker of American gold since April 6, the Bank of Netherlands, and the third largest, the National Bank of Switzerland, are in relatively the same boat.

Since April 6, gold withdrawals went to the following countries:

Exports—To France, $159,518,000; to Holland, $116,424,000; to Switzerland, $83,304,000; to Belgium, $34,124,000; to England, $7,569,000; to Germany, $4,580,000; to other countries, $446,000; total exports, $405,945,000.

Total imports, $31,563,000.
Earmarked gold, $71,614,000.
Net loss, $445,996,000.

HANDICAP MET

Since the beginning of the depression, the one country that has been able to withstand an international run has been our own, and there is all the more reason for being tempted to crow in view of the fact that we were handicapped in international payments by a one-way Hoover moratorium. In other words, we consented to forego the $250,000,000 due us for the current year on the allied war debt to the American Treasury, and we also agreed to forego the right to call short-term loans amounting to $350,000,000 under the so-called stand-still agreement preserving the credit status quo in Germany. This country, despite the stress of international depression and hysteria, has been willing to postpone incoming payments, yet has met any and all claims for withdrawals.

For historical purposes, we are not yet far enough away from the event to write "finis" to this extraordinary chapter in the annals of American finance. There is of course still an unknown quantity in the amount of gold foreigners can continue to demand through the sale of dollar securities owned abroad. I have made a check up on this and the best banking opinion is that recently foreign selling of dollar securities has been offset by an equivalent amount of foreign buying of dollar securities. Furthermore, the present alien holdings of American stocks, measured in dollars, is tremendously reduced from where it stood one, two and three years ago. Bankers who have looked into the situation assert that the chief non-resident holdings consist of foreign dollar bonds, and they contend that there is an automatic check on gold claims from this source in the fact that the market will take only a limited amount of such bonds each day.

BANKS ALERT

Meantime, it is said by spokesmen for the New York money market, our banks have not been asleep as to the possibilities of foreign raids, but have built up offsetting reserves in the form of accumulated foreign exchanges, which constitute claims on gold in France and other remaining gold standard countries.

As for a flight by Americans from the dollar, bankers discountenance this idea, and assert that the threat of it has disappeared since the quasi-budget balancing tax bill was passed by Congress, which ended the crisis. Bankers ask where one could safely flee from the dollar, which they contend is the strongest of existing currencies—the one great belligerent which resisted devaluation.

A base for domestic revival may be in the process of being laid in the strengthening of the credit situation. Meantime, business continues at low ebb. Historic events, such as the Lausanne conference on reparations, which starts on Thursday, and the Republican national convention, which opens on Tuesday, are overshanging the markets.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, June 13.—The bond market was in a waiting mood today and prices continued to follow a somewhat irregular trend. British 5½s were under pressure and French government bonds again declined. On the other hand, most of the Germans improved.

WALL STREET HEARS

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, June 13.—Raw sugar was quiet early today, but the undertone was firm. Futures opened at 1 point advance to 2 points decline, but generally lower under liquidation promoted by the disappointing London market. July contracts after selling at .68c advanced to .71c, while December sold up from .82c to .85c, with the general market at midday 1 to 2 points net higher.

Refined sugar was unchanged at 3.70c for fine granulated and while a moderate inquiry was reported, there was no disposition to buy ahead and demand was limited to nearby requirements only.

SOUTHWEST DRY SPELL ENDS

DODGE CITY, Kan., June 13.—Rains all over the West have at last broken the extended dry spell that had lasted for nearly a year in the wheat belt. This is the first rain in a year that was continuous for several days. However, this wet, soggy weather, which is so essential to make a crop in April or May, is exactly the opposite of the dry, windy June days needed to make a dry, snappy, harvestable harvest with dry, hard, high-protein wheat.

This is splendid weather to prepare ground for the 1933 harvest, but if this weather continues, the current Kansas wheat harvest can easily be reduced another 10,000,000 or 15,000,000 bushel from the officially-estimated 72,254,000 bushel June 1 prospect. Almost identical conditions obtain in the Texas Panhandle, in parts of Oklahoma and Colorado, and even portions of Nebraska.

Wall Street Spectator

Street Hears Congress Will Adjourn This Week

NEW YORK, June 13.—(INS.)—The market enters a new week with the situation dramatically changed by the events of the last few days.

It is true that leadership of the Auburn type is not the sort the conservative element wants; yet the fact remains it was enough to turn the trick.

Furthermore, it encouraged sponsors of other issues by showing them it was possible to put a stock up and get away with it. Stocks will probably meet more selling today, but if they can hold even at recessions a lot more courage will be reborn.

This week is extremely significant to the course of world affairs with the promise of far-reaching developments.

One important change is the more hopeful sentiment in London on the Lusanne Conference which starts Thursday.

Up to the last few days little had been expected, but now there is a growing belief an accord is possible with France showing more leniency to Germany. Indications that Austria will get a loan to save her from "the rocks" is significant since an Austrian moratorium seemed certain a week ago. On top of this is the drive in Congress for adjournment, with reports this may occur this week. Then too, it is becoming more apparent that whatever further legislation may be talked of little, if any, of this is likely to pass.

Nor should the significance of the turn in the prohibition situation be overlooked.

National Union Fire Cuts Capital Again

National Union Fire Insurance Company has called a special meeting of stockholders for August 4 for approval of a reduction in the capital stock from $2,750,000 to $1,100,000 and a proposed amendment to the charter of the company to change the par value of its capital stock from $50 to $20 per share. The difference in capital will be canceled.

This will make the second reduction in capital by the National Union within a period of several months, the last cut having been approved by stockholders on December 30, 1931. At that time the capital was reduced from $10,000,000, of which $5,500,000 was outstanding, to $2,750,000, and the par value of the stock changed from $100 to $50 per share. The difference was applied to surplus.

British Foreign Trade Off in May

LONDON, June 13.—The British Board of Trade reports imports into the United Kingdom during May amounted to £55,735,000, compared with £53,487,000 in April and £69,632,000 in May, 1931. Exports were £30,196,000, as against £34,781,000 in April and £33,895,000 in May a year ago. Re-exports were valued at £4,398,000 in May, compared with £4,641,000 in April and £5,746,000 a year previous.

Atchison Loadings Increase Sharply

CHICAGO, June 13.—During the week ended June 11, the Atchison handled 22,070 revenue freight cars compared to 18,907 cars handled in the week previous and 28,216 in the like 1931 period.

Tom Disapproves When Lynn Becomes Friendly With Former Show Girl

CHAPTER V.

Miss Le Grande swung her slender feet to the floor and smoothed back the damp hair from her low, broad forehead. "Musta done a flop," she muttered, disgusted. She added, long blue eyes sliding toward the nurse, "That was powerful stuff you handed me; packed a kick like an Army mule."

"Spirits of ammonia," said the nurse, smiling. "Feel all right again?"

"You girls don't eat breakfast properly or lunch," disapproved the nurse severely.

"We eat all day." Jennie told her. "The woman brings us breakfast when we get down to work. This morning I was late. Didn't get any. Had some lunch, though it didn't set any too well. Mob of buyers from the West had us run ragged, that's what," she added glumly. "I feel awful!"

"I'd take you home," Miss Raines said, worried. "only I promised Mary—and I have to get over to Jersey tonight to see my sister."

Lynn nodded to her imperceptibly and, turning, asked the other girl, "Where do you live?"

"Fifty-eighth, West," replied Jennie without much enthusiasm, "and I'd better be asking along."

"That's right on my way." I was going to take a taxi," lied Lynn. "I'll drop you."

"Sure you were going to?" asked Jennie shrewdly and regarded Lynn for the first time, a direct glance from sulky eyes. She was white under her rouge.

"Sure," said Lynn. "I'll look after you. Come along. Think you can make the elevators?"

Miss Raines said low "Thanks a lot," and Lynn nodded, smiling.

LEAVE BUILDING

The rest room was for all the women, so you met everybody there. Since the building opened, Lynn had spoken to dozens of girls who were not employed in the bank. Some she never knew by name. But she had never seen Jennie before.

"I don't approve of it," Sarah Dennet had said firmly, of the rest room. "It's bound to be a hotbed of gossip! And how do you know whom you'll meet?"

"Don't know. Don't care. I don't gossip, anyway." Lynn had laughed in answer.

"Hello, Kate," said Lynn now, as she and Jennie went out into the hall.

Kate Marple, filing clerk in Lynn's section, raised a plucked eyebrow. Where was Lynn going with the chorus beauty? she wondered.

"This is certainly white of you," said Jennie faintly, in the crowded elevator.

Lynn looked at her anxiously. Hope she's not going off again, she thought, and wished that Miss Raines had come with them. "You'll feel better in the air," she suggested.

They reached the street and hailed a cab. Jennie sank back against the upholstery gratefully.

"You must let me pay my part," she said, and peered into her purse. Then she laughed. "I can't, but pay day's not far off. I'll meet you up in the rest room then and square myself."

"Please," said Lynn, embarrassed, "I was going to taxi anyway."

"Well, if you really were," said Jennie, used to accepting things. She added, "I haven't seen you before. What's your name? Work in the building, don't you?"

VISITS GIRL'S APARTMENT

"Le Grande," she said. "I found it in a book. Pretty nifty?" She laughed. "Over in Brooklyn I'm still Jane Smith!"

When they reached her destination she asked, completely recovered:

"Must you go home now? I've got a date but it isn't till 7:30. I'd like you to see my place."

Lynn was curious. Moreover, she liked the girl with her graceful height and heavy wheaten hair and viking coloring. She was different from anyone Lynn had ever met. And there was no hurry to get back to the club. It was Tom's night at the Y. She wouldn't be seeing him. Nights bereft of Tom were blank.

She climbed the stairs with Jennie. It was a walk-up apartment house, rather dingy. But the little rooms into which Jennie admitted herself and Lynn were pleasant. A bed-sitting room, a tiny kitchen, a tiled bath. Very bright and gay with chintz and fluffy with far too many pillows and cluttered with long-legged dolls.

"You live alone?" asked Lynn, looking about. "It's very attractive."

"No; I've a girl friend. She's a model, too, but over in the regular wholesale district—coats and suits," explained Jennie. "Want a drink? I've got some gin."

"No, thanks," said Lynn, and added, "if you don't mind."

"Don't bother to apologize or explain," Jennie said easily. "Lord, my head aches! A little snort wouldn't do me any harm." She walked into the kitchenette and came back with some gin in a glass. "Here's how, and thanks a lot."

ERSTWHILE SHOW GIRL

She went into the bedroom, calling to Lynn to follow. She plucked a note from the mirror and frowned at the purple scrawl.

"Here's a swell set-up," said Jennie angrily. "Angie—that's the girl friend—has walked off with my heavy date for the evening! That leaves me flat," she mourned. Then she brightened. "Well, it's all in the day's work. He's a washout, anyway.

"Look here, what are you doing this evening? Stay with me, won't you? We'll send to the restaurant around the corner and get something to eat. My credit's good there. Do say you'll stay," urged Jennie. "I hate to be alone; it gives me the heebie-jeebies!"

Lynn stayed. The club was becoming more and more distasteful to her. It was fun fussing about the apartment, helping get supper—no, getting the supper from the scraps in the ice box supplemented by the restaurant service.

Jennie drifted about or lay at full length on the bed divan in the living room, smoking furiously. By the time Lynn left her, a little after 10, she had learned something of Jennie's background.

Twenty-six years old. Born in Brooklyn. A brief stage career—show girl. "But there's about a million of us out of work now," Jennie explained, "and this modeling business isn't so bad. You draw down your 40 per and you get your clothes cheap. When they're taken off the line you buy 'em, those you want. And sometimes you buy the ones that have been made to your measure—the sample gowns, I mean. Our house does evening and afternoon dresses. I get my suits and coats through Angie—the double-crossing little cat!" said Jennie.

BECOME GOOD FRIENDS

"It's all too deep for me," Jennie confessed. "I haven't the brains or the education. Not that I think brains matter getting along. At least they don't in my line of work. There was a model with us when I first came to Mme. Fanchon's. Good-looking," Jennie admitted, "but not any better-looking than I am. Now she has a couple of limousines for the heavy work and a nice little Rolls for tea parties. Two sable coats. It wasn't brains got her there," said Jennie.

"Did she get married?" asked Lynn innocently.

"Be yourself!" Jennie reproved, and reached for another cigaret.

Lynn flushed furiously with herself for her display of unsophistication. She said: "Well, it doesn't pay—that sort of thing."

"Doesn't it? Jennie glinted long blue eyes at her guest. "I'll say it does. Better than 40 a week, anyway. If you've sense enough to soak it away."

When Lynn left she had a promise from Jennie to come up to the club for dinner some night. "It's not like anything you ever saw," Lynn explained. "You'll get a big kick out of it."

Jennie did, a few days later. "I'd just as soon live in a jail!" she said after dinner, while she was inspecting Lynn's quarters.

"It's not so hot," Lynn admitted. "I'm getting fed up with it myself."

She found herself meeting Jennie now and then for luncheon in the cafeteria. And then Jennie and a Telephone Company engineer, a lanky, attractive lad named Howell, Lynn and Tom went to a movie together. This was repeated at intervals, though Tom protested after the first occasion, "Where did you pick her up, Lynn? She isn't your sort."

"What's the matter with her?" Lynn wanted to know, indignant.

She liked Jennie. There was something slow and expansive about her; something relaxing. She was almost bovine in her lazy, effortless movements; in her enjoyment of food; in her tremendous desire never to walk when she could ride, never to stand up when she could sit down, never to sit down when she could lie down. How she kept her slender figure was more than Lynn could fathom.

Then, too, she never posed, except perhaps when on display and then only physically. Jennie was frankly herself. "Take me or leave me," her attitude said, "and I don't care which you do. I'd rather sleep!"

"Oh, Tom, not Mrs. Socrates!"

"Why not; wasn't she a smart femme? Well, he thinks Jennie is," grinned Tom, "and in my opinion she is a perfect vacuum above the neck." He added, "I like girls with brains."

"Meaning me?"

"You? I don't know if you have any brains or not," said Tom, "and I don't care. I don't like you, anyway. I'm crazy about you. I love you to death!"

This was while bus riding on a freezing night. Lynn snuggled her pointed chin into her kitten collar. Her hand was warm, the hand which Tom held firmly in his overcoat pocket. It wasn't the first time he had told her that he loved her. It was about the hundred and first. But she wouldn't take him seriously, or so she told herself and him. Without much success, however.

Synopsis

Lynn Harding, 22, and beautiful, is ambitious for a career in the Brannart Bank and Trust Company, she lives at a girl's club but its institutional atmosphere annoys her. Breakfasting one morning, she meets Tom Shepard, confidential secretary to the vice president of the trust department. That evening she finds Tom waiting for her. He insists upon taking her to dinner. Tom gave up an engineering course at college to learn banking, but engineering is his hobby and at night he works at a radio station.

Now Go On

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Tries to Placate Mother-in-Law

It was not until my mother-in-law repeated her frantic query, "Oh! What is it?" that I was able to withdraw my attention from the distant pasture fence long enough to answer her. But even then I did not take my eyes from the moving figures of the men and boys of our family, engaged in the investigation which had sent first my mother-in-law and then me into unreasoning panic.

"I think everything's all right," I said tensely. "Please give me the field glasses!"

When there is anything vital to be done, my mother-in-law is a tower of strength. Her poise in emergencies is a quality which I immensely admire, and when she displays it I always find my irritation at her more disagreeable traits rapidly diminishing. Thus I forgot the harassing, almost harrowing experience to which she had just subjected me, and relaxed in the quirkness and sureness with which she slipped the field glasses into my hands.

"Don't tell me anything now," she said. "Just watch!"

"Winchell and Mr. Underwood have been looking at that white thing on the fence from every angle," I told her. "They haven't touched it, because they promised the little boys they wouldn't unless it was necessary; but they're so near to the fence that they cannot help but know exactly what it is; and they must have concluded that it is perfectly harmless, because they have wigwazzed to Dicky and the little boys, who are starting over there on a run."

BOYS PROTECTED

"And is that what you call being all right?" she demanded irately. "Those little lads are going to be the first to touch that thing, whatever it is. Suppose there isn't any infernal machine or any poison about it. You know what awful diseases those Orientals have sometimes. Suppose the children get leprosy or so...thing like that! Well! No doubt you'd be satisfied then!"

"Their hands won't come in contact with it in any case," I told her. "You know how carefully you have always drilled them about handling plants and weeds in the garden without gloves, or indeed anything that they don't know because of poison ivy among the growing things. I saw them put on their gardening gloves before they started, and the glasses just showed me that they still have them on."

I gave myself a mental accolade for my use of the phrase "you have always drilled them," as I saw her features relax their grimness, and a look of gratification creep into her eyes.

As a matter of fact, I was the one who always had insisted upon gardening gloves, because of Junior's susceptibility to poison ivy. But because she had suggested their use, at about the same time I had inaugurated them, she always had claimed the credit for the precaution—a credit which I was always careful to accord her.

MINGLED EMOTIONS

"W-e-ll," she reluctantly conceded, "if they have their garden gloves on, I'm not so worried. It just goes to show you, Margaret, how necessary it is to drill children in those little fundamental precautions.

"I never can be thankful enough that I thought of those gloves, and always insisted upon their wearing them when they went into the garden or the woods. They probably have saved the children from something very terrible."

I bit my lips to keep back the smile which involuntarily quirked them, even in these moments of stress and anxiety.

"Yes, this certainly proves the value of your drill," I said suavely, and she smiled proudly before demanding:

"What are they doing now?"

I put the field glasses to my eyes again and looked at the distant pasture fence, feeling a bit like Rebecca in the watch tower reporting to Ivanhoe as I did so.

"The little boys and Dicky have almost reached the fence," I told her. "Mr. Underwood and Winchell and Henry and William are on the other side waiting for them. Now the little boys have reached the fence, and they're all standing around talking."

"Why don't they do something?" she demanded irritably. "They've gone through all the monkey motions. Why don't they get the thing over with?"

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

What boy or girl hasn't at some time or other had the desire to see themselves in the movies?

Parker

Well, the children of East Liberty who attend the regular meetings of the Sun-Telegraph - Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club held every Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at the Enright Theater will have the opportunity of being in the movies next Saturday if they attend the Junior Komic Club meeting at the Enright.

Bill Zeiher, manager of the Enright, has arranged to have a movie cameraman at the meeting to take pictures of all the boys and girls who attend. This will be shown on the screen at the meeting a week from Saturday. So, if you want to see how you look in the movies, be sure to attend the meeting next Saturday.

How many members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club have entered the new Movie Lovers' Contest, which is now being conducted by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph? Members of the Junior Komic Club are eligible to enter this contest and they have a dandy chance to win a share of the $2,500 which the Sun-Telegraph is going to give away just for correctly naming the pictures that appear each day in the Sun-Telegraph.

NAME PICTURES

Each picture that appears represents the title of a motion picture and all that is necessary for you to do is to name them correctly. Clues to the pictures are printed each day in the classified Want-Ads of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Cut out and save each picture as it appears in the Sun-Telegraph until you have the complete set of 60 pictures. Then mail them to the Sun-Telegraph. Mother and Dad will be glad to help you and they can also enjoy the contest if they wish. Fill out the coupon printed in another part of today's Sun-Telegraph and mail it to the Secretary, Junior Komic Club, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and he will mail you some valuable information about the contest.

Evelyn Parker, 1306 Murray avenue, a member of the Munroe Chapter of the Junior Komic Club, was selected by Manager Joe Bivens as the "Official Junior Reporter for that chapter.

SECOND CANDIDATE

Now my friends, when I'm elected, home industry'll be protected
And our foreign trade it also will expand.
The government won't interfere—I wish to make this very clear—
With business . . . but industry will be planned.
And if just how I'll do these things you'd really like to know

THIRD CANDIDATE

All the problems others shy from just a challenge are to I, from Dawn to dawn my energy to them I'm giving;
And I've come to one conclusion I can state without confusion:
Every man should have the chance to earn a living.

FOURTH CANDIDATE

By me taxes will be lowered and I'll see that room and board
Is provided for each man who's unemployed.
All the laws I will enforce, though full liberty, of course,
By each man, woman and child will be enjoyed.
And if just how I'll do these things you say you'd like to know

Some Rate Comparisons

Why Do Pittsburghers Have to Pay More Than the People of Detroit and Cleveland?

The Philadelphia Company has virtually admitted that the rates charged by its subsidiaries for electric light and bus transportation are too high by offering to reduce them slightly if Council will agree not to press proceedings against the companies before the Public Service Commission.

There is some reason to believe the rates of the Philadelphia Company's gas and street railways subsidiaries are also too high.

The Detroit City Gas Company has voluntarily cut its rate for boilers and furnaces in house heating plants to 55 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, with a minimum charge of 80 cents; in Pittsburgh householders are charged 60 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, and the minimum is $1.

The Pittsburgh Railways Company has decided to discontinue its $1.50 weekly "pass" and so require a fare (10 cents, or three for a quarter) for every ride. The Cleveland Railway Company has just established a weekly "pass" costing only $1.25, good for seven days of unlimited riding from 12:01 a. m. Sunday to the same time the next Sunday on every street car and motor coach (except express) throughout the 400 miles of street car lines and 85 miles of motor coach routes that comprise the system.

No wonder Pittsburghers, learning of the rates charged in these other cities, feel that they are unfairly treated!

Mothers' Aid Curtailed

Cut in Appropriations for Poor Widows' Families Is Another Reason for an Extra Session.

There was widespread rejoicing when the welfare organizations succeeded through the help of Senator Frank J. Harris in getting the Legislature to appropriate enough money to take care of all the applicants on the waiting list of the Mothers' Assistance Fund.

The rejoicing has turned into gloom, for the good that Senator Harris accomplished has been partly undone by the cut of 25 per cent in the appropriation, necessitated by the state's financial stringency.

The contributions to poor widows and their families of small children are to be curtailed that money may be available for distribution to other needy families under the Talbot act. Peter is robbed to pay Paul! A silly procedure!

The cut in the appropriation must be restored by the Legislature at a special session.

If necessary let more of the unessential governmental activities of the commonwealth be suspended to provide the money.

A New City Organist

The Music Director at Carnegie Institute Has an Opportunity for Fine Service.

Col. Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute, announces the appointment of Marshall Bidwell, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., as organist and director of music, in succession to Dr. Charles Heinroth.

Mr. Bidwell won the place in competition with 16 other organists from all parts of the United States; so there is no question of his ability. He is municipal organist of Cedar Rapids and organist of Coe College.

Dr. Heinroth and his predecessors set high standards of musicianship and culture, which Mr. Bidwell no doubt will maintain. Nothing cheap or trashy ever found a place on their programs, yet they found room for tuneful classics that could be appreciated by anyone.

The new city organist has an opportunity for fine service to the people of Pittsburgh in his contributions to entertainment and culture.

Unwarranted Objections

Opponents of Speaker Garner's Relief Program Are Playing Politics with Human Misery.

Speaker Garner's program to relieve the unemployed by providing them with public work meets the characteristic Hoover obstinate opposition to anything which benefits the general public and does not merely finance the financiers.

This opposition takes form first in the misstatement that the Garner program providing for the immediate expenditure of $1,200,000,000 in federal public works consists of pork-barrel projects which the government has not approved and the country does not need.

Congressman Vinson, of Kentucky, refuted this untruth by showing that most of the projects in this program have been recommended to Congress by the War, Treasury and Postoffice Departments under Republican administrations as public works needed by the country.

Second, that the Garner relief program would unbalance the budget.

This misstatement was refuted by Speaker Garner weeks ago when he said:

"This relief bill does not interfere with the balancing of the budget; it provides the tax (one-fourth of 1 cent per gallon on the sale of gasoline) necessary to pay its own way and will not add to the existing deficit."

Third, that the Garner relief program would not provide employment for the unemployed.

This very obvious falsehood is refuted by authoritative estimates from the executive departments, reinforced by builders and contractors the country over. These estimates show:

That 76 cents out of every dollar expended on rivers and harbors and flood control projects goes to labor directly and indirectly.

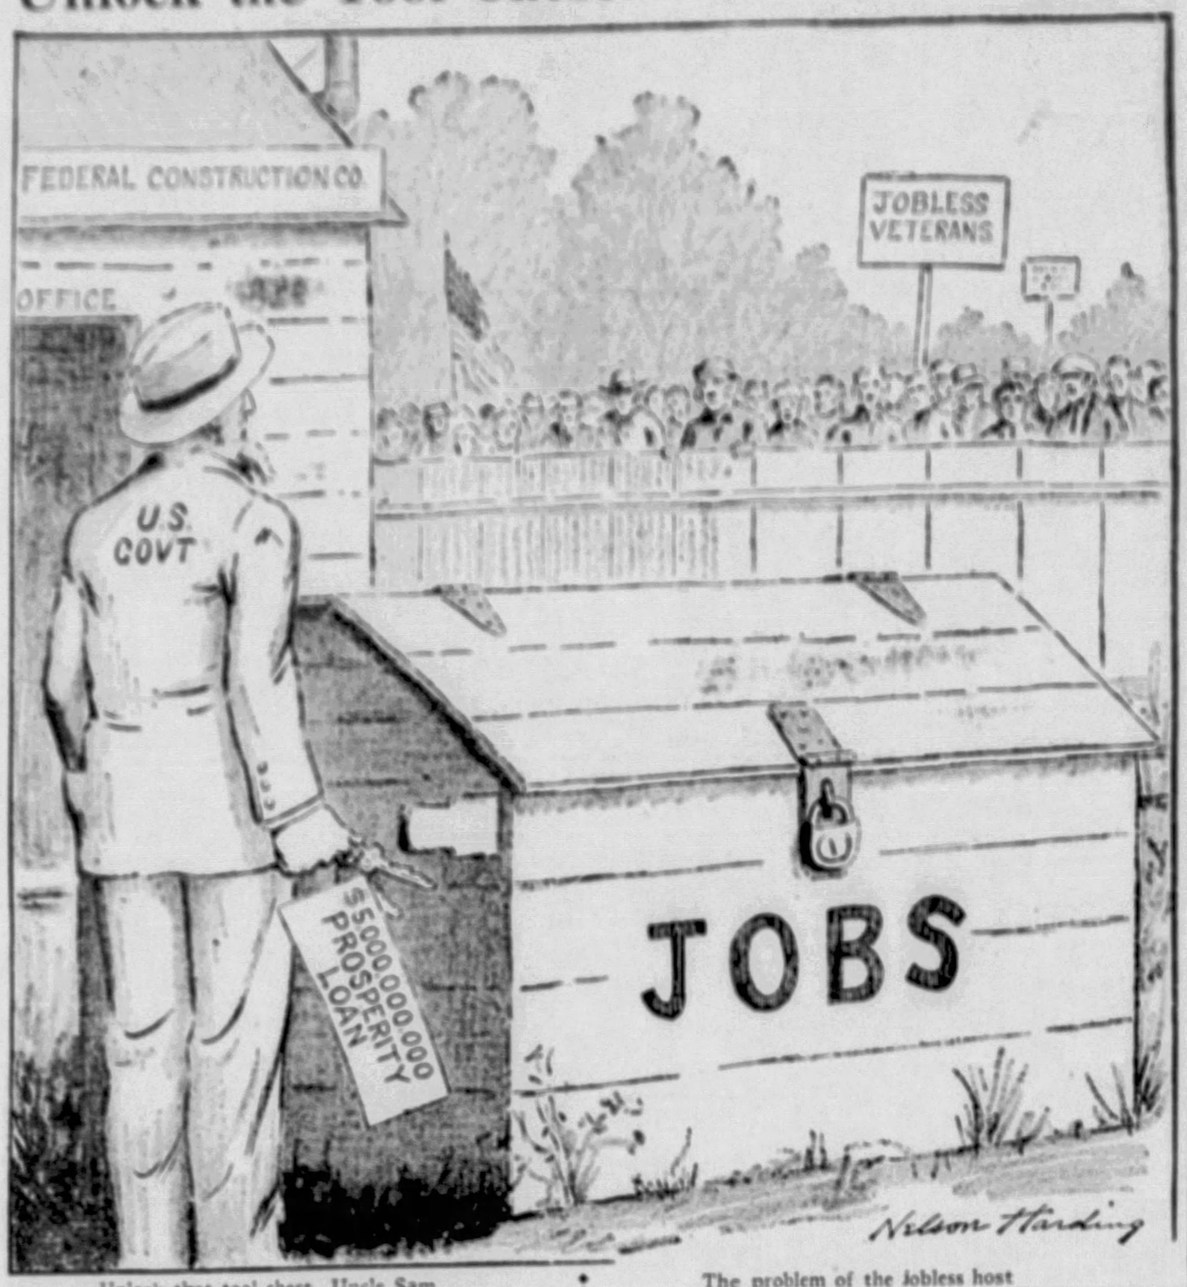
Because the House, under the Democratic leadership of Speaker Garner, has adopted a program of unemployment relief of the sort proposed by Mr. Hoover as Secretary of Commerce, and by Mr. Hoover as a candidate for President, and by Mr. Hoover in his inaugural address, but not executed in Presidential performances, his ventriloquial apologists stultify both him and themselves by shouting "pork-barrel!"

The situation would be one to be laughed at if the effect of this Hoover obstinate opposition to measures for the general good was not so dangerous to the peace and welfare of the nation.

Unlock the Tool Chest! -:- -:-

By Nelson Harding



Unlock that tool chest, Uncle Sam,
And hand the tools around.
It's work that's wanted by those men
Now sleeping on the ground.

The problem of the jobless host
That tramped across the land
Is not a hopeless one to solve—
The key is in your hand!

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Girl on the Job

"Shall I marry a home-girl or a business girl? Which type will make a man happier?" writes "Doubtful Thomas."

In the first place, my dear boy, you will marry the girl who happens to attract you at the psychological moment, when you are in the marrying mood, whether she be a hard-boiled Hannah or a soft-eyed Sallie—whether she be plain or beautiful, brilliant or dull, the right one or the wrong. So, nothing that I can say will change your fate. It is written.

But the question you ask is one that every young man seems to be turning over in his mind, these days. Whether the girl who makes a living or the girl who makes a home; is the happier choice as a life-mate.

It seems to me that the man who finds a working-partner is lucky. Even if the old-fashioned "home-girl" were not already almost as rare as the buffalo, the businessgirl would be the better bet.

Any girl who gets up at 7 o'clock six mornings a week will soon discover that she can't stay up until 3 a. m. at jazz parties and make the grade. And she will not try to drag the man she marries around to night clubs and dances after a hard day's work.

Moreover, a girl who has spent a few years in a downtown business office has a better understanding of MEN and a lot more sympathy with them. She has few illusions about them, and all the feminine whims and caprices with which a woman can torment a man have been long since smoothed out of her by the steam roller of office discipline.

WORK is a tonic that builds character, strengthens the mind and sweetens the disposition. It takes the jaded, world-weary look out of a bored young woman's eyes and puts a light of enthusiasm into them that no blue pencil can dim.

If a man happens to be the sort who believes that "woman's place is in the home," he can find a "home-girl" just as easily in a business office as in a beauty parlor or a ballroom. And the man who marries a businessgirl will always find her on the JOB—whether it's in the kitchen or at the desk.

* * *

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 13.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Lay late. By post a brave autographed etching of Henry L. Doherty, which goes on my workshop wall. So across town and fell in step with George Rector and his lady.

In the afternoon motoring with the Ray Longs to their broad acres near Greenwich. Afterward circling about to the Gene Tunneys, but they away, and played with their dogs. So back to the city and to one of those teas someone is forever giving for Daniel Frohman.

Worked awhile but with a great weariness, and to Clara Walsh's, and Dr. Romano, an Arab of 70, looking not more than 40, performed evanishments and mental wizardries. Also telling John Charles Thomas, Wellington Cross, Milton Green and me how to thicken our thinning locks with an iodine dilution.

George Rector, now white-haired and suggesting Lloyd George in miniature, has found an outlet for his knowledge of cuisine in radio broadcasting. Twenty years ago he was a striking figure among restaurateurs. Then was launched the ambitious hotel project known as Rector's, which later became The Claridge, and resulted in the collapse of the fortunes of both himself and his illustrious father, Charles. In his day to be recognized by George Rector and piloted to a choice table was the supreme token of Broadway distinction.

There has always been a warm spot in my sentimental remembrances for George Rector. As a fledgling journalist to the metropolis I took my wife, then a bride, to Rector's for dinner one evening. We entered timidly and were immediately bewildered to discover ourselves the only persons not in formal attire. Sensing our confusion, George, to whom we were just two country folks, came in person and escorted us to a table in the inner circle, helped us master intricacies of the enormous menu, and as a final touch, sent over a silver-bucketed bottle of champagne with his compliments. My wife did not touch it, but I could not bear thought of such magnificent hospitality going to waste. And I did exit walking an imaginary tight wire! Nor have I forgotten the flippancy of some white-shirt as I stiffly rounded a turn to the check room. He called out: "Hold her, Newt!"

As stay-outs wind up these days at Reuben's, they wound up at Jack's in the Rector days. In the ran-tan of the Battling Nelson Grill, I first met the late and lamented Tad. He was harmonizing to Hype Igoe's cigar box ukulele and missing for the one thousand and nth time the last train to Great Neck. Wilson Mizner was about, too. He had just married the rich Mrs. Yerkes and gone social. He came in once after midnight dressed in full fig. Some one inquired where he had been. "Scuffling the pumps," he replied—his slang for dancing that only the other week appeared in a drawing room talkie.

Cartoonist Dorman Smith sends a listing of villages, suggesting a mandolin and guitar obbligato, clustering the roadsides north of the Golden Gate: Sausalito, Manzanita, Corte Madera, Tocaloma, Ignatia, Nicasio, San Geronimo, Laganitas, San Anselmo and Bolinas. My suburban name choice is for that suburban Elysium in Connecticut called Green Farms.

A 10 o'clock nightly spectacle along Broadway is the pair of youthful blind men, with smoked glasses. They tap canes in the sing-song monotony of the proof-reader in their walk from the subway to their "pitches" to wait the after-theater crowd. And chatter and laugh like two lads on way from school.

A piano tuner at the door twice today insists he received two phone calls to visit this apartment at once. If the calls were sent out by the family across the hall, well, a fellow has a right to chord a little in his own home.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Did you go faint with horror when you read of the discovery of that little murdered body in the woods near Hopewell? Were you sick with rage when you thought of the shame that baby's death put on the nation?

One little lad dead, and the whole world mourning. You can't seem to put it out of your head, can you? Then get this straight, wherever it will hit you hardest.

BY FALL THE SOIL OF AMERICA WILL HOLD THOUSANDS OF TINY BODIES LIKE THAT; BODIES OF LITTLE STARVED CHILDREN, MURDERED BY OUR INDOLENCE, OUR INDIFFERENCE!

Oh, we won't mean to do it. If right at this moment you saw a baby hungry you'd give your last dime to feed him. You'd dream about him all night, wake up weeping, rouse the neighborhood to bring his family aid.

If you saw a baby starving, that's what you'd do.

BUT WHAT ARE YOU DOING FOR THE STAVING BABIES YOU CAN'T SEE? Are you starting something to help them? Will you even acknowledge that they exist; or do you thing it's all "just newspaper talk?"

Here's a letter which should make you acknowledge that they aren't just newspaper talk.

Dear Miss Robinson:

"I don't know why I'm writing to you, except that I've just seen something that I must get off my chest to someone.

I have just returned from a short visit to a town where I lived for years. While there I looked up a childhood girl friend, and thank God I did! She is 22, her husband is 23, and they have a sickly boy 4 years old. The husband hasn't worked for two years, and they have no one who could help them.

Now this is the main part of the story. The county is giving them $2.50 a week to live on, and have for some months, and they have lived on it. How? I don't know.

Now, I make $20 a week and have no dependents, and will from now on take care of this family, but what about the thousands of other families? Are they, too, to live on this amount? Can't something be done?

I'm heartsick about this whole thing. I'm 24 and have helped here and there all along, but still have never before really known just what this period of unemployment means.

Well, now I feel better. I guess I'm writing you, Elsie, because my friends would never believe me to be this serious. I'm supposed to be one of those "wild things" with nothing under the hat. If something only could be done to give jobs to these people! This particular young man would do ANYTHING to earn money; but there just isn't ANYTHING to be done.

Sincerely,
MARY BLACK.

Three people, one of them a sick child, trying to live on $2.50 a week! Millions of people trying to live on that, or less. By the time this is printed, many of those millions won't have even that, with city after city going broke.

THEY ARE CLEAN, HONEST, SELF - RESPECTING AMERICAN CITIZENS, WHO LOATHE CHARITY AS YOU AND I WOULD LOATHE IT—WHO ASK ONLY A CHANCE TO WORK!

YES, IT CAN!

Those people could be put to work within two weeks!

Hunger could be stopped, unemployment would be ended, the wheels of industry would be roaring, prosperity would be booming—WITHIN TWO WEEKS!

AND PROOF OF THE NEED THAT THIS BE DONE HAS BEEN BEFORE CONGRESS FOR MONTHS.

Start work going! No charity about that. No dole. A straight, business-like course such as we would have to pursue if we were facing any other emergency.

SOONER OR LATER WE'LL HAVE TO DO IT, ANYWAY; BUT BY THAT TIME HOW MANY BABIES WILL BE DEAD?

AND WHO'LL BE RESPONSIBLE IF THEY ARE?

Write your Congressmen. Write your Senators. Tell them you want the unemployed set to work. Tell them to get busy and vote to that end.

OR WE'LL BE ISSUING BONDS TO BUY BABIES' GRAVES!

Flawless Reasoning of John D. Jr. on Repeal Sways a Whole Nation

By BAINBRIDGE COLBY

THE declaration of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in favor of prohibition repeal had the instant and widespread effect which no statesmanlike an utterance fully deserves.

I use the word statesmanlike advisedly. It dealt with a question which is essentially a problem of government and public policy. It proceeded upon a thorough, most a partial, survey of the problem. In tone, dispassionate and objective, its style was simple and direct, its reasoning, flawless.

Mr. Rockefeller has done the country an inestimable service, which no other man occupied a position to render.

His philanthropic labors for mankind have taken the form of moral and financial support for all good causes. The sincerity of his espousal of prohibition has never been questioned. His loyalty has never wavered.

BUT he has not closed his eyes nor his mind. He perceives, and makes regretful admission "that drinking generally has increased; that the speakeasy has replaced the saloon, not only unit for unit, but probably twofold, if not threefold; that a vast army of law-breakers has been recruited and financed on a colossal scale; that many of our best citizens, piqued at what they regarded as an infringement of their private rights, have openly and unabashed disregarded the Eighteenth Amendment; that as an inevitable result respect for all law has been greatly lessened and crime has increased to an unprecedented degree."

These words show him to be a realist, and such, every man must be who deals with a problem of government. He must judge a public measure by its results—the merits of a law by its effects. Public rejection, on a sufficiently great scale, is tantamount to repeal, and this, a realistic thinker, as distinguished from the purist or enthusiast, sees and admits.

As Abraham Lincoln said:

"Public opinion settles every question; any policy to be permanent must have public opinion at the bottom—something IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE PHILOSOPHY OF THE HUMAN MIND AS IT IS."

IT is not surprising that a change of attitude so significant as Mr. Rockefeller's should influence others who have been equally loyal to prohibition, but recognize its deplorable results.

John R. Mott, president of the International Missionary Council and the World's Alliance of the Young Men's Christian Association, chooses this time to declare in favor of a resubmission of the prohibition question to the people.

He cites as one reason "the change of mind on the part of so many good men like Rockefeller," in whose sincerity and intellectual honesty he professes his confidence.

William G. McAdoo on the same day adds his influential name to those favoring a settlement of the question by a vote of the people.

Mr. McAdoo's suggestion of a special national election for this purpose seems less direct as a mode of procedure than Dr. Butler's proposal that Congress submit the question of repeal to the people, for ratification by popular conventions, under Article V of the Constitution.

AND WHY NOT?

To quote Lincoln again:

"Why should there not be a patient confidence in the ultimate justice of the people? Is there any better or equal hope in the world!"

These words are from the first inaugural—that memorable utterance, which will be forever a light unto our footsteps.

BLAME FOR FAILURES

By Winifred Black

What's your name? And how do you spell it?

Is there a C or an S in it? And is the C at the beginning of one of your names, or in the middle of it.

And how about that S? Does it come before a consonant, like H, or L, or T?

Important? Why, it is vital.

If the S is in the right place, and you have the correct number of E's or A's or I's with it, you're all right. You'll have a happy childhood, a gorgeous youth and a happy, successful middle life, with lots of friends, all the money you can spend and a perfectly good reputation from one end of the world to the other.

If, on the other hand, those vowels are in the wrong place in your name you might as well give up right now.

You'll sprain your ankle, or twist your knee, or fall off a gate post and hurt your back before you are 10 years old, and after you are 10 you'll know every kind of accident that any surgeon ever heard of since there's been such a thing as a surgeon.

No, you won't die young. You'll wish you had, maybe, but you won't. No such luck! You'll be old, and ill, and tired, and bad-tempered when you die, and nobody will love you enough to send a wreath to your funeral.

Will it be your fault? Not the least little bit in the world. It's the fault of your name, and the way you spell it, and that's all there is to it.

What! Didn't you know that?

Have you labored under the delusion that Abraham Lincoln would have been a good man and a great man no matter how he spelled his name?

Have you cherished the forlorn hope that you yourself can make or break your own life?

Have you depended upon your will, your courage, your stout heart and your quick, honest brain to make a place for yourself in the world?

So inconvenient, too! You have to take the blame for your own folly, your own stupidity and your own laziness; and it's such a nuisance taking blame, isn't it?

Why do it, when you can just lay everything that's wrong in your life to some measly little letter that happens to be displaced in your name?

I've noticed one queer thing about these new "scientists" and their followers. Nobody ever arises in one of their meetings and tells what a success he has made in life, all because his name happened to be spelled right.

Well, I suppose one excuse is as good as another when it comes to accounting for failures, disappointments and miseries of various sorts.

Colors—wouldn't they do once in a while? Maybe I would be rich, successful and well beloved if I had black eyes instead of blue ones.

That's a good idea. I think I'll cling to it. It would sort of bolster up my poor old sense of importance, wouldn't it?
